Detroit Rally Defeats Cardinals In Thriller

Kaline Gets Clutch Hit In 5-3 Victory

DETROIT (AP)—Al Kaline, who sweated out 16 lean years to get into a Detroit World Series, kept the Tigers alive today with a two-run single in the seventh inning for a 5-3 victory that sent the Series back to St. Louis for a sixth game Wednesday.

Mickey Lolich, the only Tiger winner in the first four games, came through again despite a heavy bombing in the first inning when Orlando Cepeda's two-run homer capped a three-run spurt.

It was Mickey who opened the winning rally in the seventh with a single when Detroit bounced back as they had done all season. Then Lolich closed out a ninth inning threat by fanning Roger Maris and throwing out Lou Brock, who had collected three hits earlier.

The sellout crowd of 53,634 gave Kaline a standing ovation when he went to his right field position at the start of the eighth after his big single off relief pitcher Joe Hoerner with the bases loaded and the Tigers trailing 3-2. Norm Cash then knocked in the third run of the inning with a single.

The clubs will take Tuesday off for travel before picking it up with the sixth game, with St. Louis leading 3-2, in Busch Stadium Wednesday afternoon.

The Tigers, fighting desperately to avoid elmination, clawed back with two runs in the fourth inning and finally burst through for three in the seventh when they knocked out Nelson Briles and racked up loser Hoerner.

NINTH INNING

Lolich came through dramatically in the ninth inning when the always-dangerous Cardinals stirred up a fuss. Tim McCarver opened the ninth with a single to center but pinch hitter Phil Gagliano flied out. Ed Spiezio, another pinch hitter, fouled off eight, including two foul tips that catcher Bill Freehan failed to hold, and then singled to left.

With the tying run on base, Manager Ed Schoendienst sent Maris up to the plate to bat for pitcher Ron Willis. Maris, a bench warmer today who will retire after the Series, struck out.

The Cards still were alive with Brock, who had 11 hits in 21 previous at bats, the batter. Brock fouled one to left, took a ball and then tapped back weakly to pitcher Lolich on a checked swing, ending the exciting game.

CHILLING BREEZE

Bright sunshine and a chilling breeze provided a contrast to Sunday's rainy, sloppy game. There were many exciting plays and dramatic moments in the best played game of the Series to date.

Brock was thrown out trying to steal by Freehan in the third and was nailed at the plate, trying to score from second on Julian Javier's single in the fifth. A perfect throw from Willie Horton to Freehan got Brock, who did not slide.

Dick McAuliffe also came through with two fine defensive plays, taking Brock's sizzler in the seventh and throwing him out and grabbing Flood's smash in the eighth in time to force Javier at second.

It started out like another chapter of a Series that has been lopsided for the Cards. Brock, hitting .500 coming into the game, opened the attack on

NEW CONFIDENCE

Thieu Fears No Full Bomb Halt

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said today the enemy has lost the military part of the Vietnam War and has turned to politics to recoup.

He made the statement at a Senate reception after telling the National Assembly the enemy has failed in every attempt to bring "disastrous consequences" to South Vietnam in 1968.

"They know they cannot win militarily so they move to the political phase," Thieu commented to newsmen. "Now they would like to use what they still have to consolidate the political area."

It was the first time Thieu has stated flatly that he thinks the enemy has lost militarily. He has repeatedly stressed that the South Vietnamese people and government should gird for a political struggle that would follow the military battles.

Theiu said the enemy was preparing for the political fight by training more cadre "among the people in the countryside." He added that he had no fear President Johnson would call a full bombing halt over North Vietnam before the Nov. 5 U.S. presidential election.

"I don't have a worry with President Johnson because he has discussed it at length with me," he said.

Thieu also said he did not think any of the U.S. presidential candidates would call a full bombing halt without demanding reciprocal action from Hanoi. They know, he said, that a nonreciprocal bombing halt "would bring more disadvantages than advantages."

Theiu said there were no plans for an allied summit meeting before the U.S. elections, but said he would "like to meet with President Johnson and the elected president to discuss the relations of our two countries."

Thieu said his government was determined to have its armed forces take over a major share of the fighting "to help the allied countries to solve their problems about sending men to Vietnam." He reiterated his belief that allied forces could begin a gradual phaseout at the end of 1969.

In his speech to the National Assembly, marking the first anniversary of the creation of that body, Thieu said the only way peace can be realized is for Hanoi to acknowledge its aggression and agree to abandon its attempts to take over South Vietnam.

"The most favorable way to end this war is for both sides to scale down the level of hostilities leading gradually to a cease-fire effectively controlled and guaranteed," he said.

19-Year-Old Killed During Horseplay With Loaded Gun

Horseplay with a .22-caliber revolver ended tragically Saturday night when a Terra Linda youth was accidentally shot by his brother, sheriff's deputies reported.

Dead is Neal Joseph Hoskins 19 of 589 Woodbine Drive, a gasoline service station attendant, who suffered a chest wound at 10:30 p.m. in the living room of his home.

The Hoskins brothers were struggling over the .22-caliber revolver at their home when Nicholai wrested it away from Neal, deputies said.

Nicholai Hoskins told deputies he recalled pulling the trigger twice, once while it wasn't pointed and then again when it fired.

Richard W. Madigan, coroner's deputy, said the bullet apparently entered under the left armpit and exited at the right side of the chest.

Two witnesses, William George Woodley of 326 Carillo Drive, San Rafael, and Timothy Kevin Devoy of 28 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia, told deputies that while the struggle was going on they were yelling, trying to warn Nicholai that the gun was loaded.

Woodley said while the group was watching television he put a shell in the revolver he bought that day and Neal took it and was playing with it, spinning the cylinder.

Nicholai Hoskins said he and his brother struggled over the weapon after his brother had pointed it at him and had pulled the trigger.

Supreme Court Begins Session With Justice Warren Presiding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court started its 1968-69 term today with the same membership confronting issues ranging from the presidential election to the Vietnam War.

Chief Justice Earl Warren was back in his usual place despite his announced intention to retire, since the Senate failed to confirm as his successor Justice Abe Fortas, nominated by President Johnson in late June.

As the court opened, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he had heard nothing to indicate Johnson will submit a new nomination for chief justice.

However, rumors continued to circulate that Johnson will nominate Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., for the post, but a spokesman for Hart said he knew of no basis for the speculation. Hart was a leader in the attempt to secure Fortas' confirmation.

The customary brief opening-day session was expanded to allow arguments by supporters of third party presidential candidate George Wallace, who is trying to get his name on the November ballot in Ohio. Three hours were alloted for this plus a related case involving the Socialist Labor Party.

Then the nine justices were to go into private conferences either late today or tomorrow, to vote on the Wallace case and to take up the several hundred appeals which have come in during the long summer recess. This probably will take all week.

The justices also will review early in the term the recent action of Justice William O. Douglas in temporarily stopping the shipment to Vietnam of 256 men in five Army Reserve units who are challenging the legality

House Panel Cuts Redwood Park Funds By $39 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee recommended today an appropriation of $53 million for land acquisition for the new Redwood National Park in Northern California.

The amount, included in a supplemental money bill for the current fiscal year, represented a $39 million reduction from President Johnson's budget request.

The administration had asked advance appropriation of the full $92 million authorized for the purchase of private timberland for the 58,000-acre park in authorizing legislation signed into law only last Wednesday.

In reducing the cash allowance, the committee said it was evident no consideration had been given to the extent of savings possible through exchange of some 13,000 acres of national forest redwood timber and other federal lands in California.

Of the $53 million, the committee allotted $46 million to pay for lands which became federal property automatically last Wednesday under a declaration of legislative taking. This included the land within the park boundary belonging to four large timber companies, all other tracts of more than 50 acres and tracts of 50 acres or less occupied primarily for non-residential or non-agricultural purposes.

The remaining $7 million was alloted for the acquisition of private property in the park not affected by the legislative taking.

The land acquisition allowances include $3 million for administrative expenses including timber appraisals and surveys to determine exact park boundaries.

Apollo Astronauts Pass Physicals

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The three Apollo 7 astronauts today breezed through a lengthy pre-flight physical examination in which they were pronounced in excellent shape for their 11-day space flight scheduled to start Friday.

Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham were examined by a team of three doctors for nearly five hours.

Draft Record Burners Go On Trial

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Supporters of nine war protesters charged with burning draft records marched three miles through Baltimore today—carrying signs and shouting—to protest the trial of the defendants.

Selection of a jury to hear the trial in U.S. District Court began about 9:30 a.m. (PDT) after the nine were arraigned in the federal court on state charges growing out of the same incident.

LINE STREETS

Thousands lined the streets as the marchers arrived for a rally at War Memorial Plaza, across the street from City Hall and one block from the Post Office building where the trial is being held.

Spectators jeered the 1,500 marchers but there was no violence.

At the outset of the trial, federal prosecutors dropped the conspiracy charge against the nine Catholic pacifists, two of them priests. William Kunstler, one of five defense attorneys, said the defense would take no part in jury selection but he did not say why.

THE DEFENDANTS

On trial are Rev. Philip F. Berrigan, 44, a Josephite priest from Baltimore; Thomas P. Lewis, 27, a Baltimore artist; Rev. Daniel Berrigan, 47, brother of Philip; Brother David Darst, 26, a teacher at St. Louis, Mo.; John Hogan, 33, an ex-Maryknoll brother.

Others are Thomas Melville, 37, an ex-Maryknoll priest; his 38-year-old wife, Marjorie, an ex-Maryknoll nun; George Mische, 33, a Washington, D.C., peace organizer; and Mary Moylan, a Washington, D.C., nurse.

The federal court took temporary jurisdiction of the state case until a federal verdict is reached, so the state arraignment could be held in federal court. The state charges against the nine are sabotage, robbery of a draft board clerk, larceny and destruction of property.

The march by supporters of the "Catonsville Nine" began at Wyman Park near Johns Hopkins University.

There were few Negroes in the group. About 60 of them were priests.

LBJ Will Make Humphrey Pitch

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Johnson will make a nationwide radio address Thursday night in behalf of the Humphrey-Muskie ticket, the White House said today.

The White House said the Presdent will speak for about 10 minutes at 7:45 p.m. EDT over the National Broadcasting Co. radio network.

San Geronimo Deputy Fired By Mountanos

Resident Deputy Sheriff Weldon C. Travis of San Geronimo Valley, who has been a deputy for 4 and one-half years, was suddenly fired by Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos Friday.

The reason for the dismissal was not disclosed.

Mountanos and Undersheriff Sidney Stinson conferred with the county counsel this morning to prepare formal charges against Travis and file it with the Marin County Personnel Commission.

Travis, 30, is president of the Marin County Deputy Sheriff's Association.

Travis, who lives with his wife in Nicasio, said he has not decided on an attorney and had no comment, except to say he felt the dismissal was "not justified."

Travis said he has not decided yet whether he will ask for an open or a closed hearing before the personnel commission.

Deputy Council Richard V. Godino said he will prepare papers to file with the personnel commission this afternoon.

Travis has 10 days to reply and to ask for a hearing. The hearing must be held within 20 days after that request. The decision of the personnel commission is appealable to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Godino said the deputy has the option of having the hearing open or closed.

Population Over 7 Million Mark

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles County has reached a total of 7,119,184 population, but the rate of growth is slowing down.

The Regional Planning Commission said today the county's population increased 16,287 in the second quarter of the year — a growth rate much less than in the early 1960s.

Officials said several factors have slowed county growth, including decreases in birth rates and in migration from other areas.

The City of Los Angeles gained 28,683 residents in the year ended last July 1 for a total of 2,841,541.

The 1968 and 1967 figures for other cities include Glendale 137,481 and 137,048, Long Beach 383,378 and 378,528, Pasadena 125,766 and 125,544, Torrance 133,847 and 131,981.

Allies Find Red Weapons In New Push

SAIGON (AP) — Thousands of allied toops scoured the battle-scarred mountain valleys near Khe Sanh and the jungled foothills southwest of Da Nang today in new offensives aimed at spoiling enemy attacks.

Task forces of U.S. Marines and American and South Vietnamese infantrymen met little resistance, but continued to turn up valuable enemy munitions stockpiles, probably hindering or even delaying any offensive plans.

CENTER PORTION

One stockpile found two miles below the center portion of the demilitarized zone yielded 200 rounds of 152mm artillery ammunition plus 100 fuses. This was significant because it marked the first known time in the war that 152mm ammunition had been found in South Vietnam, indicating that the enemy might be planning to try to move big Russian-made guns into the South. The 152s, the biggest in the enemy's arsenal, can fire a 90-pound missile 10.5 miles.

Military spokesmen, in delayed reports, announced the loss of four more American aircraft to enemy ground fire over the past three days.

OBSERVATION PLANE

They included an observation plane and a reconnaissance helicopter helping the allied ground troops search for the enemy, a Navy A7 Corsair fighter-bomber downed over North Vietnam, and an assault helicopter hit near the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon. One American was reported killed and five wounded and seven South Vietnamese soldiers wounded.

One of the observation planes was shot down yesterday 500 yards south of the abandoned Marine base at Khe Sanh, the pilot and artillery observer were unhurt.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Because of the weather, 16 Belgians died in their homes over the weekend from carbon monoxide poisoning, authorities said today.

New Teacher Halt Looms In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Most of the city's 1.1 million public school pupils were in school today as a third teacher strike loomed. But rain kept demonstrators away from a controversial Brooklyn school district.

There had been fear of trouble in the experimental Ocean Hill-Brownsville district after the central Board of Education suspended a local governing board for 30 days in a move to forestall another teacher walkout.

The local board's refusal to take back about 80 teachers it had ordered transferred to other districts set off both previous teacher strikes.

The suspension puts Supt. of Schools Bernard E. Donovan in direct charge of Ocean Hill-Brownsville's eight schools.

At the district's junior high school, where disturbances have frequently occurred as parents and other demonstrated against actions of the central board and the teacher's union, teachers and pupils entered without incident while police ringed the building.

Later a number of teachers hired by the local board to replace the transferred teachers left the school to attend a meeting in a nearby church, while their pupils were sent to an auditorium.

The purpose of the meeting was not immediately disclosed.

Arson Suspected In $100,000 Vegas Fire

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—An arsonist may have set a $100,000 fire that raced through the Flamingo Hotel's convention hall early yesterday, routing gamblers from a casino and diners from a restaurant.

Leroy Hawks, chief investigator for the Las Vegas Fire Prevention Bureau, said "certain discrepancies exist concerning the cause" of the 5 a.m. blaze,

Hawks said investigators were puzzled as to how the fire started in what was supposed to be a locked and empty convention hall periodically patrolled by watchmen.

He said a security check of the hall was made two hours before the fire was discovered and no smoke was detected. Firemen who arrived at the scene said a couch located in a hallway some 20 feet from the main fire was in flames.

Sheriff's deputies were checking a report that an unidentified man told two tourists at McCarren Airport he had started the fire. Authorities said the statement could have been a prank but they were continuing efforts to locate the man.

Hawks said faulty electrical wiring was ruled out as a possible cause of the blaze, which started behind a stage in the south end of the recently-renocated hall.

Thousands of gallons of water from the automatic sprinkler system drenched furniture in the hall and gaming tables and carpets in the casino.

Authorities herded gamblers clutching their chips and mini-skirted waitresses outside and evacuated several hundred customers from the second-floor Flamingo Skyroom, a glassed in cocktail lounge and dancing area.

One fireman and an employe were treated for smoke inhalation and several other persons were given oxygen. No serious injuries were reported.

Rusk, Gromyko Call Dinner Talks Useful

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko exchanged views on a broad range of world problems last night during a three-hour dinner meeting that both sides called useful.

The meeting was the first extensive conference between the two diplomats since Soviet troops invaded Czechoslovakia Aug. 20 and put a chill in international relations. They had met informally Wednesday at the Soviet Mission to discuss the Middle East situation.

TALKS USEFUL

Gromyko, coming from Rusk's 42nd floor suite at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel last night, told reporters no agreements were reached but "these discussions were useful."

"To say that agreement was achieved would be saying too much," he said. "Each agreement has to be preceded by a great deal of work."

Gromyko said he and Rusk touched on the Vietnam War, the Middle East, disarmament, European security and U.S.-Soviet relations.

He said they discussed no specific date for starting talks on limitation of missiles and anti-missiles that their governments have agreed to enter into.

MIDEAST REVIEW

As to whether they made any progress on the Middle East, the Soviet foreign minister asserted he would "prefer not to say yes and not to say no."

U.S. officials issued the same list of subjects. 'They too called the talks useful but said no agreements were reached and no arrangements were made for future meetings.

With Rusk, who hosted the dinner, were Ambassador J.R. Wiggins, new U.S. chief U.N. delegate; Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen, deputy undersecretary of state for political affairs, and an interpreter.

Gromyko was accompanied by the Soviet ambassador to the United Nations, Jacob A. Malik; Anatoly F. Dobrynin, Soviet ambassador in Washington, and an interpreter.

Earlier on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers," Rusk said such meetings were "scouting expeditions" to look for "any point on which we can make some progress."

"We sort of sniff around," he said.

Northern Ireland Clashes Injure 96

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A weekend of bloody outbursts in Londonderry by nationalists against the government of Northern Ireland injured 96 demonstrators, police and bystanders, officials reported.

Shopkeepers in Northern Ireland's second largest city worked into the night yesterday in streets littered with stones to replace windows smashed in the clashes between police and demonstrators.

Six policemen and a fireman were hurt in the skirmishes.

Demonstrators threw stones and police in steel helmets, supported by a water cannon, broke up a crowd of 800 with a baton charge.

The violence erupted with nationalists charging discrimination against Northern Ireland's Roman Catholic minority. Most Catholics under the northern Ulster government want to unite with the Irish Republic to the south.

Demonstrations began Saturday with a civil rights march protesting alleged abuses against Catholics in housing, employment and voting regulations.

Thirty demonstrators, including a member of Parliament, were hurt in clashes Saturday afternoon. The list of injured tripled yesterday and included three children.

Charges of police brutality were raised and the government in London was asked to hold an inquiry. The British government, however, handles defense and foreign relations for Northern Ireland but leaves police matters in Irish hands.

The Londonderry Trade Council messaged Prime Minister Harold Wilson in London protesting: "The citizens of this city were attacked indiscriminately by police . . . and women and children were not excluded from police excesses . . . We strongly urge the government to take action."

William Craig, Northern Ireland's minister of home affairs, countered that police "used no more force than was necessary." He said there was evidence that the Irish Republican Army, the outlawed nationalist insurgents, had infiltrated the civil-rights movement.

"There is no doubt this was a Republican front," Craig said.

Salmon Study May Aid Man's Longevity Hunt

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A study of the changes in salmon as they swim toward their spawning ground could eventually pave the way to lengthening the road man trudges through life, a scientist says.

Dr. Andrew A. Benson, associate director and biology professor at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, told of the relationship yesterday after the return of the institute's Alpha Helix research ship from a six-month study in far northern waters.

"In a period of two weeks," Benson said, "the salmon deteriorates from a beautiful, shiny, orange-red creature to an aged, rotting, almost lifeless fish, unable to combat infection, with circulation impaired and the skin peeling off.

"The brain loses control of the pituitary gland function, which is the key to running the body. The fat which it has stored during its life in the ocean is burned down to practically nothing," he said.

"It is as though all the glands were programmed to synchronize the combustion of fats simultaneously so that the whole machine runs out of fuel.

He said scientists, studying the changes and their relationship to processes vital to man's metabolism, "may be able to use the salmon as a guide to avoid accumulation of the kind of fats deposits that, for instance, cause artherosclerosis, the primary killer in coronary diseases.

"Although the salmon deteriorates rapidly, it does not suffer artherosclerosis despite a volume of serum lipo proteins (which contain Cholesterol) five to 10 times as high as a human can tolerate. We want to know how this is possible," Benson said.

Club Is Backing Bike Path Plans

The Sausalito Women's Club has thrown its support to plans for a bicycle path between Sausalito and Mill Valley.

The club has written a letter to Marin County Supervisors pointing out the path would provide a route for many young persons now hitchiking in the area and would serve Tamalpais High School students. The letter urged "earliest attention to the development of this bicycle path."

Vehicle Theft Hearing Set

James Robert McElroy, 20, of 32 Front Street, San Rafael, was arraigned Friday in Marin Municipal Court on charges of vehicle theft and concealing stolen property Thursday.

McElroy was arrested by the California Highway Patrol after being stopped on Highway 101 in Greenbrae for unsafe passing.

A registration check indicated the motorcycle he was riding was reported stolen from James McIntosh of Redwood City. McElroy reportedly told the patrolman the cycle had been given to him.

McElroy was to appear in court this afternoon with counsel.

Pravda Says Czechs Shun Russ Troops

MOSCOW (AP) —Pravda complained today that efforts of Soviet soldiers to establish friendly contacts with Czechoslovaks are still being rebuffed by some local officials.

"The number of contacts is increasing from day to day," the Communist party newspaper reported in a dispatch from Bratislava, "but often the hope of working people to meet Soviet soldiers runs into the open resistance of local authorities and party leaders."

Pravda admitted there had been a time following the Aug. 20 invasion when Soviet soldiers met with "passionate argument, insults and meances."

NOW PASSING

But this behavior is now passing, Pravda said, and "the characteristic feature of these days is calm and comprehensive talks on how to live and act together in the future."

"Ordinary people and honest workers take every opportunity to express friendship," it said.

Then it cited a number of cases in Slovakia where it charged local authorities had thwarted Soviet efforts to be friendly.

"The excuses are the same everywhere—no time, the situation does not allow it, the workers or peasants 'are not ready' for such meetings," Pravda said. "Many people have already been punished for meetings with soldiers—they have been reduced in their jobs or even dismissed. Even children are prohibited from coming up to our soldiers.

'FEELINGS OF DIGNITY'

"Let no one think that the Soviet people want to force their friendship on anyone. Our people have feelings of dignity and pride in their country."

Pravda added Soviet soldiers in Czechoslovakia seek contacts because they want the population to understand "the reasons why they came here and they are confident that in meetings with citizens of Czechoslovakia they would help bring about a real, rather than sham, normalization of the country."

Woman Pulls Gun, Forces Pilot To Fly Mexican Plane To Cuba

MERIDA, Mex. (AP) — A 35-year-old woman from Argentina, who said she found life in Mexico intolerable, hijacked a twin-engine turboprop airliner day and ordered the pilot to fly to Cuba.

Mexican authorities said the woman, identified as Judith Vazquez, entered the cockpit and pulled a gun from beneath a white shawl. The pilot, Captain Ricardo Eroza Troyo, said that after ordering him to fly to Cuba the woman said hysterically, "I'd rather be killed or jailed in Cuba than return to Mexico."

She was believed to be the first woman to seize a plane and take it to Cuba. The incident took place as the Aeromaya plane flew over Mexico's Isla Mujeres, the "Isle of Women," on its way to Merida.

After seven hours in Havana, the plane, which carried 14 passengers including three Americans and a crew of three, returned to Merida last night.

In addition to Mrs. Vazquez and her daughter, Silvia, 12, and a two-month-old son Ernesto, two unidentified women passengers remained in Havana. It could not be learned if they were connected with the hijacking, the 19th since Jan. 30.

In Havana, Mexican Ambassador Miguel Covian, who arranged for the release of the passengers and plane, said he found the hijack difficult to explain "when there are regular commercial flights between Mexico and Cuba."

Because Mexico has diplomatic relations with the Fidel Castro government Covian said "we have the right to ask for extradition." But he said no such request would be made until he had consulted with his government.

Capt. Eroza said the black-haired woman came into the cockpit about 10 minutes after he left the tourist resort island of Cozumel on a flight to Merida, some 635 miles east of Mexico City. Merida is on the Yucatan Peninsula more than 300 miles from Havana.

Airline officials said the woman had boarded the plane earlier in Mexico City with a round trip ticket and was on her way back.

Capt. Eroza said the woman told him she had lived in Mexico for six years. He said the woman gave no information about her husband or any of her activities.

When the plane flew over Cuban soil, Eroza said, the woman collapsed and threw away the pistol in the cabin "but it was already too late to turn back because the fuel was low."

He said the passengers and crew "were all nicely treated by the Cuban authorities and had a steak dinner at the airport quarantine station."

Gyroscope Installed Wrong —$50 Million Satellite Lost

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE (AP) — A gyroscope accidentally placed the wrong way caused a Nimbus B weather satellite to go this-a-way instead of that-a-way, the experts say.

The result of the May 18 launch was $50 million worth of hardware up in smoke and in the water, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said yesterday.

NASA-Air Force investigators said the gryoscope, which controlled the flight of the Thorad Agena D. launch rocket, was facing 90 degrees from design plans.

Two minutes after liftoff the rocket swerved out of its safety corridor and was destroyed by a range safety officer. The 1,260-pound satellite was recovered in the water four miles north of San Miguel Island.

Investigators said the accident was due to human error and said no evidence of sabotage could be found. The called for a revision of test procedures and redesign of the gyroscope mounting bracket.

SERIES

Lolich with a double to left. With one out, Flood singled to right, scoring Brock. Cepeda then slammed a two-run homer into the left field stands.

Despite this early bombing, Lolich maintained his poise and blanked the Cards the rest of the way, striking out eight.

Detroit tore into starter Briles for two in the fourth when Stanley led off with a triple to right and scored on Cash's sacrifice fly to Brock. Willie Horton followed with a triple to deep center, sliding into third, and scored on Jim Northrup's single, a smash that hopped over Javier's glove.

The veteran Tiger right fielder, their top hitter in the Series, swung and missed and then ripped a single to center scoring both Lolich and McAuliffe. When Cash followed with a single to right knocking in Stanley, Hoerner gave way to Ron Willis.

Brock put on a big show for the Cards with his pair of doubles and single but he failed to break his stolen base record and was thrown out at the plate on the call disputed by Schoendienst.

"I will pitch Ray Washburn in the sixth game and come back with Bob Gibson if we have to go seven," said Schoendienst.

The Tigers announced they would remain home to work out tomorrow at Tiger Stadium before flying to St. Louis. Manager Mayo Smith's pitcher will be either Joe Sparma or Earl Wilson, who suffered a pulled hamstring muscle in the third game when he lost to Washburn 7-3.

The Series has run into the same pattern that the Cards followed a year ago against Boston when they also held a 3-1 lead. In 1967 they had to go down to a seventh game and call on Gibson to save the day.

Politics Run Afoul Of Center Rules

Marin politics ran afoul Saturday of a management policy at Northgate Shopping Center, leaving several persons convinced their civil liberties had been injured.

The first of two incidents came at about 11 a.m., when a security officer for the center ordered removal of a table set up by the Marin County Democratic Central Committee. The second came in the afternoon, when five junior high school students were ordered to stop passing out campaign literature for Phillip Drath, Democratic nominee in the Sixth Congressional District.

The order was issued in both cases because neither the central committee nor Drath headquarters had met the center's requirement that advance notice be given the management, said center manager Clay Harold.

"We welcome political candidates,'' he told the Independent-Journal today, "and even prefer to provide them a booth in which to do their electioneering. However, we feel that it's only right that we know ahead of time who is coming and who is in charge of them — otherwise we'll have literature strewn all over the place," he said.

The policy would apply even to Richard M. Nixon, he asserted.

Drath, noting that the officers "scared the hell out of the kids," said "this was their first effort at learning about political processes in this country."

Boy Is Bitten; Dog Search On

The Marin County sheriff's department and humane society are looking for a dog which bit a Tamalpais Valley child Friday at about 5 p.m. on a fire trail off Tennessee Valley Road.

Eugene Childress, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Childress of 32-A Villa Garden Drive, will have to undergo painful antirabies innoculations if the dog is not found.

The child said that he had seen a woman walking four dogs, described as small or young boxers, without leashes. Later one of the dogs returned and bit the boy.

Disneyland Trip May Prove Costly

Ritchie reportedly gave his address as 100 Bayo Vista, Apt. 6, and refused police permission to search his apartment, telling them "there's a lot of marijuana in there," according to Deputy Chief Joseph J. Brusatori of San Rafael.

Armed with a search warrant, Asst. Dist. Atty. Leonard B. Shaw and police entered Ritchie's apartment Saturday night and reported finding "a sizeable quantity" of marijuana in an instant breakfast carton.

Ritchie, an unemployed beautidian, is being held by Anaheim police in the counterfeiting case and a San Rafael warrent on the marijuana matter is being set.

Petaluma GI Due Silver Star

Sp/4 James F. Bauer, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bauer of 1120 Eucalyptus Road, Petaluma, was to receive the Silver Star today in televised ceremonies at Fort Benning, Ga.

Citing Bauer for heroism, the Army said that while serving in Vietnam last February, Bauer ran through intense enemy fire to recover a 90mm recoiless rifle and began firing at the enemy to provide protection for wounded comrades. Wounded twice himself, he suffered bullet wounds in his foot and leg and shrapnel injuries to his neck and chest.

In Vietnam only a month before being wounded, Bauer had been hopitalized in Japan and at Letterman Hospital, San Francisco.

Painting Of City Hall On Agenda

The Novato City Council will consider repainting city hall when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

Repainting of city buildings was discussed by the council at its meeting last Tuesday night. The painting would be done in connection with the city-sponsored cleanup-paintup campaign on Saturday and Sunday, and Oct. 19 and 20.

Thecouncil will also discuss making city plumbing, building and mechanical codes conform with state codes, the abatement of two billboards and an ordinance designating the terms and methods of removal of park and recreation advisory commission members.

Teacher Policies To Be Reviewed

A proposeed revision of teacher evaluation policies will be discussed by the San Rafael Board of Education at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the district office.

Some teachers have suggested having teachers evaluate teachers while administrators believe they should be responsible for evaluation, Supt. John F. Plank said.

A discussion on "Innovation in Education: New Direction for the American School," is also planned. Items such as a new method of budgeting, the need for research and better organization for change will be included in the discussion.

Future Of Bayside School Due Review

The future use of Bayside School and development of Bayside Park will be discussed by the Sausalito School District board at 7:30 p.m. today in the district office, 630 Nevada Street.

Coats Taken

Burglars who broke in sometime between Friday morning and yesterday afternoon stole two mink coats valued at $3,000, plus a clock radio, an electric razor, woman's watch and $10 from a piggy bank at the residence of G. H. Baumgarten, 168 Peacock Drive, San Rafael police reported today.

COURT

of their callup. Five other justices refused to grant a last-minute reprieve.

If Douglas cannot convince a majority that the men should stay in this country while the court hears their case, his orders will be cancelled. The reservists will still be able to appeal, but the Army can ship them out.

The suit attacked a 1966 statute which allows the president to order any reserve units to active duty for two years. The men argue that under earlier laws their contracts with the government contemplated active duty only in the event of a declared war or a declared national emergency. They lost in lower federal court.

Word as to the court's action on both the reservists' reprieve and the Wallace argument is expected very soon—probably tomorrow.

The Wallace group is attacking Ohio election law requirements which place independent candidates at a disadvantage. Ohio law contains no provision for persons to qualify as independent candidates for president and vice president, nor do the voters have any opportunity to write in a name except when there is no regularly nominated candidate.

The law was changed to read this way after the 1948 election when the candidacy of Henry Wallace cut heavily into the vote cast for President Harry Truman.

In other first day action the tribunal refused to order California to put the names of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., and Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver on the presidential ballot next month.

A McCarthy group, called Californians for an Alternative in November, had gathered only 190,000 signatures of the 300,000 required under state law. For this reason California courts blocked their bid. The Supreme Court turned down their appeal, saying whatever may be the merits of the controversy it is too close to election day to tinker with the ballots now.

Cleaver, who sought ballot space for his Peace and Freedom Party, was turned down without comment. California courts had ruled that at the age of 33 he is not eligible to run for president. The Constitution puts the minimum wage at 35.

Parking Lot To Be Studied

The San Anselmo City Council is expected to discuss the proposed improvement of a city-owned lot used for parking at its 8 p.m. meeting tomorrow.

The lot, located behind Kaufman's department store at 540 San Anselmo Avenue, could eventually hold 75 cars, according to the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce, which requested the discussion.

The council also will hold a hearing on request of Cecil B. Norton for rezoning single-residence property at 1437 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to two-family residence.

$90,000 Program Due Bid Calling

The Marin Municipal Water District board is expected to call for bids for the 1968-69 rehabilitation program at its meeting at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the district office, 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera.

The program includes nine jobs in different parts of the district and is expected to cost about $90,000, William R. Seeger, general manager, said. It is part of a general replacement and improvement program that has been in effect for five years, he said.

Open Space Funds To Be Considered

A request by the Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society that the City of Belvedere contribute $4,500 toward the purchase of one acre of open space above Old St. Hilary's Church will be considered by the Belvedere City Council at 8 p.m. today in community hall.

Also scheduled is a request by the Mill Valley Refuse Co. to increase garbage collection rates by 30 per cent over the next three years.

Tiburon Planners To Study Lot Split

The Tiburon Planning Commission will hold a public hearing tonight on a request to create two substandard lots on property owned by Nicholas Pedersen at 15 Tanfield Drive. The commission will meet at 8 o'clock in city hall.

Also scheduled for discussion is a setback policy for the Mar West waterfront and the method of selection of a planning director.

Students Help Run The School

By JOANNE GRANT

A principal's desire to "get more closely plugged into the thinking of students" is leading to growing student participation in running San Rafael High School.

The principal, Dr. Alan Ellsberg, who students describe as "very conscious of student representation in school," started toying with a plan for a principal's Student Advisory Council last year.

A group of 40 was formed and met with him twice, but the number proved unwieldy, Ellsberg said.

Ellsberg called on then student body president Bob Hermann to select a cross section of students to meet with him a few times a month.

That group advised favorably on the pass/fail grading system initiated this year and is credited with starting planned improvements in the cafeteria.

The students also had a hand in interviewing prospective faculty members last year, Ellsberg said. With the applicant's permission, they sat in on interviews, asked questions and wrote evaluations.

Ellsberg reported their reactions usually were amazingly similar to his.

The advisory council was revived shortly after school opened this year and the task of selecting a representative group fell to Jeff Godwin, student body president.

"I tried to build a group that was as representative as possible of all the factions," Godwin said. His "factions" included the three upper grades, the artistic minded students, the "bookish" ones, etc.

"They're not the type that would run for student body office," he said, explaining that is another "faction."

He omitted freshmen, he said, because freshmen on last year's council were "so out of it, so awed by upperclassmen." There is also a problem in knowing who the vocal freshmen are, he added.

Ellsberg, who insists on frank discussion, said the students "had to be secure enough and strong enough to speak out."

Named to the council were Delores White, Don Daglow, Mary Jo Morgan, Charles Gray, Steve Bacon, Derrick Clark, Parker Lee, Becky Late, Bruce Whitley and Biff Gallivan, Godwin also serves.

The group has held its first meeting, amid repreated admonitions from Ellsberg to be "very honest or else we will all be wasting out time."

Most of the students responded honestly, they said, though one girl admitted she didn't feel she could at first. "I had to get to know the people," she said.

One indication of the students' strong feelings and diverse opinions at the first meeting was the open campus issue which ended with a majority and a minority report.

Five students agreed there should be an open campus policy for privileged sophomores, all juniors and seniors. Four others thought it should be limited to privileged juniors and all seniors.

Currently, seniors with satisfactory grades and conduct records are permitted off campus during free hours.

Since the first meeting, however, Mary Jo Morgan, who voted with the minority, has changed to the majority point of view — a result of thinking about it and talking to other students.

Bruce Whitley, who was unable to attend the first meeting, said in a special conference last week that he believed in an open campus for all students except those who need to be restricted for disciplinary reasons.

Whitley said he has several ideas he plans to bring to the advisory council.

One is doing something about the "classroom situation." He deplored "row classrooms" as being for certain types of learning only. His English class, he said approvingly, has the desks arranged for a round table discussion.

He said he would also like to have a bus for field trips, set up as a traveling laboratory for science classes and other special studies.

Delores White, who is also president of a developing black student group, said she thinks there will be good results and noted efforts being made now to provide a black history course.

She said the administration has found three possible teachers, but no money, and is discussing taking San Rafael High students to Terra Linda High for the "Negro in America" course being taught there.

The students meet with Ellsberg during class time. "It's an important enough learning situation," he said.

Future meetings will be held as often as necessary, he said, with no special schedule planned now.

The students' ideas will be turned over to such groups as the administrative council, the department chairman's commission, the teachers steering committee and others for additional consideration.

In turn, ideas from the other groups will be brought to the principal's advisory council to get student reaction, Ellsberg said.

Women's League Sponsors Nights For Candidates

The League of Women Voters of Southern Marin will sponsor candidates' nights Oct. 17 and Oct. 23 for the Nov. 5 general election.

The Oct. 17 meeting, for Mill Valley, will be held at 8 p.m. at Park School. It will be co-sponsored by the Mill Valley branch of the American Association of University Women.

The Oct. 23 meeting, for the Belvedere-Tiburon area, will begin at 7:45 p.m. at Del Mar School.

Candidates for supervisor, Assembly and the House of Representatives have been invited. In addition, speakers will present the positions on two local ballot measures — the $10.9 million Tamalpais High School bond issue and the Marin County gun registration proposition.

Six Bids Opened In Corte Madera

Ghilotti Brothers was the lowest of six bidders on a project to widen Pixley Avenue in Corte Madera to 40 feet, according to town clerk Betty S. Behel.

The bid was $5,673, on a job which had been estimated at about $6,000.

A contract will be awarded by the town council at 7:30 p.m. today.

Larkspur's Move To Rid Canyon Of Shacks Tedious But Gaining

Larkspur's program to spruce up or demolish Madrone Canyon's shanties is tedious but gaining some momentum, Ronald H. Glander, city building and planning superintendent, said today.

He said repair permits have been taken out by owners of two of the delapidated structures, and owners of three others — two on Madrone Avenue and one on Millard Road — are in the planning stage for improvements.

On May 15, the city council urged elimination of the unsightly and substandard shacks and unfinished houses in the canyon, buildings inhabited by trespassers, transients and hippie-types.

One step agreed upon was that a full-time building inspector should be hired. Another was that a uniform housing code must be adopted for a better basis to bring buildings up to city safety standards.

On July 3, the council adopted the housing code. The inspector, Wade Bourgeois, was hired Aug. 5. An improved filing system to keep records of questionable structures has been developed by the building and planning department.

One of the two buildings for which permits already have been obtained is a five-room frame house at 328 Madrone Avenue. Glander said it was unmaintained for years, that indifferent renters "tore it up pretty badly."

He said a letter was written the owner Aug. 7 declaring that occupancy must end and that the structure would be condemned by the city as a public hazard unless repairs were made. The owner, given 60 days before demolition would occur, has secured new foundation, plumbing, and electrical permits to undertake $4,500 in renovations, said Glander. He said actual work is expected to start within the next few weeks.

The other house, at 16 Olive Street, lacked repairs generally, Glander said. The owner, living there, obtained permits Aug. 22 for about $2,700 worth of work, he added.

Glander admitted that progress on five structures is a small dent in the 75 substandard buildings estimated in the canyon last spring, but said it won't be a crash program forced down the throats of the property owners.

"What we're trying to do is a self-help thing; encourage people to improve their property, explain to them why the property is hazardous, and try this approach rather than writing sharp letters (telling them) to do the work," he said. "We feel we're making some reasonable progress."

Glander said he doesn't term all occupants of the buildings as hippies. Some, he said, are people who only need encouragement to improve their situation. Most of them have been cooperative so long as time is taken to explain the problem, he said. "It works out very well but it's very time-consuming and tedious."

Glander said each case will have to be handled individually but "we'll probably use this same approach throughout the whole program. It's proved successful thus far."

He admitted there probably hasn't been much reduction in the number of transients, or semi-permanent trespassers, who habitate many of the shacks. These people certainly increase the fire and police problems but "we haven't really gotten into that area yet," he said.

Much more progress is hoped for in the next two or three months, however, Glander added.

'69 Kingswood Estate 3-Seat Walk-In Wagon

Chevrolet introduces the walk-in wagon.

Here's a wagon that welcomes you in the back door without making you stoop over to keep from banging your head.

Now you simply walk up a step in the bumper and walk down a step inside. Then you simply turn around and sit right down. Don't worry. We've slanted the back-end to help avoid the roof from bumping your head.

Another thoughtful design is our dual-action tailgate. Its concealed door openers won't catch a sleeve like an outside handle.

And another: You can specify washers for the headlights.

Still another: Tri-Level loading in most wagons. Order a roof rack for carrying convenience on top, in addition to the load space you have inside and under the rear floor.

Our '69 wagons also are big on looks and performance. One quick example is the new 327-cubic-inch engine, standard in many models. It's the largest standard V8 in its field.

Look over both our wagon sizes, biggest and big. Even the names are new. All at your Chevrolet dealer's now.

Just walk in.

LBJ Signs $14.57 Billion Bill For Housing Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed into law today a $14.57 billion appropriation bill containing substantially less funds for major housing programs than he had requested from Congress.

The bill finances the Department of Housing and Urban Development and a score of independent agencies for the present fiscal year.

The measure includes a House-Senate compromise of $625 million for the model cities program designed to attack blighted areas of major cities. Johnson wanted $1 billion for the program.

Also included is $30 million in new contract authority for the rent subsidy program designed to supplement rental payments of low income families occupying private, non-profit housing. The President requested $65 million for the program.

For the fiscal year starting next July 1, the bill provides $750 million for urban renewal projects, or $550 million less than was requested.

The President also signed two other bills. One increases appropriation authority for construction or leasing by the government of one experimental or demonstration fish protein concentrate plant. The other extends for four years authority for commercial fisheries research.

Combat Punishment For Failing To Salute

PLEIKU, jvietnam (UPI)—A u.S. Army general said today soldiers in his division who fail to salute superior officers are sent to combat areas for punishment.

Maj. Gen. Charles P. Stone, commander of the 18,000-man 4th Infantry Division, said in a statement, "The policy is carried out with discernment only after a flagrant violation.

"Most often the man is counseled on the spot and, if necessary, referred to his unit commander for appropriate action."

Stone's headquarters are at Camp Enari, five miles from this Central Highlands town. After being asked about the punishment order, he said in his statement, "It has been the policy to transfer soldiers who fail to salute in Camp Enari to forward areas where saluting is not a requirement."

The general said men sent to combat areas are given jobs for which they have been trained and are qualified to do. He did not indicate how many soldiers had been ordered forward.

A directive ordering the combat area transfer was contained in the division's daily bulletin Sept. 7. The bulletin is an official unit publication, signed by the assistant adjutant, Capt. Walter Stein. A copy is sent to the Pentagon,

The six-foot-five general said the order was issued prior to the Sept. 7 bulletin. He said it was put into effect after careful consideration.

The regulation has caused some grumbling among the 8,000 soldiers station at Camp Enari. A visitor entering the barbed-wire perimeter, however, is struck by the abundance of snappy salutes and "Good morning, sir!" greetings.

Food shortage is a serious problem in Saudi Arabia for the diet of most citizens is inadequate in vitamins, proteins and total calories.

FLOOD WARNING

Disastrous general flooding is inevitable unless the senseless construction in the Corte Madera Creek bed at the Stadium Way Bridge, Kentfield (off McAllister) is halted and deferred until after the winter rains.

Presently there are 2 earth dams across the creek as well as other major obstructions to the natural flow of impending rainwater in this critical flood area.

Property owners in Kentfield, Ross and San Anselmo should investigate for themselves immediately.

Ukiah Girl Is Moved To San Jose

SAN JOSE (AP) — The now semi-paralyzed girl who was raped, shot and left for dead after he boyfriend was slain has been brought to San Jose for the trial of two Washington youths.

Court sources confirmed today that Susan Bartolomei was brought yesterday from Ukiah to San Jose, apparently to be a trial witness.

Over the weekend, the trial judge, Joseph P. Kelly, had been reported pondering a decision on whether to move the murder case jury to Ukiah to take her testimony.

Thomas E. Braun and Leonard E. Maine, both 19 from Ritzville, Wash., are charged with murdering Susan's boy friend, 17-year-old Timothy Luce, and kidnaping, raping and attempting to murder the young girl a year ago.

Susan, now 19, still has a bullet in her head and physicians have removed her voice box to prevent strangulation.

Assembly Nominee Mertle Backs Watson Initiative

Robert E. Mertle, of Santa Venetia, Democratic nominee for the Seventh Assembly District seat now held by Republican William T. Bagley of San Rafael, last night became the first local candidate to support the controversial Proposition 9 on the November ballot.

Mertle announced he was a "strong proponent" of the proposition during a "candidates night" on television station KQED, channel 9.

The proposition, (the Watson Amendment) almost universally condemned by school, city, county and state officials, would require that all education and welfare costs be financed from some other source than property taxes. Its critics argue it will greatly increase income and sales taxes, and will shift control of education and welfare programs to the state and federal governments.

Mertle, however, argued "we can't continue to raise taxes, but have to look elsewhere" to finance education and welfare. Predicting the proposition will pass, Mertle said the Legislature "has been remiss for 50 to 60 years" in not finding relief for property taxpayers.

The proposition, declared Bagley, "would simply create a hatchet job on home rule and would create chaos for local government and for local schools." Instead, Bagley urged voters to support Proposition 1-A, the Legislature's proposal to revise certain taxes to provide a one-year rebate of about $70 to property taxpayers.

Man Claiming To Be 'Son Of God' Booked Into Jail

A man who claimed he was the "son of God" was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of car theft and vagrancy.

Rex Ellis Barnett, 32, of no fixed address, told sheriff's deputies he "was the son of God, sees God and communicates with him."

Deputies found him in the Pan Toll camping area at Mount Tamalpais after Ranger Robert N. Nygren reported a man "acting strangely" there. He was living in a truck believed stolen in San Francisco.

Barnett failed to provide bail of $1,275 and was held in jail. A court appearance date has not been set.

Nixon Aides Forecast $20 Million Bill

(UPI Telephoto)

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon's Republican presidential campaign is said by its managers to be proving the most expensive ever waged, with a price tag expected to run well over $20 million.

Nixon associates expect spending by both parties in the White House race to reach record levels. This is in part a product of inflation and in large measure the result of escalating outlays for television.

The Republican strategists are not saying exactly how much they expect to spend by Nov. 5, nor have they disclosed how much money has been raised.

But a series of interviews with Nixon assistants and advisers produced unanimity on one point: They consider their own campaign finances more substantial than those of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic nominee.

"We've caught on," said Robert Ellsworth, Nixon's political director. "Humphrey hasn't."

A Nixon aide said about half the total budget of any presidential campaign would be raised in the final month, when interest and expenses both are running high.

Another said it is not possible to report just how much money will be spent and may never be because of the proliferating campaign commitees involved in national and state operations for the GOP ticket.

"Twenty million is the round figures we've all been shooting at," he said. "Actually it probably will be higher."

About half the Nixon budget originally was earmarked for television. The Nixon TV expense is expected to cost about $10 million.

Nixon's personal television campaigning actually has been comparatively inexpensive, leaving more money free for a multimillion—dollar network advertizing drive.

The basic Nixon approach is a one-hour program on a state or regional television hookup. Those shows cost between $30,000 and $40,000 each. Campaign officials say at least nine are planned.

Nixon also is using network radio, which gets his voice on the air nationally for about $10,000 a program.

He used that medium last night for a speech pledging more emphasis on voluntary citizen efforts to deal with big-city problems. Nixon said vast new government spending programs would only "drain the federal treasury to soothe the public conscience."

After a day off in New York, Nixon was to resume his campaign today, with appearances in Washington and Buffola, N.Y.

HUMPHREY

ERIE, Pa. (UP) — Hubert H. Humphrey said today that as the presidential campaign moves along "more and more people are getting fed up" with the tactics of his two rivals.

Opening a three-city swing through Pennsylvania's industrial heartland, the Democratic presidential nominee said "The American people are coming to understand that the type of campaign waged by a candidate for the presidency reveals the kind of president he would make if elected.

"And in the last week," the Vice President went on, "I've noticed that more and more people are getting fed up with Mr. Nixon and Mr. Wallace and their tactics to win the presidency."

He said he thinks he knows as much as the pollsters about what is on people's minds and "the people—and not the pollsters nor anybody else" will pick a president.

Humphrey's remarks were prepared for delivery at a downtown rally before he was to head east to Scranton and Wilkes-Barre in his third visit to one of the big states crucial to his presidential hopes.

One of the questions Americans are asking themselves, Humphrey contended, is "Which candidate and which party can you trust?"

"I say you can't trust a candidate like George Wallace whose only appeal is to people's fears," the Vice President said, and "you can't trust a candidate like Richard Nixon who refuses to speak out on vital issues and who says one thing in the North and another thing in the South."

Humphrey said that the GOP nominee "follows the advice of his highly paid Madison Avenue advertising executives who are in charge of the Nixon image."

He attacked Nixon's position on federal enforcement of Supreme Court desegregation decisions, the nomination of Abe Fortas as chief justice and the nuclear nonproliferation treaty, adding that on Vietnam the Republican candidate has stood absolutely silent.

"But while Mr. Nixon has been silent," he said, "his campaign managers have been mailing secret messages to special interests, such as the stock market traders on Wall Street, assuring them that a Nixon administration will look after their special interests—forget the public interest."

His reference was to a report that Nixon had assured securities traders he favors less federal government regulation of their activities.

Humphrey admitted that "the Democrats are running behind" but said "we are moving up fast."

Yesterday, while watching the St. Louis Cardinals rout the Detroit Tigers in the fourth World Series game in Detroit, Humphrey gave a similar message to one of his key labor supporters, President Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers union.

McCARTHY

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) —Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy will endorse Hubert H. Humphrey for president only if Humphrey pledges unconditionally to halt the bombing of North Vietnam, McCarthy supporters say.

The report that McCarthy had not changed his post-Democratic National Convention position on supporting the vice president came yesterday at a meeting of the New Democratic Coalition, a group of dissident Democrats formed after the convention.

McCarthy has drawn up four demands that Humphrey must meet before he will endorse his fellow Minnesotan, attorney Gerald Hill of San Francisco said:

A halt to the bombing of North Vietnam.

A reform of the U.S. draft, allowing noncombatant status to one who opposed military service on moral as well as religious grounds.

Electoral reform of the Democratic Party.

Meanwhile McCarthy will return to California Oct. 14 for the first time since he stumped the state campaigning for the presidential nomination.

McCarthy is scheduled to address a rally in the Civic Auditorium in behalf of the candidacy of Alan Cranston, Democratic nominee for U.S. Senator.

AGNEW

BALTIMORE (AP) — Republican vice presidential nominee Spiro T. Agnew watched the Baltimore Colts win their fourth straight national football league game yesterday as they defeated the Chicago Bears 28-7.

The Maryland governor saw the Colts second home game but missed the first one. "Before this season, I missed only two home games. I don't know when I'll get to see another one" he said at the game.

He was to leave today for a campaign tour that will take him through four Southern states and one Northern state in hree days.

He will visit North Carolina, Florida, Tennessee, Virginia and New York.

Agnew will return to Maryland briefly Wednesday and then fly to New York to tape a television show.

MUSKIE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic vice presidential candidate Edmund S. Muskie apparently plans to keep his campaign as close as he can to the college campus in the next few days, a tactic that has worked well recently.

The Maine senator, who was warmly received on campuses during a western swing last week, had appearances scheduled at Syracuse, N.Y. University today following a brief speech in Washington.

Muskie then is to head on nine-day tour of eastern states and aides indicate he will appear at as many colleges as possible.

He said that neither he nor his running mate, Hubert H. Humphrey, have been told that the price of a Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy endorsement is a pledge of a total bombing halt in Vietnam.

REAGAN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says he won't accept a cabinet post or ambassador's job if his fellow Republican, Richard M. Nixon, is elected president.

In a television interview yesterday, he said he will refuse any post in a Nixon administration before his own term ends in 1970.

Reagan said he was approached about serving with Nixon. Asked if he would categorically deny that he might leave the governor's job before the term is up, Reagan replied, "yes."

Poll Shows A Reverse In California Voting

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Political observers wondered today whether 1968 will be a rerun of California's 1964 election —in reverse.

It was four years ago that Democrat Lyndon B. Johnson swept to victory over Republican Barry Goldwater in the presidential race here—at the same time Republican George Murphy was downing Democrat Pierre Salinger in the U.S. Senate race.

This time, however, it's the Republican out front in the presidential derby and the Democrat far ahead in the Senate contest.

Here's how the election would go in California if it were held today, according to the State Poll conducted by Don Muchmore for the Los Angeles Times, and taken from 1,007 persons the last weekend in September:

President: Richard Nixon, Republican, 44 per cent; Hubert Humphrey, Democrat, 33 per cent; George Wallace, American Independent, 7 per cent; Eldridge Cleaver, Peace and Freedom, 2 per cent. Rest undecided.

Senate: Alan Cranston, Democrat, 53 per cent; Max Rafferty, Republican, 32 per cent; Paul Jacobs, Peace and Freedom, 2 per cent. Rest undecided.

In both cases, the leaders have increased their strength since the last survey. It should be remembered, however, that observers are noting an upsurge in Humphrey's campaign in the last week, and Rafferty trailed all the way in the polls in the primary—then upset incumbent Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel on voting day.

With the election in its final four weeks, Nixon slated another trip to California, whose 40 electoral votes will play a key role in the outcome. He will spend Wednesday touring Los Angeles County—which has about 38 per cent of California's voters.

In a strictly state - oriented development on the campaign trail, Democratic Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh packed his bags for a tour throughout the state.

He has two aims:

Retain the current Democratic majority in the Assembly and thus his position of leadership. If Republicans capture the lower house, Unruh is regarded as certain to lose the speakership.

Convince voters to support Proposition 1-A, the Legislature's big package of income and tax reductions. That also means getting them to oppose Proposition 9. The one drawing the larger number of "yes" votes is enacted; the other fails.

A 15-year-old juvenile was issued a juvenile citation and released to his parents Saturday after he allegedly took a 39-cent box of candy from Dandy's Market, 100 Del Prado, San Rafael, sheriff's deputies reported today.

WORK SITE — While earthen dams keep the area relatively dry workmen press on with the relocation of sewer lines across Corte Madera Creek in the vicinity of the foot bridge from Stadium Way to Kent School.

Gunfire Breaks Two Windows

Two windows at the Ark restaurant, Gate Six, Waldo Point, were broken by gunfire early Saturday, one by what appeared to be a shotgun blast and the other by what appeared to be a .30-caliber bullet, sheriff's deputies reported.

Brad Beckett of San Francisco reported that three armed men fired from the restaurant parking lot while he was standing on the top floor of the Ark at 3:58 a.m.

The men drove off after the shooting, deputies said. Beckett told deputies he and one of the suspects had argued earlier that night.

Lane For Buses To Get Review

The complicated legal hurdles in the proposal to reserve a freeway lane for buses will be reviewed by the Tri-Partite Transportation Committee 10 a.m. Wednesday in the administration building of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

State officials have said that special legislation and perhaps even amendment of the state constitution would be necessary before the proposal could be tried.

CORTE MADERA CREEK

Earthen Dams Held Disaster Invitation

Earth dams that block Corte Madera Creek near Stadium Way in Kentfield are a "senseless invitation to a flooding disaster," Allan Larkins Jr. of San Rafael has complained in a letter to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

But the engineer for Ross Valley Sanitary District explained that the dams were put up temporarily to relocate sewer lines, and the dams will be removed by Nov. 1.

Larkins, who owns two duplexes adjacent to the Stadium Way footbridge, warned in his letter that one heavy rain will cause general flooding and ruin whatever construction is now in progress.

"We contend that the work in the creek bottom should not have been started so late in the year," said Larkins. "In the name of sanity, we request an immediate study of the entire project and a restoration of the creek bottom to allow for the oncoming winter rains."

J. Warren Nute, engineer for the Ross Valley Sanitary District, said the earth dams were put up by a contractor hired by the sanitary district to relocate and lower sewer lines as part of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project. The temporary dams keep the tides back so that the area will dry, and heavy equipment can work in the creek bed, said Nute.

"The contractor also has a drag line under the dams so that in an emergency, the dams can come down in a few minutes," said Nute.

"The drag line system won't work," contended Larkins. "It's an unbelievable hazard. The whole thing should be deferred to next spring."

Kremlin Sees Trouble Arranging A Summit

MOSCOW (UPI)—For the first time the Kremlin spoke today about its fresh trouble in arranging a world Communist summit conference. It vowed the meeting will be held. But the pledge, in an editorial in the Communist Party newspaper Pravda, mentioned no date for the summit.

Until today the Soviets had been silent about their defeat in last week's Budapest meeting of officials of 58 Communist parties. The Budapest session rejected the Kremlin's call for the summit to open in Moscow Nov. 25. Pravda did not tell it that way.

It said "an overwhelming majority" of Communist parties represented at Budapest decided to hold the summit "after preparing it in the best possible way."

In Budapest, contrary to Soviet wishes, the parties agreed only to hold another meeting, Nov. 17 in the Hungarian capital, to discuss a summit. The Budapest session showed the cracks in the Communist world caused by the Soviet bloc invasion of Czechoslovakia in August. Pravda had its own view. It hailed the Budapest meeting last week as "fresh confirmation of the desire of fraternal parties to further develop cooperation on the basis of Marxism, Leninism and proletarian internationalism."

It said nothing of the opposition to the summit, because of the Czechoslovak invasion, voiced by the large French and Italian Communist parties.

Pravda found its own villains. It said "imperialist reaction" tried to "cause division in the ranks of the fraternal parties," It said, "Their hopes were shattered once more."

Three Marinites Honor Students

The are Linda Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Watson of 37 Plaza Drive, Mill Valley; Keith Stetson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Stetson of 209 Marin Street, San Rafael, and Margaret Warner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Warner, formerly of Novato, now of Bakersfield, Kern County.

Minor Injuries

William Fayette Taylor, 16, of 309 Via LaPaz, Greenbrae, suffered minor scratches and scrapes of his left side, when he fell asleep at the wheel of his eastbound car and it swerved into a tree along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, just east of the Ross City limits, at 3:05 a.m. yesterday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Santa Rosa Air Service Rescheduled

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Airline service between Santa Rosa and northern points will be resumed soon, Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, said today.

Clausen, in a press release, based his prediction on a report he received from a Civil Aeronautics Board official, John W. Dregge, who said the newly formed airline serving the north coast area, Air West, should have "an improved operation within the next two months."

Clausen said he had asked the CAB to investigate after service north from Santa Rosa was discontinued last month.

Dregge reported that the merger earlier this year of three airlines into Air West had "caused great confusion," which in turn caused the disruption of some service to Sonoma County, Clausen reported.

Marin City Student Transit On Agenda

A report on the status of financing student transportation from Marin City to Tamalpais High School is scheduled for the 8 p.m. meeting today of the Tamalpais Union High School District board at district offices, Redwood High School.

The board also will take up the resignation of its president, Dr. John C. Siemens, for health reasons.

Accident Free Driver Honored

Twenty years of accident free driving for the U.S. Post Office Department has earned a Mill Valley man a special commendation.

He first drove a truck, delivering special mail and parcel post. In 1954 he began driving the route he has today, making the 14-mile daily trip without accidents.

Transportation Committee To Meet

The Tri-Partite Transportation Committee will meet at the Golden Gate Bridge Administration Building at 10 a.m. Wednesday to discuss water and bus transportation between Marin and San Francisco.

The committee is composed of representatives from Marin, San Francisco, and the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

Houseboat Dweller Flees Her Attacker

June M. Exner, 35, of Houseboat Oakland at Gate Six, Waldo Point, reported to sheriff's deputies Friday night that a man threatened her and tried to drag her away from in front of her houseboat gate but she screamed and he fled.

She told deputies that the man about 35 years of age, 5 feet 10 inches, wearing a light sweat shirt and khaki trousers, put his hand over her mouth when she screamed but she struggled and he let go. The attack occurred shortly after 8 p.m., deputies reported.

$500,000 Damage Suit To Retrial

The California Supreme Court has remanded for retrial a half-million-dollar damage suit against Ross General Hospital and Dr. J. M. Stubblebine arising from a suicidal death in July 1962, at the hospital's psychiatric ward.

The new trial was ordered on a supreme court finding that Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court erred in rejecting an instruction to the jury requested by John G. Buresh, attorney for the plaintiff. The District Court of Appeal had previously upheld the Marin County judge.

The suit arose from the plunge of Kurt Meier, owner of K. Myers Imported Fabrics in Mill Valley, from a window of the Ross Hospital psychiatric wing on July 13, 1962. Meier, a patient in the hospital, was killed in the fall.

His widow, Erika Meier, sued for $300,000 damages for herself and $200,000 for two minor children, Robert and Patricia. Dr. Stubblebine, as head of the hospital's psychiatric department, was named co-defendant.

In the suit, she alleged the hospital failed to take proper precautions against Meiers' taking his own life, although he was known to have suicidal tendencies.

RIOTS, WAR COSTLY

Von Braun Doubts U.S. Will Get To Moon First

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the nation's Saturn rocket program says he has spent the last two years following orders to tear down the industrial structure in Alabama built up to support the space program.

Wernher von Braun, director of the space agency's Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala., said in an interview with the magazine U.S. News & World Report that the sole purpose of his orders "seems to make certain that in 1972 nothing of our capability is left."

He predicted the United States and the Soviet Union will be in essentially an even position in the race to the moon by the end of this year, but said he is beginning to doubt this country will get there first.

He attributed the lag to trouble areas such as riots and Vietnam and the two-year period since American astronauts last flew.

"To put it bluntly," he said, "The Soviets are spending more money than we are. They are spending approximately 30 to 50 per cent more in terms of man-hours per year than we spend."

Dr. Braun said a program costing $5 to $6 billion a year, sustained over a number of years, would "at least enable us to pull even with the Russians. Programs on the order of $3.5 to $4 billion—which we have this year—simply guarantee our falling back. I stress not only remaining in second place, but falling further behind."

He said, "I'm convinced that, unless something dramatic happens, the Russians are going to fly rings around us in space in a period of five years. . .

"It would mean, to all intents and purposes, our abdication as a first-class power. I don't mean this solely in military terms. We would be abdicating our role as leader in world technology by not responding to the greatest technological challenge of our times. It would be comparable to not participating in aviation 50 years ago."

Transit Board To Discuss Bus

Improved bus transportation within Marin County, particularly to public buildings like the Civic Center and the new mental health center at Marin General Hospital, will be discussed by Marin County Transit District directors at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the supervisors' chambers at the Civic Center.

Gen Mgr. Seymour Kashin will also report on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad's proposed abandonment of its Sausalito branch line from Greenbrae to Sausalito.

Representatives from the county, cities, and shipping interests met Sept. 23 and indicated that the county should oppose the abandonment.

Low Bidder

Slinsen Construction Co. of Napa was low bidder last week with a $195,261 bid to widen and resurface Highway 121 between Napa Road in Sonoma County and one half mile south of Imola near Napa, the state Department of Public Works said today. Six bids were received on the project to widen the 3.7 miles.

"I read 250 words per minute and I got through college. If that was good enough for me, it's good enough for my kid."

Sure, you can still get through college if you're a "normal" student reading at the average rate of 250 to 400 words per minute. It just means that throughout your college career you'll spend over 5,000 hours doing just your required reading! And that's a shame, because you could save at least 3,700 of those hours. How? By learning to read at least three times faster.

For five years now the Reading Dynamics Institute has guaranteed to at least triple your reading speed or refund your entire tuition. Thousands of people throughout the Bay Area have taken up this offer and are now reading 3 to 10 times faster. Results? Hundreds, even thousands, of irreplaceable hours saved for them to invest as they choose. Businessmen and professional people now spend more time in productive work. High school and college students have time for campus activities and taking "want to" courses, raising their grade point average, or holding down a part-time job. Imagine, if a student could cut 3,700 hours of his required reading time and invested only 2,500 of those hours in a job that paid $1.75 an hour, he could earn $4,375.00.

Reading Dynamics is an incredible education breakthrough. It is the definitive rapid reading method in the world today because their graduates consistently surpass the 450 to 600 words per minute rates aspired to by conventional reading courses. Most Reading Dynamics graduates can read between 1,000 and 3,000 words per minute. Many go higher, and all understand and appreciate what they read at these staggering speeds.

FREE READING DYNAMICS MINI-LESSON

Does Reading Dynamics really work? Well there is one way to find out. Come to one of the free Reading Dynamics Mini-Lessons listed below. Whether you are out of school or in, you'll find the Mini-Lesson an exciting hour well spent. You'll learn what Reading Dynamics is all about and all of your questions will be answered. And since the Mini-Lesson is a miniature version of a Reading Dynamics class, you will probably leave reading a little faster than when you came in. Of course, if you want to read a lot faster for the rest of your life you will have to sign up for the course.

Stronger Air System Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senate subcommittee, charging Pentagon officials with consistently underestimating Soviet progress in new tactical aircraft development, has recommended U.S. "development of a new air superiority weapons system."

The Senate preparedness investigating subcommittee praised the F4 in a report released over the weekend as being at least equal to the Soviet MIG21.

But it said the Soviet Union has produced at least one new type of operational fighter every two years while the United States "has not produced a single new air superiority fighter since 1965."

In this age of gimcracks and chrome, is there a place for a car so "over-engineered" that 90 percent of its value is invisible?

Mercedes-Benz thinks so.

Yesterday's dreamboats had enormous tail fins.

Obviously, there are millions every year who are willing to buy a car that's "in vogue"—even though they know newer gimcracks and styling quirks will soon erode their investment.

At Mercedes-Benz, iron-willed engineers, not stylists, rule the roost. And they insist on putting value where they think it belongs: at the heart of their machines.

That's why Mercedes-Benz motor cars can cost anywhere from about $4,500 to $26,000 without, to some tastes, "looking" it.

Form follows function

Make no mistake. The perfectionists at Mercedes-Benz do not apologize for those classic lines—free of faddish touches—that will still be handsome years from now. They simply think form should follow function instead of fashion.

The contours of that 250 sedan at right were dictated by the need to provide proper headroom, hiproom, legroom and protective packaging for five adults. Dictated by the proportions required for nimble maneuverability.

The car is both shorter and leaner than its overweight rivals. Yet it bristles with sophisticated, ultra-performance features available only as extra-cost options, if at all, on domestic sedans.

A superb machine

"Over-engineered," some critics say. Nonsense, retort Mercedes-Benz engineers. If a man can afford to invest thousands in a superb driving machine, he is entitled to get something superb.

What he gets in a Mercedes-Benz is legendary in automotive circles.

An expert from Car and Driver tested the "new" 250 when it was released early in 1968 after an incubation period of five years. His verdict: "Offhand, I can't think of any other 4-door sedan in the world—with the possible exception of the Maserati Quattroporte—that handles, steers and stops like the Mercedes."

Scrapping the solid rear axle system of most domestic cars, the 250 uses an all-independent suspension — plus anti-sway bars front and rear. This endows it with the agility of a scrambling quarterback.

You can blast it over rutted and potholed gravel lanes. It behaves with almost eerie calm. You can thread it through the corkscrew turns of a mountain road, and enjoy yourself.

There's no sloppy play in the steering. No mushiness. When you hold the wheel, you "feel" the road. When you turn the wheel, the car darts instantly where you aim. Suddenly, you are a more confident driver.

Heroic stopping power

Stopping? Unless you have driven a 180-mph Grand Prix racing car or a Mercedes-Benz, chances are you have never experienced the security that comes from having really good brakes.

Disc brakes.

A few domestic cars have front-wheel disc brakes, and others offer front-wheel discs as an option. But every Mercedes-Benz comes with massive disc brakes on all four wheels. Standard.

Result: You get more stopping power than you may ever need. But you sleep better at night.

The pinnacle of safety

As for safety, Mercedes-Benz engineers applaud the intent of the new U.S. Government regulations, and carry their protective measures beyond the letter of these laws.

The 250's best defense against blundering drivers is, of course, its uncanny evasive ability. But, if the worst happens, your Mercedes-Benz is designed to shield you.

The entire passenger compartment is built as a sturdy "safety zone." Doors are designed to stay closed on impact. The front and rear sections of the car are engineered to crumple in a violent crash at a controlled rate, absorbing shock and reducing the threat of serious injury.

Car and Driver's sober conclusion: Of all the world's motor cars, the current Mercedes-Benz line "represents the present pinnacle in safe car engineering."

Value. All of it concealed from the casual eye. But there.

And there's more. Construction of every Mercedes-Benz begins in a shower of sparks. Where conventional cars use bolts to tie body and chassis together, Mercedes-Benz uses thousands of welds to create a single unit of immense strength. After 50,000 miles or so, you may begin to wonder if your 250 will ever rattle.

When welding stops, the raw body is dunked whole, like a taffy apple, into a gigantic vat of primer. It emerges with 24 pounds of rust protection.

More hidden value

Every car gets 20 more pounds of primer and paint. Even the insides of the hub caps are coated. As a final flourish in its armament against corrosion, each car gets a 24-pound factory slathering of undercoating.

The six-cylinder, overhead cam engine of every 250 is bench tested before installation, for more than 60 minutes. A hint of trouble in this gruelling test and the engine is torn down and rebuilt. Mercedes-Benz finds the lemons—not you.

Revealing showroom tests

Run a finger along the body of the 250. No "orange peel" texture. Slide in and open the glove compartment. Fully trimmed. Close the car door. Ka-chunk.

Now flex your back. This is no marshmallow seat. It supports you, mile after mile. It should: it was designed with the guidance of orthopedic physicians.

Crank the window and fiddle with some knobs. "Everything worked with delightful precision, eliciting the same sort of satisfaction that comes when the shutter mechanism crackles shut on a good reflex camera," reported Car and Driver's expert.

That's the beauty of the 250. It's built as if it were a 3,000-pound Hasselblad camera!

Over-engineered? By conventional standards, emphatically so. But Mercedes-Benz does not make conventional cars—and never will.

24-page brochure

Of course, the quickest way to verify the 250's virtues, both visible and invisible, is simply to test-drive it. Just ask for the keys.

Other Mercedes-Benz models to ponder:

220 Diesel—the only diesel Mercedes-Benz makes, gives you small-car economy in a big, safe sedan that may well endure for half a million miles, $4,668*.

300SEL—an understated limousine, $9,615*.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

You Never Miss The News Until The Paper Suspends

The City of Orange, Calif., population about 80,000, recently lost its local newspaper.

For many years Orange had a daily paper, the Orange Daily News. But despite the fact the city grew rapidly in recent decades, the newspaper did not prosper. Orange sits cheek-by-jowl with the larger city of Santa Ana (population about 145,000), which is the county seat and principal commercial center of Orange County. Santa Ana's newspaper grew, while the Orange Daily News struggled against odds.

A few years ago, Freedom Newspapers, Inc., which publishes the Santa Ana Register, bought the Orange News. It promptly reduced the paper in Orange to once-a-week publication. And on July 31 of this year, it ended publication of the Orange News.

THE CITY FATHERS of Orange took a rather unusual step. They decided to publish a city newsletter to "make up the lack" in reporting of city affairs to the people.

City Mgr. George Weimer said the decision came because "we have no local contact with our residents."

The Orange city newsletter made its first appearance last month.

They can also find reports from various city department heads, the city council, the manager, all of which might be loosely classified as "good news." According to these reports, everything in the City of Orange is going along just swimmingly. There is no controversy, no problem, no "hangup." Orangemen, one would conclude from reading the city's official newsletter, are privileged indeed to live in such a lovely city with such a spotless administration.

THERE IS NO hint in this official newsletter that anything might be amiss. Crime and racial stress do not exist in Orange, according to its "news" columns. And of course, there could be no such thing as the city council huddling behind closed doors in defiance of the law to decide how to dispose of the city's business.

The people of Orange, however, may not get exactly the same picture of what goes on in their city from reading the Santa Ana Register, which still covers Orange from its next-door location. They are thus in somewhat better position to know what's going on than the people of Moscow, Russia, where all the newspapers are controlled by the government.

WE RELATE what has happened in Orange because today opens National Newspaper Week, one week of each year in which the press traditionally calls attention to the role it plays.

There is little resemblance between what passes for news in the City of Orange newsletter (or in Pravda or Isvestia) and what appears in a real newspaper that goes behind the official handouts, that investigates for itself to find out what's really happening.

The people of Orange right now are well aware of the truth of the old song, "You never miss the water till the well runs dry."

Bird Bosses

Of the many feeders of wild birds in Marin County, many have probably observed that a "pecking order" not too different from that found among domestic fowl is well established. Certain birds, determined to assert their physical and mental prowess, constantly demonstrate their authority by pecking all birds which they have determined belong beneath them.

Friends of ours in southern Marin, who have counted as many as 19 house finches on their feeding grounds at one time, claim that, in this case, it is the female bird who demonstrates her authority by pecking the beautiful, scarlet-headed male. So, when our friends see a handsome man being scolded by his wife, they say, "Poor man, he is married to a finch."

Interim Hearing Supports Idea Of $50 Million Parks Fund

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — A move to relieve California taxpayers of another $50 million next year got under way at the state capitol last week when Assemblyman Edwin I. Z'Berg, D-Sacramento, held hearings on his proposal to establish the "California Local Recreation Fund."

This is a project which Z'Berg has been working on for some time. It was proposed during the 1968 legislative session, and referred to his committee on natural resources, planning and public works for interim study.

Z'BERG'S PLAN envisions the $50 million fund as 100 per cent available to cities, counties and recreation districts, as matching money for acquisition and development of local and regional recreational facilities.

He says this is the first important legislation to emerge from the committee's two-year study of recreation needs in California.

While the goad admittedly is laudable and highly desirable if the state plans to continue its policy of being all things to all people, there appear to be some flaws in the reasoning which would take another $50 million out of the pockets of taxpayers for services which could well be passed over in a time of constantly rising tax demands.

THE PROGRAM, naturally sponsored by the California League of Cities, the County Supervisors Association, the California Association of Recreation and Park Districts, and various other organizations which look on the state as an unlimited source of funds is a contribution to the growing demands of local government on state government, with consequent demands on all taxpayers to fund projects which are not their concern.

In other words, if the citizens of Podunk Hollow want to develop a public playground, there seems to be no sound reason why the citizens of other communities should be for it.

There undoubtedly are arguments in favor of the program, the most compelling of which might be the fact that communities may think a recreation area is a fine thing, provided someone else shares the cost, which in this instance would be the taxpayers of the entire state of California.

Praise For Officers In Corte Madera

Last Saturday afternoon, our son was involved in an accident in Corte Madera. We wish to express publicly our appreciation for the courtesy and aid rendered by Corte Madera Police Officers Fred Talmadge and Clifford Niederer.

We have a high regard for Chief (Frank L.) Nelson and his officers. We believe that Corte Madera has been, and is, fortunate in the extreme to have men on their police force of such high caliber.

Study Of Time In Schools Suggested

Considering the amount of money being spent for our public schools, and the many subjects being taught, some subjects I don't think are as important as the study of time.

Railroads, aviation, navigation and the later study of rocketry are dependant on accurate time, and I believe a basic study of time should be taught in some branch of our public schools.

This subject can be "food for thought" for our state school board.

Taking Chances Seems Irresponsible

This letter is prompted by another appearing in the Oct. 1 Independent-Journal protesting that the writer is "Prepared to take my chances on the dire results promised by the politicians should Proposition 9 pass!"

Is it not irresponsible "to take my chances" on throwing local services and government into total chaos for an indeterminate period of time? Is it not irrational "to take my chances" and approve Proposition 9 in the face of warnings of "dire results promised by the politicians — and the business community and labor organizations and educators and local government and taxpayers associations?

There is a valid parallel between slashing local governments' revenues by, say, one-third or one-half and cutting a household's income by the same amount. No family, no individual and no government can so drastically alter its standard of living or services without extreme consequences. My point is that limiting property taxes is rational and responsible, but the vague, short-sighted and seductive characteristics of Proposition 9 demand that it be voted down and that Proposition 1-A be approved until comprehensive property tax legislation can be formulated.

The "It serves THEM Right Attitude" and "Damn the Consequences Syndrome" implicit in Proposition 9 are intolerable even to property taxpayers.

Marin's Daily Hunt —What It's Like

I would like to congratulate your paper on the wonderful article Oct. 1, titled "Marin's Daily Hunt."

My husband and I were among those "hunters." We were looking for something inexpensive, two bedroom size, with a small yard in an apartment or duplex. Sounded simple didn't it? Well we have a small daughter and a dog, and if you think that isn't bad enough, we were both under 21!

We looked for four months straight. Not only did we call every possible ad, but at night we drove up and down streets. If friends thought they knew of a place we went and checked it out.

You are probably wondering where we stayed all this time. With relatives. The rent is cheap and they allowed children and pets.

We did find a place, though — through a misprint in a realtor's ad. It is a nice big two-bedroom duplex. No yard but he would except children and pets. No the rent isn't cheap either. Matter of fact it takes two weeks' pay check to swing it.

We aren't complaining because like the article said "with no sign of relief in sight"!

Cleaver Affair Disgrace To U.C.

You are to be commended on your stand on the Cleaver affair, and I know that most citizens wish they could do something about this disgrace that has happened in the name of academic freedom.

I fail to understand why anyone in authority at U.C., who is American and belives in the kind of freedom that we in this country have inherited, could be a party to letting him contribute to the confusion of the already far too confused students, or give encouragement to those who have been duped by similar philosophies from Peking and Hanoi.

Academic freedom is probably attained in few countries. In its true sense it is good and desirable, but it may never be construed to put the student in the place of the instructor or administrator. This will lead only to chaos. Academic freedom is not fostered by reviling needed institutions such as law enforcement, the military, and efforts to oppose our arch enemy — communism.

Jan Stephens' accusation of Governor Reagan and Mr. Rafferty ("Readers Say," Oct. 2) as racists reflects the confused notions that Cleaver's hate and violence can engender. After all, who is naive?

Pancake Day Gives Glimpse Of Farm Belt Political Spirit

CENTERVILLE, Iowa — By American standards and particularly Midwestern standards, Pancake Day here in Centerville is a venerable institution. With floats, high-school bands, high-stepping drum majorettes and, of course, free pancakes, the 20th Pancake Day drew a crowd of 20,000 or more who enjoyed themselves immensely under a gentle, warming sun.

While Pancake Day is non-political, Gov. Harold E. Hughes flew down from Des Moines to be marshal of the parade. Tall, handsome in a rugged Lincolnesque way, Hughes at 46 has become a legend — a Democrat serving his third term as governor in a normally Republican state with a remarkable personal hold on a large number of his fellow Iowans.

But today Hughes faces the toughest challenge since he started out as a one-time truck driver, largely self-educated, at the bottom of the political ladder. He is running for the Senate seat being vacated by the retirement of Republican Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper with the Democratic party fractured and the national ticket far behind in the polls in the farm states. Feeling deeply the wrongness of escalating the Vietnam war, Hughes supported Sen. Eugene McCarthy. He put McCarthy's name in nomination for President in one of the few speeches at the Democratic convention in Chicago that seemed to come from both the head and the heart.

AT A LUNCH for Democratic workers before the start of the Pancake Day parade Hughes gave them not the customary campaign banalities but in his earnest, down-to-earth way he talked about the great issues confronting the nation. Delay in ratifying the nuclear non-proliferation treaty was absolutely ridiculous, the governor said. The Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia was a travesty on justice but it had no relation to the spread of nuclear weapons. And if the treaty is ratified it could mean eventual inspection behind the lines and a check on the headlong plunge into a new nuclear arms race costing billions and billions of dollars.

This is the kind of serious talk he is giving as he moves about the state in a campaign caravan. The people want to hear it, he says, they follow the news, they read the newspapers.

He gets down, of course, to the nitty-gritty which in the farm belt is farm prices. Corn is 82 cents a bushel. The governor says there must be two farm programs, one commercial and one aimed at the rural poor who are being forced off the land and into the cities.

DAVID M. Stanley, Hughes' Republican opponent, is an attractive candidate. Six years younger than Hughes, he served three terms in the state house of representatives and is now in his second term as a state senator. With the resources of his wealthy family back of him, he has been campaigning throughout the state for more than a year.

On Pancake Day Stanley was reported moving through the crowds massed on the town square shaking hands and passing out his leaflets. In this political year everything is political.

TWO DOORS down from the reviewing stand the local leaders for George C. Wallace's Independent Party had taken over the town barber shop for Pancake Day with posters and bunting splashed across the front. Two husky young men in turtlenecks were doing a fairly brisk business selling straw boaters with Wallace bands for $1.50, bumper stickers for 50 cents, campaign buttons for 25 cents.

George Mills, political editor of the Des Moines Register, found in a sample of 100 voters in Guthrie County, which has almost invariably reflected the national trend, that 18 were Wallaceites. Everett Thurman, the Wallace chairman in nearby Monroe County, owns the local motel. He says that out of six welathy farmers who recently came for the cattle sales five were for Wallace, one for Nixon.

One-Justice Court Stays Come Under Heavy Fire

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Supreme Court reconvened today confronted with a new congressional challenge involving a caustic demand for a major procedural reform.

Under fire is the practice whereby litigants can shop among the nine justices for a stay on a ruling or order by a government agency.

Chief Justice Earl Warren is on notice that unless the tribunal itself takes steps to curb this power, legislation to impose corrective measures will be pressed in Congress.

Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of two House armed services subcommittees in charge of National Guard and reserve affairs and the draft, served this notice on Warren in an outspoken letter. He was prompted by the series of stays granted by Justice William O. Douglas delaying the shipment of reservists to Vietnam.

DOUGLAS is the only Supreme Court member to approve such stays.

In each instance he did this after they had been denied by Chief Justice Warren and Justices Black, Brennan, Harlan and White.

Chief Justice Warren has sent a carefully noncommial reply to Hebert. It merely stated the full court would consider Douglas' stays.

However, it is deemed virtually certain that all of Douglas' stays will be quickly overturned and the way cleared for the Army to transport the reservists to Vietnam. That is indicated by the fact that five justices — a majority of the court — had previously denied such stays.

Warren's reply is wholly unsatisfactory to Hebert.

"The question is not whether the court will act promptly on Douglas' stays," said Hebert. "The question is what the court is going to do about the procedure under which draft dodgers can shop around among the justices for a stay after being turned down by other justices."

IF DEFENSE Secretary Clark Clifford follows a Senate Appropriations Committee suggestion, he will personally appear before the Supreme Court and urge the immediate cancellation of Douglas' dilatory "peacenik" stays.

Clifford was advised to take this extraordinary step at a closed-door meeting of the subcommittee.

"I hope you vigorously defend this matter, and get it set as a preference case," Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., ranking member of the committee, told Clifford. "You could do that yourself as the head of the Defense Department. I don't know of anything more devastating than such a direct appeal to the court. I urgently counsel you to seriously consider doing that."

Secretary Clifford disclosed that weighty consideration been given to seeking an emergency session of the court to overrule Douglas.

Secretary Clifford disclosed thatthat weighty consideration had been given to seeking an emergency session of the court to overrule Douglas.

"But after much thought," he told the committee, "we finally decided it would be better to wait until the court convenes on Oct. 7. I can assure you we intend to be there and to ask the justices to take up this matter as a question of first instance."

Proposition 1A Seen As Taking Votes From Watson Amendment

Proposition 1-A on the November ballot makes a lot of sense in contrast to the other "tax relief" measure — Proposition 9 (Watson Amendment).

Proposition 9 is more spectacular in that it seems to offer drastic tax cuts for property owners. What it fails to show is where the state will make up the loss in revenue from property tax. Will it be doubled income tax or tripled sales tax? No one knows.

Proposition 1-A is not nearly so drastic, and it is clear-cut. It will give the homeowner a tax relief of $70 this year. This will be financed out of existing state revenues, not from new sources like higher income taxes and higher sales taxes on which Proposition 9 must depend.

For awhile, Proposition 9 looked like a shoo-in. But with the less drastic Proposition 1-A as an alternate choice for voters, there's a good chance that the Watson Amendment will be defeated.

MARIN'S ASSESSMENT appeals board operates almost like a courtroom, with the chairman cutting off extraneous testimony such as repetitions and irrelevant facts to keep the cases moving.

But a couple of Fridays ago, the appeals board met its equal. A young lady from Belvedere appeared to protest the $59,000 market value placed on her home and property. She did most of the talking, and board members did most of the listening. After her dissertation, she got her property reduced to $58,000.

The young lady knew a thing or two about court procedure. She was Judge Janet Aitken of San Francisco Municipal Court.

YOU CAN EXPERIENCE the sensation of water skiing without getting anywhere near a bay or river, according to a safety official of the State Compensation Insurance Fund.

Just pick a rainy day and start up Highway 101 with the tire pressure about 16 pounds. At 35 or 40 miles per hour, you'll be off the ground, and riding on a film of water with no traction, just like water-skiing. Only difference is, a person on water skis follows the boat ahead. But you in your "hydroplaning car" can slide in any direction, and you have no choice in the matter.

More pressure in the tires means a little less chance of hydroplaning, but even with new treads and 32 pounds pressure, the tires will be off the pavement and "floating" on the water at 60 miles per hour.

A CIGARETTE-candy-newsstand will be located at the entrance to the new Hall of Justice, which will open in January or February. Shh! Don't Breathe A Word About Secret Humphrey Vote

WASHINGTON—Despite all the polls that indicate Hubert Humphrey is doing very badly in the campaign, there is a belief in some circles he'll do much better in the election.

The explanation for this by some Democratic Party experts is that there is a secret Humphrey vote which hasn't been showing up in the polls.

One Humphrey campaign manager told me: "No one wants to admit he is going to vote for Humphrey. It isn't socially acceptable and when a pollster comes to the door, he automatically says he's going to vote for either Nixon or Wallace. But on Election Day when he's in the booth and no one is looking, he'll probably pull the lever for Humphrey."

"HOW LARGE do you think this secret Humphrey vote could be?"

"It will probably run into the millions. There are a lot of Americans who are unhappy with the choice of Wallace and Nixon, but they aren't speaking up in fear of losing their jobs or alienating their neighbors. No one wants to admit he's a Democrat, even if he's going to vote that way."

"But how do you know there's a secret Humphrey vote out there if the polls don't show it?"

"It's obvious. You never see a Humphrey bumper sticker, or anyone wearing a Humphrey button. People just don't want to declare themselves.

"THAT WOULD BE a switch," I said.

"It isn't that much of a switch. There are a lot of people in this country who are discontented and they feel a vote for Humphrey is their way of protesting against the system."

"But won't they be wasting their vote, if they go for the Democratic Party?"

"No, they won't. It will be their way of saying that they're sick and tired of Wallace and Nixon and somebody better listen to them. Besides, if this vote is as big as we think it is, Humphrey could force this thing into the House of Representatives and then they'd have to listen to him."

"THEN YOU SEE Humphrey's role as that of a spoiler?"

"No, I don't. Humphrey is sincere about wanting to be President of the United States. When he started out in Chicago, he might have thought of himself then as a spoiler. But the more he campaigns, the more he realizes that this country is ripe for someone like him to take over the White House. So he's in the race now to win. They laughed when Humphrey first announced he was getting into the race, but they aren't laughing any more."

"But if Humphrey got enough votes, wouldn't this be the end of the two-party system in this country?"

"It might be, but that isn't his concern. He feels it's about time the American people had a choice, and he doesn't see any difference between the policies of Wallace and Nixon."

"THEN YOU FEEL that on Nov. 5 a secret Humphrey vote could change the results radically, and that we're going to discover that there are far more Democrats in this country than we've been led to believe."

"I'm certain of it. Even in my own family, I haven't told my wife I'm going to vote for Humphrey, and she hasn't told me. We refuse to admit to each other that neither one of us is not a bigot."

Plans On Agenda In Rohnert Park

Planning matters and discussion with developers will come before the Rohnert Park City Council today at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Possible changes in the city's land use map will be considered with a representative of Sonoma State College outlining the school's long range building plans.

Developer Paul Golis will present plans for a mobile home park and development west of Country Club Drive, a town center on Commerce Boulevard, an equestrian park in the northeast section of the city and a movie theatre on College View Avenue.

Golis also will present plans for a convenience market and pharmacy on Southwest Boulevard which have been turned down twice before. Council members said they felt another market was not necessary.

Also discussed will be an ennexation agreement with lands south of East Cotati Avenue and an agreement with Sonoma State College for special golf course rates for students, faculty and staff.

Petaluma Agenda Includes Library

Petaluma City Council will consider annexation of 160 acres east of the city and possible merger of the city library with the Sonoma County Library at 7:30 p.m. in city hall.

The Sonoma County Local Agency Formation Commission has presented a resolution calling for the annexation of the acreage, which is between Ely Boulevard and McDowell Street on the eastern edge of the city.

Edna Bovett, head librarian and secretary to the library board of trustees, will request a meeting with the council to study merger with the county library. The union has been considered several times before without agreement.

Animal Control On Council List

An amendment to strengthen the Fairfax animal control ordinance will be considered by the city council at a meeting at 8 p.m. today in the Fairfax Women's Club.

The council asked for stricter controls after it heard reports of young children being attacked by dogs.

The council will also hear a report on proposed traffic control on Scenic Road. A preliminary report, presented last month, called for one-way traffic on Tamalpais Road from Scenic to Mountain View Road and drew criticism from people living in the area.

Property Rezoning On Planner List

The application of David Lavelle to rezone property at 29 Magnolia Avenue from central business to neighborhood apartment is scheduled to be considered by the San Anselmo Planning Commission at 8 p.m. at city hall.

An application to conduct a drama and dance school for young children on Saturdays at 176 Tunstead Avenue also is scheduled for consideration.

Chancellor Assigns Classroom For Cleaver

BERKELEY (AP) — University of California Chancellor Roger Heyns assigned a campus classroom last night for a noncredit, student - sponsored course, with Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver as the main lecturer.

The chancellor made it clear in his announcement that the use of a university room had been authorized "only for a student-sponsored noncredit program."

The Student Center for Participant Education, which initiated the course, announced shortly afterwards that Cleaver would deliver the first of 10 lectures in the course from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Tuesday in 155 Dwinelle Hall.

The center said, however, that "the struggle" for the course, Social Analysis 139X, is not yet over.

"We must continue to press for credit for the course," the center said, adding that its position "continues to be that Social Analysis 139X must be given on campus for credit as planned."

Student body president Charles Palmer echoed the need to press for credit for the course.

"We have gotten the bottom two-thirds of our goal, that is, on campus as planned. Now we must dedicate ourselves to achieving the last and most important third, that is for credit."

Palmer added, "We must also dedicate ourselves to the much larger question of racism in our university and in our society."

The faculty instructors in the course said the issue of credit could be "properly resolved only by the actions of the Academic Senate."

Thursday night, the Academic Senate passed a resolution directing "the committee on courses to take all steps to encourage course and credit status" for the lectures.

The center said that "without credit, they (the students) face overburdened schedules, the loss of work-study jobs, the loss of GI benefits and the draft."

Kentfield Wins Hookup Contest

The second annual Marin County Fire-O-Rama yesterday saw the Kentfield Fire Department defeat two other departments in a firetruck pumper hookup contest.

Kentfield Fire Chief Kenneth Kamp said his team laid and connected the required 150 feet of hose, then got water pumping from a ground pit in 1:26 minutes. Citrus Heights Fire Department in Sacremento County was second with a time of 1:29 minutes. Tamalpais Valley Fire Department was third at 1:53 minutes.

The contest was part of a variety of demonstrations at Redwood High School, Larkspur. More activities by Marin fire departments are scheduled throughout this week, Fire Prevention Week.

Opposition Is Voiced To 101-Bed Hospital

A proposed new 101-bed hospital in Santa Venetia ran up against opposition today from E. W. Bulllard Jr., representing the Marin County Health Facilities Planning Committee.

"Our contention is that we should proceed with the expansion of existing hospitals," declared Bullard at a hearing before the county zoning administrator, Thomas E. Cordill, at the Civic Center. Bullard said hospitals like Marin, Ross and Novato General have expansion plans, and these expansions would be less costly than building new, smaller facilities.

LBM Investment Management Co., headed by A. Bernard Muth of Orinda, wants to build a 101-bed hospital and 99-bed extended care facility on 17 acres of land on north San Pedro Road, just east of Rafael Convalescent Hospital.

David Rosenberg of San Rafael, who owns the property, agrued that the number of hospital beds per 1,000 population is lower than in surrounding counties.

Dr. Stephen A. Duff, San Rafael chiropractor, supported the proposed new hospital. He said he is "taken aback" to find restrictions being placed on private enterprise.

Cordill announced he would postpone a decision until he meets with the developers and representatives of the health facilities committee sometime this week to see what effect a new hospital will have on existing facilities.

Students Aim For Understanding

By GRACE HENDERSON

"Peace Through Understanding" is the theme of the American Field Service, and young people the world over endeavor to achieve this end. All who participate as exchange students between high schools in the United States and other lands are in their senior years and will be graduated next spring from high schools in a country other than their own.

Two such students are now attending Redwood High School and learning the customs of their adoptive families. Borghild Storaas from Norway is staying with the S. J. Weil family in Greenbrae, and Luiz de Oliveriera came from Brazil to live with the Nicholas Suntzeff family in Corte Madera.

Borghild, 18, says her Norwegian language has no word for dating but that teens in the two countries are very much alike. The average age for marriage is 22 for girls and 25 for boys, with an equal number of each enrolled in college in Norway. "I have a great time here and enjoy every single day," she said of her new life.

WEARING A COSTUME of her country, Borghild reflected the image of her land as we conversed in the women's department of the Independent-Journal. Her ankle length skirt was of light wool, all black with black trim at the hemline and finished with knife pleats at the waistband. Her silver brooch and bright red vest were designed to designate her home region, the fjords.

Borghild's traditional long white apron, hand embroidered by her grandmother, was combined with her white, long-sleeved blouse which also had hand embroidery on the cuffs. The borders on her vest were hand woven, as was the gusset, a tri-cornered piece worn in the front.

Her stockings were the traditional black and the costume was set off by black "clunky" shoes, very similar to the fall 1968 styles. However, her shoes were not purchased at a local bootery but are a part of the national cosume of Norway.

THE PERSONABLE BLONDE could not estimate the number of hours represented in making her costume. All hand work was done by her grandmother, aunts, friends and others who worked together to complete her outfit for her confirmation, a time when most Norwegian girls acquire the ensemble. It will be worn at celebrations and all national holidays and will serve as an identification of her home town.

What will Borghild do on her return to Norway? She will enroll in one of the two universities there and hopes to develop an interest in home economics or some other field. She plans to attend Bergen University in Bergen, Norway.

For entertainment Borghild finds football games exciting and enjoys going to the movies, the latter being influenced by "whether I want to talk or not." In speaking of sports and interests she observed "I like everything."

AS FOR SCENERY in the United States and more particularly in Marin County, she expressed fascination for the Golden Gate Bridge saying her country has nothing to equal its grace and beauty.

Borghild could be an outstanding teen-ager in any country and Marin is fortunate to have her and her counterparts for the 1968-69 school year. Her parents were enthusiastic about the AFS program thinking it to be the "best way of allowing me to go," explained Borghild. She has two younger brothers and one sister. Her father owns a general store.

She doesn't plan to be homesick saying, "There is too much to do and too much to learn to waste time being homesick. After all, a year isn't very long." And the outgoing Norwegian flashed her friendly smile as someone explained, "Borghild was one of 15 students chosen from the 3500 applicants in Norway this year."

LUIZ de OLIVERIERA, 17, a tall, lean blue-eyed lad, says the schools here in America are much better than in his native country of Brazil. Parents are more strict in all of his country and people do not grow up as fast. Teens in the United States are more concerned about important things, said the high school senior from Araraquara, Brazil.

Asked what his parents thought of his leaving home for a year, he said they favored the program and were happy for him to have the opportunity. His father is a lawyer and he has one sister and two brothers at their home about 2,000 miles inland.

Commenting on his two days in New York, and the east coast, Luiz stated the Pacific Ocean is much prettier than the Atlantic.

DO TEEN-AGERS WORK during the summer months in Brazil? "No" was the reply because to work is to admit being poor and that brings social stigma. As a result young people just live to enjoy themselves.

Boys begin dating at the age of 17 or 18 and then only ask girls out whom they have known at least six months. Everybody goes to the movies on Saturday evening because that is the traditional place to be, he said.

Luiz hopes to become a mathematician and will attend the University of San Pablo and may return to the United States some day.

Discussing the cost of living, Luiz said good jeans are much less expensive here but that shoes cost more than at home because of the abundance of good leather there. He also commented that boys do not wear their hair long in Brazil.

INTERESTED IN the operation being performed by L. H. Anderson, stereotyper in the press room of the Independent-Journal, are Mollie Squires of Greenbrae, left, Luiz de Oliveriera of Brazil and Borghild Storaas from Norway. All are connected with the American Field Service program. Mollie spent her summer in Thailand promoting "Peace Through Understanding" and Luiz and Borghild are attending Redwood High School where they will be graduated in June before returning to their homes. THE TEEN-AGERS' QUEST

Minority Spearheading Drive

Last of a series on the symposium "Uses of Freedom: The Teen-agers' Quest," just held by the University of California Medical Center.

By BARBARA HOSMER

The activist student minority is spearheading the drive for changes in a higher education system that is inadequate for the needs of young people today, asserted Dr. Joseph Katz of Stanford University.

Dr. Katz, who is associate director of the Institute for the Study of Human Problems at Stanford, told his audience that the college situation calls for radical changes. The vocal minority of activists are expressing the frustration of the majority of students who do not feel strongly challenged in their passive role in today's classrooms, he said.

He termed the creative activists as the students who are "the sparkplugs of the universities, the ones who keep them alive."

Dr. Katz, who made his studies from the situations at Stanford and University of California at Berkeley, characterized the activists as creative realizers who have come from homes that had an openness and respect for the child.

"They had a better model in their own homes and parents, and want their educational institutions to be as advanced. The generation gap doesn't hold here," he said.

The activists, who are humanitarian-minded and largely plan to go into the service professions, won't be a minority much longer, Dr. Katz predicted, as they are expressing the aspirations of a great many of their classmates.

IT IS THE students, not the faculty, who have taken the initiative toward reforms, he pointed out.

"The students are better experts about education than the faculty. Their expertise on a subject is not questioned, but about the educational process the faculty are not as knowledgeable as the students," he stated.

"The faculty haven't taken a look at what their students have actually learned and what they've retained, say, a year after."

Dr. Katz said that the educational system today is not too different than it was in 1880, despite the fact that more kinds of people are seeking different things in the university than ever before.

HE LISTED CHANGES he believes are needed:

1. Extension of the range of adult contact with the students — access to a much larger group of adults should be given. "Bring people in as auxiliary faculty and have the youth go out and have contact with them, such as a businessman interested in

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

DEAR HELEN:

At the age of 52, and having been married for 23 years, I fell for the flirting of a female half my age. This affair was an innocent one, with no promises. She made me feel young and renewed, and I thought our relationship a good one.

After 14 months of kindness, both give and take, she showed her true colors. She called my wife and exposed our affair; then, when I confronted her with this, she denied the call, though she implied I owed her my name. I broke off, telling her I had no intention of divorce, nor had I ever — and she knew it!

Then the phone calls started. My wife was harassed with untrue stories about how I was still seeing this woman and how I wanted my freedom but was afraid to ask. I went to her apartment for a showdown, but she finally convinced me she was not the caller. I guess I trusted her. She talked me into thinking my wife was just making up a good story, and she'd calm down after while, when she got over "menopause nerves." Meanwhile, "Why not drop by when things get too rough at home?"

I was a fool! The young lady soon took up with another "senior citizen" with more money, and I am sick at heart because my wife divorced me five months ago. After I had admitted that I'd been duped, why did she do that? — OLD AND ALONE

DEAR O. AND A.:

Because she has a wife's attitude toward an "innocent affair" and she may finally have faced the truth: You'll try it again. A dope who enjoys being duped shouldn't be surprised when he's dumped.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband feels a marriage not based on honesty will falter. But how can I be honest when guilt was stamped so clearly on my mind?

You see, my husband and I put our wedding date up three months because I was pregnant. My mother, whom I love dearly, thought I had disgraced the whole family and she made me lie about my due-date. I had to say the baby was born prematurely. I hid my condition when I wanted to be proud of it. This irked my husband, but he went along with it.

Three children later, we are still a very happy couple. I'd almost forgotten my early shame when our oldest son asked me how long we'd been married. I said nine years at the same time my husband said eight. (The boy is seven and one-half.) He didn't catch it, but that began a long argument after the children were in bed.

I am accused of being under a puritanical mother's thumb and afraid to level with the children, who may find out on their own anyway. I feel society still condemns the pregnant bride and why stir up old guilts? Besides, how can I teach our daughters right from wrong when they know their mother did wrong? Which of us is right? —CONFUSED

DEAR CON:

Your husband is right. Society doesn't condemn "premature parents" nowadays, though it recognizes the hardships they bring on themselves. Your daughters may learn more from your mistake than they would ever gain from Puritanical lectures. Be honest now, wouldn't forthright sex discussions have help you?—H.

Personal to "They're All Alike to Old Don Juan" — Down, Juan! Your "broad" outlook will get your ears pinned back. Not all gals are that eager.—H.

New Hair Dryer

A new hair dryer is aimed for the teen-set with its humorous "bug" with wide eyelashes cover design and enough room beneath for the teen-ager to dry her hair and carry on that everlasting telephone conversation also. The dryer works like a professional one with hot, warm and cool settings; salon sized, it will take in even jumbo roller sets. No drying net is necessary.

Changes In Higher Education Instigated By Minority

youth having a group to his home," he suggested. Use adults as "models and mentors." Relate the whole society to the work in the classroom.

2. A fundamental restructuring of the subject matter, with less emphasis on book learning. "The assumption that people learn by reading is a preposterous notion. For example, child psychology can't be learned from a book — rather expose the students to children in schools and on the playground." Students should participate in curriculum planning.

"The four year college concept is absurd today — it may take two, four or eight years for different people to learn." Also learning four or five subjects at once may be unreasonable, Dr. Katz said. Some learn one at a time best or five at a time. "This ought to be determined by a student's needs and varies with the years. What's best in his freshman year may not be best for him as a junior."

3. A whole change in the meaning of college work. A grade point average or degree is often looked at as a passport to prestige, Dr. Katz stated. "Actually students want to do work that is useful to other people, to create a product that makes them and other people happy."

He pointed out that student years are a high energy time and yet students are expected to sit still most of the time. He suggested that they might be pumped into secondary and primary schools to help overburdened teachers, for example.

Also, he said that students today want to be in charge of what they are doing, yet they have little say even in their dormitory arrangements. "They want to exercise their own creativity and independence in their own lives."

4. Less neglect of the education of young women in college. "Generally we act as if we are educating only one sex. It's discouraging to college women to see that purveyors of education — the faculty — are all men. Sophomore slump and senior panic may be traced to this phenomenon."

Dr. Katz concluded from his studies that the student years are a time of life when "we could use the potential energies of the student to create and renew society."

Both men and women are welcome to volunteer to assist in any of the eight Mill Valley elementary schools. Prospective volunteers may contact Mrs. Buckley at the Park School or at her home in Mill Valley for further information

'Understanding'

BOTH LUIZ AND Borgchild have been away from home two months. At the conclusion of there schooling they will meet each other AFS students for a three-week bus trip across the United States, going east. Students who spend the year on the eastern seaboard will come west for their trip.

THE THIRD MEMBER of the panel interviewed was Mollie Squires, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Robert Squires of Greenbrae, who spent the summer months in Samrong, Thailand. She flew to her destination and was one of 15 students there. She attended classes and became acquainted with both the people and the country.

"No one will ever starve to death in Thailand," she said, telling about how each piece of ground was pointed to with pride and the statement made, "There is more land on which to grow rice for our people."

Schooling has taken great steps in advancement the past few years and is readily available in all part of Thailand now, she said. Boys and girls are separated for classes and, if together in a room, are seated with the boys in the back rows and the girls at the front of the room. Dating begins at about 20 or 21 years of age, she said.

MOLLIE'S TRIP was a part of the summer program of AFS which involves young people between their junior and senior years in high school. It is a personal experience based on "Peace Through Understanding" with people walking together, talking together, to bring about a better world, she reported.

Mrs. Squires, also interested in the AFS program, is president of the Redwood High School Exchange Club.

Exchange Committee Elects Mr. And Mrs. Leland Bright

A husband and wife team, the parents of three sons age 12 to 20, are leading the adult International Student Exchange Committee at Terra Linda High School this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland S. Bright of San Rafael state, "The purpose of the organization is to promote a better understanding between the United States and other nations through student exchange programs. American Field Service students from other nations come to live in local homes for a year and have the opportunity of learning firsthand our customs, ideals, interests and problems. They share a knowledge of their own backgrounds with American families and friends.

"Our Terra Linda High ambassadors, through the Experiment in International Living summer program, experience much the same thing in the countries they visit. When they return they, too, share their impressions and experiences with the community which has financially supported their trips."

Under the Brights' leadership, the committee has held a community "Welcome Picnic" honoring three foreign students who have arrived for a year's study at Terra Linda High. A fund-raising appeal was made Sept. 30, when over 200 Trojans and 50 adult volunteers participated in a door-to-door drive in the Gallinas Valley. The committee also works year-round in reviewing applications of prospective "exchangers," seeking and selecting homes for foreign students and aiding the campus International Friendship Club.

Betty and Lee Bright, four-year residents of Marin County, are natives of San Francisco and Omaha, Neb. Lee, a graduate of American Institute of Banking in the city, is now assistant vice president of Insurance and Securities, Inc. there. Betty attended University of Nebraska and is a part-time elementary school secretary.

Camping and hiking are the activities they most like to share with their sons, Lee III, a junior at the University of California at Santa Barbara; Bill, a sophomore at Terra Linda High; and Barton, a seventh grader at Miller Creek School.

With three sons, the scouting program has been an integral part of their lives. Mr. Bright currently serves as scoutmaster of Marinwood Troop 74.

Assisting them in their work for international understanding are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Horvath, vice chairmen; Mrs. Lynn Parker, secretary; Mrs. Clifford Campbell, treasurer; Messrs. and Mesdames Richard DeKay and David Pfeiffer, student and home selection chairman; Henry Aubel, fund drive chairmen; Howard Council and John King, hospitality; Mesdames Gibson Crawford and Terence Grew, publicity; and Messrs. Scott Hayes and Ken Oldham, faculty representatives.

The engagement of Georgia Owen of Walnut and John Lucken of Point Reyes Station has been announced.

The future bride is the daughter of Mrs. Robert Alegria of Tujunga and George Owen of Walnut, and John's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Lucken of Point Reyes Station.

Georgia is the sister of Debbie, Judy and Robert Owen, and her fiance is the brother of Joseph C. Lucken Jr. of Petaluma. John served with the military in Vietnam and is employed in Walnut with Morris Industry.

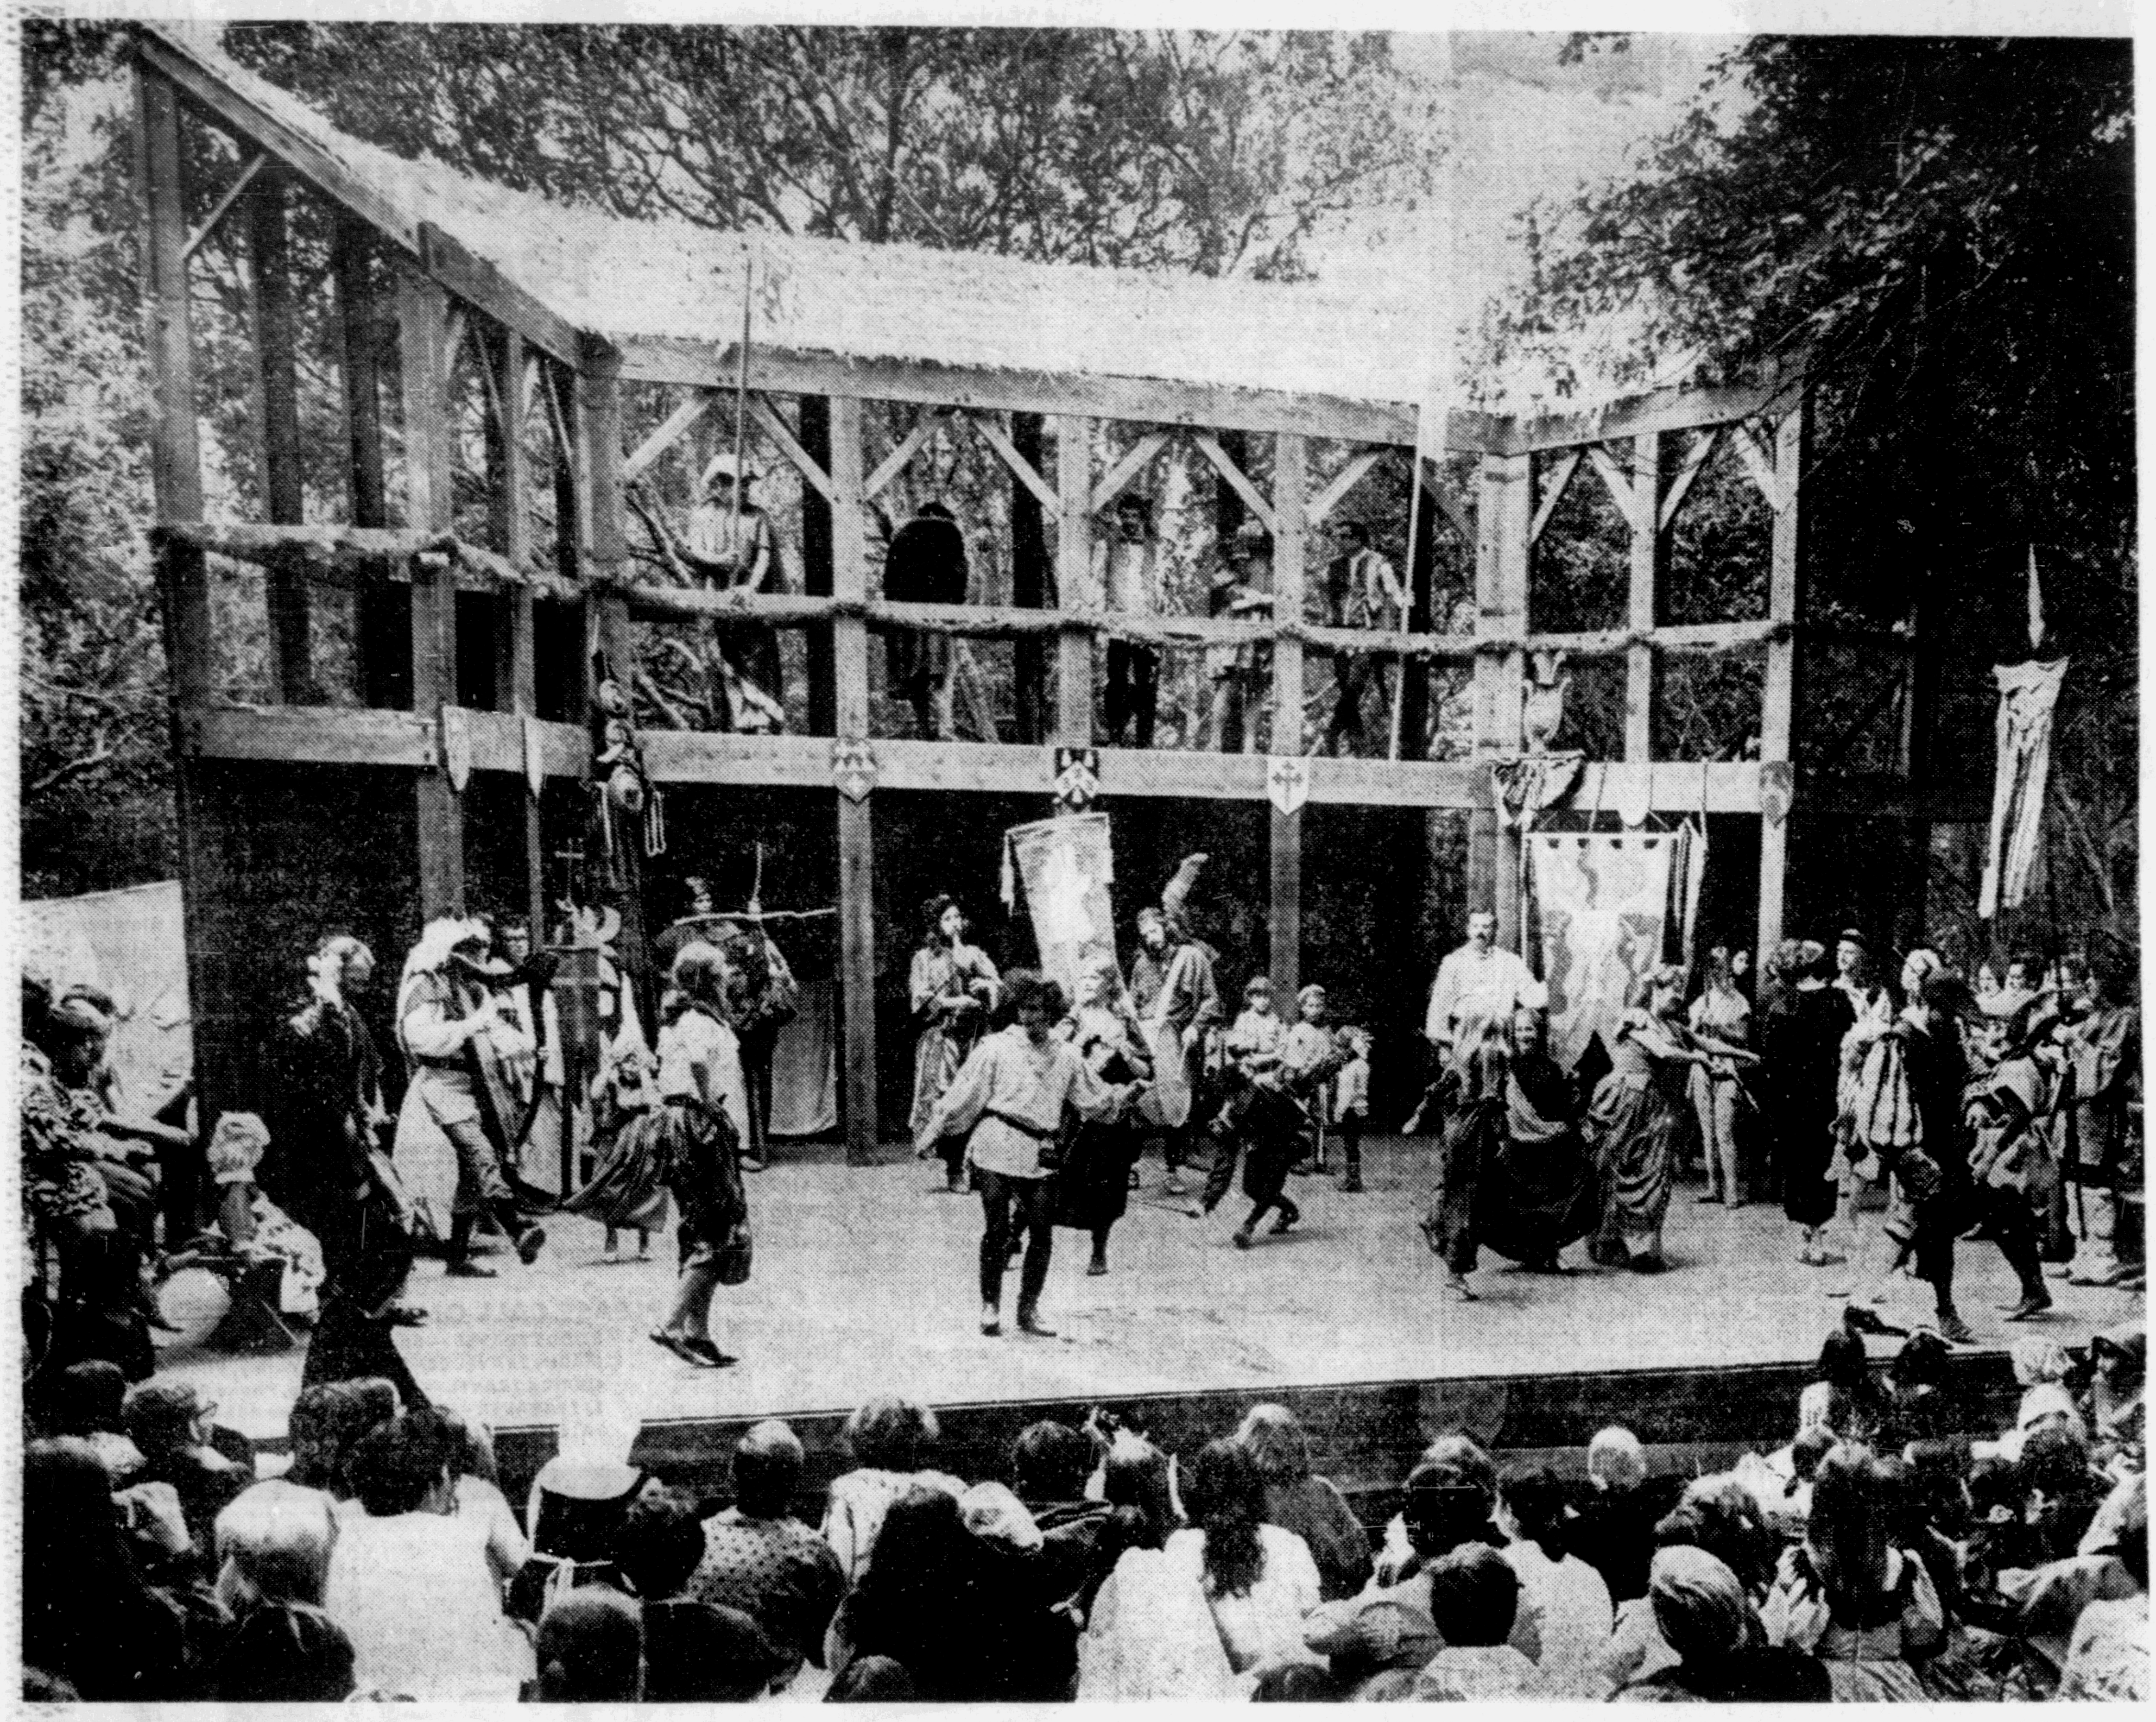
Pleasures Of The Past Revived At Renaissance Faire



A SWINGING OPENING — After a parade to Greenwood Saturday the Renaissance Pleasure Faire opened at the Greenwood Theater in a wooded area off North San Pedro Road east of Santa Venetia. Tradesmen of the realm danced during the Guildmaster's Day festivities. The Pleasure Faire will continue next Saturday and Sunday and Oct. 19 and 20. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

Authenticity Is Stressed By Faire's Co-Creator

By DAVID DIETZ

The host of the television show was asking the role of each costumed participant and encountered a young woman with a protruding stomach.

"Is that genuine or is that part of the costume?" the host inquired.

"Oh, it's genuine," the woman said brightly.

"At the faire, we insist on authenticity," Patterson said.

And so it is. The Renaissance Pleasure Faire, which opened this weekend at a woodsy retreat off North San Pedro Road, meticulously recreates the atmosphere of Old Engish entertainment.

"In the pleasure faires of Medieval and Renaissance England," the faire program says, "traveling merchants, minstrels and mummers met buyers and revelers in annual festive mood at crossroads or in green fields.

"In these brief but rich remembered days," the program continued, "mirth as well as merchandise was traded."

This is the spirit which Patterson; his wife, Phyllis, co-creator, and their troupe have tried to revive on several acres of land a mile west of the Civic Center.

The festival has returned to Marin County for the second year and joins a Renaissance Pleasure Faire conducted by the Pattersons in the Los Angeles area each spring. The Marin event benefits Berkeley educational radio KPFA and a future Renaissance Art Center and faire site in the Bay Area.

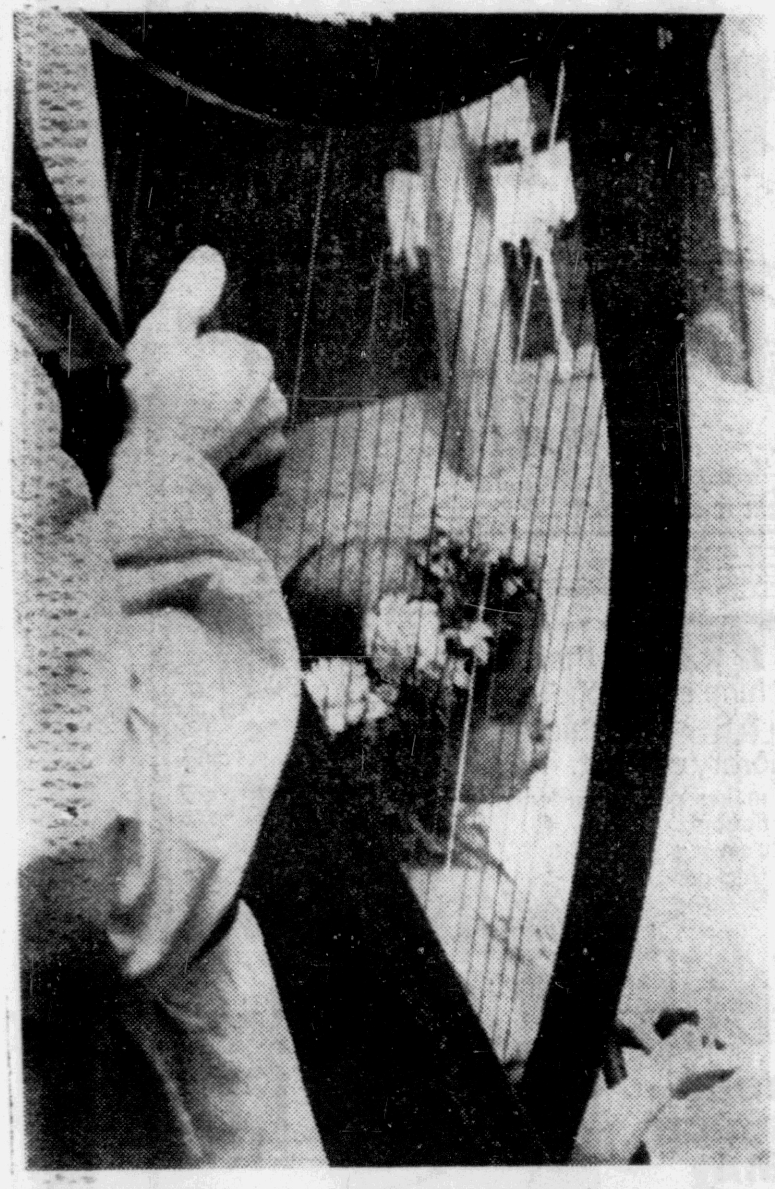
A network of trails takes visitors past bucolic stalls from which food, and grog and items such as jewelry, tapestries, candles, art and leather goods are sold.

Many of the thousands of visitors who attended the opening weekend of the faire (it will continue Saturday and Sunday and Oct. 19 and 20 from 11 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.) joined the performers in costume. The faire producers will even provide instructions on how to make clothing worn in 16th Century England.

Modern dress is not scorned, although certainly misplaced. Some visitors were seen in suit and tie, while one youth was wearing a jacket which read on the back: "McCoy Bite Rite Racing Tires, Modesto."

There are other discordant features, but they are somehow accepted as part of the action. A man was dispensing Phil Drath for Congress bumper stickers at the faire entrance and, inside, a woman wearing a sandwich board was soliciting for the Biafra Relief Fund.

And among the faire's costumed minstrels, jugglers, mummers and jesters and the continuous dance and song at the Greenwood Theater and the jousts and parades, uniformed Marin County firemen and Burns detectives walk, their faces grim and disinterested.



IN THE WINGS — Behind the strings of a harp stands a flower girl waiting her cue to join the dancing.

MEDIEVAL BEAUTY — The costumes of old England lent an air of authenticity to the faire and enhanced the physical attributes of the fair maidens.

ART REVIEW

College Faculty Scores A Smash In New Show

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Not that there was anything wrong with the first one. There wasn't. It's just that walking into this one you're immediately hit by its sense of impact and importance.

It's a much leaner show with faculty members represented by fewer, stronger pieces, the biggest and most powerful of which are placed sparsely around the gallery perimeter. These are the first things you see and it's this arrangment which gives the show its impact.

While most insistent of all are the stark shapes of Gwen Stone's green and blue scalloped wall relief and the pure white expanses of Marc Pessin's paintings banded with directional lines of graduated color.

Turning inward from this striking area is a central maze of panels where the smaller, quieter or representational works have more intimate space assigned to them.

Here, they aren't forced to compete with the larger, more strident pieces. And here, in niches, glass cases or in quiet groupings, are many absorbing examples of ceramics, weaving, jewelry, photography, small paintings and sculpture.

In all, this year's faculty show is put together for the maximum benefit of both viewer and artist. As much as any group show can, this one provides equal opportunity for each exhibitor, regardless of subtlty or style, to display his competence and to express his individuality. The arrangment makes for a very enlightening and enjoyable one.

OPERA REVIEW

Triple Bill Offers Adventure Into The 20th Century Music

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO — Music lovers who think of opera as stuffy and decadent and of San Francisco Opera productions as lacking adventurous spirit must have been delighted with Saturday night's triple bill of one-act modern works in debut performances at the San Francisco Opera House.

But opera buffs who favor traditional fare must have wondered if they knew what opera is. All three works were 20th Century attempts to take a new approach to the operatic form.

The first, the American premiere of "Royal Palace" with Kurt Weill's distrinctive jazzy and atonal music and German text, was performed in dance-drama version by Gunther Schuller, who conducted all three operas with tremendous dynamic impact. But opera? To us "Royal Palace" was ballet with vocal accompaniment.

The second work, the San Francisco Opera debut of Schoenberg's expressionistic, atonal "Ewartung" was indeed opera, if one can so define a virtuoso performance by just one singer—Marie Collier — but the third work, the American stage premiere of Milhaud's polytonal "Christopher Columbus" seemed to be more of a spectacular pageant and morality epic.

Of the three operas, which were a major effort of the 1968 season, Adolf Rott's production of "Christopher Columbus" was not appealing on many levels with many characters, 100-voice double choir used like a Greek chorus and 15 scenes in which designers Skalicki and West achieved amazing phantasmagorical effects with many slide or moving film projections on backdrop and scrim.

In this work nine men made American debuts, but all except Herbert Beattie were in roles too brief to permit judgment of their capacity. William Wildermann as the explicator and Beattie as the prosecuter were heard only in speaking roles but added greatly to understanding through their powerful and precise English diction.

Only Thomas Tipton as Christopher Columbus I had a major singing role, in which he was magnificent. Alan Monk as Christopher Columbus II could not be heard much of the time — partly because of too loud orchestral playing and choral singing. The chorus was electrifying in climaxes.

As Queen Isabella, soprano Carol Todd had the only important female role and sang it beautifully.

The vocal triumph of the evening was that of dramatic soprano Marie Collier, whose vocal power and dramatic resources in negotiating the jagged vocal line in the atonal shocker "Ewartung" were incredible. The nightmarish mood was greatly enhanced by Paul Hager's production and Aeberli's and West's huge convoluted metalic mazes reminscent of contemporary abstract sculpture.

They were perfect objectifications of a women's crazed mental state as she returned to the scene of the murder of her lover, the interpretation which seemed most logical to us.

Projections of abstract art-like forms and symbolic line drawings of human faces were effectively used by Skalicki in "Royal Palace," which as noted above, was just ballet and pantomime since the singers never even appeared on stage.

With her graceful but tautly disciplined body Charlene Mehl was just about the whole show in the choreography for some 18 dancers created by Alan Johnson, though there was a memorable routine with one male dancer. For us Weill's music was the main attraction.

Costumes from the wardrobe department of the Marin Shakespeare Festival are available for rent for the first time, the group reports. Information may be obtained from the festival at 814 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

Film Industry Adopts New Rating System

NEW YORK (AP)—The movie industry, for the first time in its history, has adopted a film rating system which will restrict admission to some movies it considers unsuitable for young people.

The ratings are to be enforced voluntarily by individual theater managers.

The classification program goes into effect Nov. 1, when films will be rated in four categories:

G—for general audiences;

M—for mature audiences (adults);

R—young people will not be admitted unless accompanied by a parent or an adult guardian;

X—young people will not be admitted.

The minimum age is generally accepted as 17 under the plan, but may vary between 16 and 18 according to individual states and cities.

Details of the plan, which has been in the works for several months, were announced today by Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, along with Julian Rifkin, president of the National Association of Theater Owners, and Munio Podhorzer, a member of the governing committee of the International Film Importers and Distributors of America.

Two years ago, the industry rewrote its production guidelines, the Production Code, which had been in effect with minor changes since 1930. The new code recognized the growing liberal trend in film subjects and gave filmmakers more leeway in treating sex, sin and violence. It also gave production code officials the power to label certain films "suggested for mature audiences." But it did not otherwise classify films.

The new rating system was born a good deal out of fear that the government at some level would step in to legislate films because of the growing conern for the increase in sex and violence in movies of recent years.

A number of cities throughout the country have prepared local classification laws and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, often has suggested a Senate study of the possibility of federal film classification.

Annual Blessing Of Fishing Fleet

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco's fishing fleet was blessed by a Roman Catholic priest at Fisherman's Wharf yesterday in a ceremony brought from Sicily 33 years ago.

Father Joseph Costanzo sprinkled holy water on the fishing boats and prayed to the Blessed Mother for abundance and protection.

The observance perpetuated a ceremony originated in the middle ages in Porticiello, Sicily. It was there that the Madonna del Lume is said to have performed the first of many miracles which saved the lives of imperiled fishermen.

Board Wants State In On Oil Discussion

The State Land Commission has been asked to send a representative to discuss the commission's proposal to allow oil and gas drilling in San Pablo Bay to a hearing at 1:45 p.m. tomorrow before the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Officials from Sonoma, Contra Costa and Solano counties have also been invited to the meeting. Last week the Marin supervisors were warned by the Marin Conservation League and the Bay Conservation and Development Commission that the drilling could result in dotting the bay with 234 platforms for wells.

Also on the supervisors' afternoon agenda are discussions of pedestrian safety on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Greenbrae and a request by George Kappas to add fill to raise his levees in Richardson Bay.

The supervisors will hold a workshop session on law enforcement and public safety at 9 a.m. in room 400-B of the Civic Center. They will meet with Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, fire officials, court clerks, District Attorney Bruce B. Bales, and probation and communications officials.

At 10:30 a.m. the supervisors will reconvene in their chambers for the regular agenda.

Jesuits Backing Punished Priests In Birth Feuding

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fifteen Jesuit priests at Georgetown University have sided with Washington-area Catholic priests punished by Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle for dissenting from Pope Paul's encyclical on birth control

The Jesuits said in a statement issued yesterday they agree with the dissenting priests that under certain circumstances Catholic couples may be guided by their consciences on using artificial birth control methods.

Bishops throughout the world have take a different view on the Pope's encyclical, the Jesuits' statement said, and Cardinal O'Boyle's refusal to accept any other "creates a serious problem" in the Archdiocese of Washington.

Historic Cruise Of Bay Slated

A cruise of San Francisco Bay, with emphasis on historic points, will be held from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Oct. 13, sponsored by the California Historical Society.

The cruise will leave from Pier 43½, Fisherman's Wharf, and lunch will be at the Corinthian Yacht Club.

Reservations may be made with the society, 2090 Jackson Street, San Francisco.

Achievers Seek Place To Meet

Sponsors and a meeting place for return of the Junior Achievement program to Marin are being sought, according to Denman K. McNear of Mill Valley, Bay Area president of the program. The program seeks to give young people an insight into business methods.

About 100 students in the county have signed up for this year's program, according to McNear. The teen-agers will set up their own companies, elect officers, handle production, pay wages, sell merchandise and pay dividends on stock they have sold.

Since the San Rafael Recreation Center is no longer available as a meeting place, another building is being sought.

Pacafic Gas and Electric Co., Fairchild Semiconductor, Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. and Northwestern Pacific Railroad are current sponsors, but more are being sought, McNear said.

Sponsors contribute money and four advisers each to teach management, production, accounting and sales.

Companies willing to sponsor the program and persons knowing of a meeting place are asked to contact McNear or C. E. Neal of San Rafael.

Not Humiliation To Lose Two, Says McLain

By MILTON RICHMAN

DETROIT (UPI)—If he knew how to cry, Denny McLain said he would. He looked like he meant it, too.

"I can't ever remember crying in my life," said Detroit's slightly tarnished golden boy. "I don't know how. I think if I could, I would."

When newsmen first were permitted into Detroit's depressed dressing quarters after yesterday's 10-1 embarrassment by the high-riding St. Louis Cardinals, Denny McLain, who had been cuffed for four runs and six hits in 2 2-3 innings, was in a position that seemed to personify all the Tigers.

He tried to make light talk but it didn't quite come off.

"It's the worst World Series I've ever played in," said the puckish, 24-year-old pitching ace of the Tigers' staff.

There was an awkward silence for maybe a moment or two and then came the questions. McLain made a masterful attempt to answer every last one.

"No," he said reflectively. "I wouldn't call what happened to me a humiliation. There are a few guys who lost two games before. Didn't Koufax? And how about Whitey Ford?"

Sandy Koufax did lose two games but not in the same World Series. McLain was right about Ford, though. The former Yankee lefty dropped two series games to Koufax in 1963.

"Is your shoulder hurting?" They asked McLain.

"Yes," he said, simply.

"How much?"

"Enough," he answered.

"Did it hurt you going in today?"

"Yes."

"Have you been getting treatment for it the past three days?"

"Yes. I hurt it again in Baltimore before the end of the season."

"Are you going to the doctor again for it tomorrow morning?"

"Yes," said McLain. "I've been taking X-ray treatments for it. I've had my limit of that. They may shoot it now."

"You mean with cortisone?"

"Yes."

"You know some people may consider this an alibi, don't you?"

"I know," said McLain. "I hope they don't think it's an alibi. I pitched 340 damn innings so I don't see how they can consider it an alibi."

Then there were some more questions about the game itself.

"What was your reaction to Brock opening with a homer on the second pitch of the ball game?"

"How about the rain? Did that bother you?"

"Uh, uh. The conditions were the same for both clubs. I guess that was evident. I wish we never played though."

"Do you think this will hurt you, after the great season you had?"

"You mean financially?" McLain wanted to know.

"All it hurts is my pride," he said, without even waiting for the answer. "It can't cost me one dime financially. I'm booked solid all winter."

JIM GILMARTIN

A Moral Vistory At The Goal Line

MONDAY MUSINGS:

I really didn't expect the 49ers to beat the Rams yesterday but, sheesh, it was one of those frustrating "what-might-have-been" games. They COULD have.

The Niners committed rules infractions at the damnedest times, but they really blew the duke, I thought, by going for a field goal from 18 inches out rather than gutting it out for a game-tying touchdown in the third quarter.

That moral victory at the goal line was all the vaunted Ram defense needed to sew it up. Had the 49ers tied it up the momentum may have inspired them to greater things and forced the Rams to panic a bit.

I thought the Niner offensive line did a fair to middlin' job of toughing it out against the Rams' "Fearsome Foursome." Quarterback John Brodie was dumped for losses only three times while attemtpting to pass, a low mark for the L.A. pass rushers. After Brodie was hurt, George Mira was dumped twice, but it was late in the game and Georgie Porgie was colder than yesterday's mashed potatoes.

A Dandy Outlook In The Line

Rookie tackle Cas Banaszek and sophomore guard Elmer Collett give the S.F. offensive line a "youth movement" look that could develop into a dandy.

The television director did an outstanding job showing the interior linemen at their brutal tasks. The stop-action camera work proved Mill Valleyan Collett and Banaszek handled themselves well. I hope the TV people give us more of that coverage.

End Clifton McNeil continues to look like the Niners' best deal since the wheel. Picked up from Cleveland earlier this season, McNeil grabbed seven more passes yesterday and at present has the hottest pair of hands in the NFL. It looks like he's for real and not just a shot in the dark as some critics suggested earlier.

m

Things Won't Get Any Easier

Well, anyway, it was a tough loss but things won't get easier, at least for the next four Sundays when the Niners must face Baltimore (4-0), New York (4-0), Detroit (2-2) and Cleveland (2-2).

Not what you could call a breather in sight until Nov 24 against Pittsburgh and Dec. 15 against Atlanta. It may be a cold winter.

Meanwhile, over on the other channel yesterday was the greatest mismatch since Little Big Horn, a soap box (world) series titled "A Man For All Seasons" starring Bob Gibson of St. Louis. After he mesmerized the Detroit Tigers in 80 degree heat at St. Looie last Wednesday, ol' Hoot Gibson proved nearly as effective in the cold and wet at Detroit yesterday. The rain was mainly on McLain. (I've got it, by George, I think I've got it! Maybe the Tigers should throw in the towel.

And, if you want to ruin your whole winter, just think: The Giants have to play those dynamic Cards all next season. Pleasant dreams.

Brundage Reelection Issue To Come Up At IOC Meet

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Avery Brundage, sharply opposed by Russia, will stand for re-election or yield the presidency of the International Olympic Committee within the next few days.

Brundage, 81-year-old Chicago millionaire who has held the world's key post of amateur athletics since 1952, hadn't declared his intentions as the full, 72-member IOC began a session today.

But, then neither had any potential rival for the prestige-laden job which is pretty expensive for the average amateur sport addict. Brundage has been whizzing around the world and presiding in plush hotels for 16 years on his own tab.

Two possible candidates mentioned are count Jean de Beaumont of France and Giulio Onesti of Italy. Beaumont, 63, is a wealthy banker and presi of the French Olympic Committee. Onesti already has made a power play on the Olympic scene as president of the Italian Olympic Committee.

Onesti last week was unanimously elected president of the newly-formed permanent asembly of National Olympic Committees, a mildly dissident group to the IOC. At that time, Onesti, a Rome lawyer, said he lacked the wealth to shoot for the IOC presidency.

Pertinent to the presidential election—one of 56 items listed on the IOC's agenda continuing until Saturday's start of the 19th Olympiad—a Russian official took a verbal poke at Brundage in a pre-IOC convention interiview.

Sergue Povlov, Russia's secretary of sports, suggested that Brundage retire, but like all critics of the Olympic partiarch, he dodged naming a specific candidate.

Asked who would be an ideal successor to Brundage, Povlov said the name didn't matter, that the main thing is "to correct mistakes and strive for a fraternal relationship within the IOC."

Povlov blamed Brundage for absence of many important countries from IOC membership; for IOC acts of discrimination in such cases as North Korea and East Germany, and for not including such sports as basketball and rowing for women on the Olympic program.

Although the presidential election is listed 10th on the agenda, the written nominations with election the following day could come at once or later in the week.

Hornets' Running Does It

By GARY TISCHLER

The senior Tamalpais signal caller, after a slow start, rolled up 170 yards and hit on 12 of 21 passes for two touchdowns to easily outduel Novato quarterback Russ Dillon, but the Hornet runners buzzed all over a leaky Tamalpais defense to roll to a 26-18 Marin County Athletic League victory that wasn't decided until the final period.

The Hornets probably could have used the waterboy at quarterback the way the backs were running off tackle in great big spurts. Greg Davenport, big fullback Tom Zechlin and halfback Pat Greene did all the damage, with Davenport scoring twice on runs of 11 and 33 yards and Green adding eight points to his league-leading total.

Davenport chewed up 146 yards in nine carries to outshine Tam halfback Luther Brown, but not by much.

Mackin got the Indians off to a quick start when he hit Ron Small with a 30-yard touchdown pass on a third-and-one play for a 6-0 lead in the first quarter.

The Hornets came back in easy fashion with only referee's flags getting in the way. Davenport lugged in the tying TD on an 11-yard run, then Dillon hit Zechlin with a 10-yard TD flat pass for the go-ahead TD at the half, 12-6.

The Hornets couldn't quite get rid of the Indians, as Mackin connected again with Small in the third period on a 20-yard TD toss to tie it at 12-12.

But the Hornets, threatening to blow the game up all day, finally did it in the final period as Davenport climaxed one drive with a brilliant 33-yard shot and Greene scored on a 20-yard fake and burst, adding conversion kicks on both scores to put it out of reach.

It was a clash of high-powered unbeatens but the title-hungry Hornets had a little too much defense in a the long afternoon of crisp hitting.

Raiders' Big Rally Does It

Nance, the Patriots' fullback who led the American Football League in rushing the last two seasons, missed the game with an ankle injury while the Patriots fell to the Oakland Raiders, 41-10 before 44,253 fans.

"Boston isn't the same team without him," said victorious coach John Rauch.

JUST 48 YARDS

Without Nance, the Patriots, now 2-2, gained only 48 yards on the ground. He may be ready for Boston's game at home against Houston next Sunday, says Patriot Coach Mike Holovak.

Oakland, 4-0 for the year and on a 14-game AFL winning streak, not counting the Super Bowl loss to Green Bay, will be tested at home against San Diego.

The Patriots scared Oakland by taking a 10-7 halftime lead on Gene Thomas' four-yard field goal. Oakland's second quarter score came on Daryle Lamonica's nine-yard pass to Warren Wells.

'ROOF FELL IN'

But in the second half, as Holovak put it, "The roof fell in."

Wells went 41 yards on an end-around play for a score. Hewritt Dixon took a 17-yard scoring pass from Lamonica, and Fred Biletnikoff recovered Charlie Smith's fumble after a short pass from Lamonica and scampered seven yards for a score — all in the third quarter.

"Wells' run broke the ice," said Rauch. "This is the first time we used the play this year and I think we only used it twice last year."

In the fourth quarter, George Blanda kicked field goals of 10 and 33 yards and took over for Lamonica, passing 14 yards to Dave Kocourek for a touchdown.

PENALTIES

Both teams were penalized heavily and the penalties were balanced, except for Dixon's touchdown, set up by consecutive roughing the passer and pass interference penalties.

Oakland was penalized seven times for 138 yards and Boston, 11 times for 104 yards. Neither coach would comment about the officiating but Holovak said the play of his defensive secondary "had nothing to do with pass interference calls."

"Penalties held us back more than anything" in the first half, said Raunch. "And we dropped some third-down passes."

Lamonica said he was bothered by poor footing in the first half as he overshot his receivers. It was the first football game on the Coliseum turf after the baseball season ended.

GAME BALLS

Game balls went to defensive end Ben Davidson, who kept pressure on Patriot quarterback Mike Taliaferro, and to Biletnikoff, who drew two pass interference penalties by Boston defenders and caught six passes for 107 yards.

Dixon twisted his knee going for a pass and Billy Cannon was hit in the ankle, but neither is expected to miss the San Diego game.

Tars Lose To Sierra

By KIMO CAMPBELL

There is an old coaching cliche about teams that "look good on paper" — they don't always look as good on the field. The College of Marin Tars aften looked good on the field last Saturday afternoon against Sierra College in Rocklin, but hardly looked good on the scoreboard: Sierra 21, Marin 8.

The Tars saw their 11-game unbeaten string, longest in school history, go down the drain in a shower of mistakes. Missed blocks, interceptions, crucial penalties, they all entered in. Sierra looked like a good team playing at about 90 per cent of its ability, and Marin like a better one playing at perhaps 50 per cent of its own.

AN EDGE

Marin had a 23-13 edge in first downs and a 403-246 bulge in total offense, but coach Dick Read would rather have points on the board. The statistics indicate that Marin was able to move the ball, and that the Tar defense did a creditable job on the Wolverines' potent offense, masterminded by rifle-armed Ivan Lippi. They do not show how Marin ended up with just a single touchdown. The answer lies in the fact that Marin moved best outside the Sierra 25. Whenever a score seemed likely, the Tars bogged down.

In the first period, neither team could score, although Sierra caused some excitement with a 39-yard pass to Bill Gieck. As the second quarter began, Lippi hit tight end Tom Banducci twice in a row and then threw to flanker Bob Polly for the score from 25 yards out. Another Lippi toss, to Rocky Williams, made the count 8-0 Sierra after three minutes of the second quarter.

ROAR BACK

The Tars took the ensuing kickoff and roared back, Kevin Wilson passing to Keith Stirling for 47 yards and to Bob Bahlman for 25, the second setting up a first-and-goal situation at the Sierra eight. But the Mariners could not gain from there, and Bill Hickerson's fourth-down field-goal try was wide, after a Wilson-Tim Garvin TD pass was called back for holding.

Unable to gain on its next series, Sierra punted, and Garvin took the kick back 29 yards, setting up Stirling's 12-yard touchdown sweep two plays later. Wilson hit Bahlman for the tying two-point conversion.

INTERCEPTION

On its next series, Marin was moving when Wilson's pass was tipped by a Wolverine lineman and tackle Steve Rogers picked it off. On the first play, Lippi threw to Gieck for the touchdown. The pass-attempt PAT was no good. Marin then marched to a first down at the Sierra 29, from which point four passes fell incomplete to end the half on a frustrating note.

Marin had a first down at the Wolverine 27 in the third quarter, but a Wilson pass was picked off to halt the threat. Sierra then made its best drive of the afternoon, 49 yards in 10 plays, with fullback Bon Harper scoring on a tackle-dragging 12-yarder. The PAT was good.

Rams Hold Back 49er Offense

LOS ANGELES (AP) — San Francisco's ball, first down and goal to go from the two. Third quarter, Los Angeles leads 14-7.

Ken Willard hits the line. Maxie Baughan, Ed Meador and Irv Cross pile him up. No gain. Willard is shaken up and leaves the game.

FIELD GOAL

Rams still lead 14-10 and go on to beat their National League rivals 24-10. Coach George Allen of the winners rates that goal line stand the turning point of the game.

Coach Dick Nolan of San Francisco says there was never any doubt in his mind that the 49ers had to go for the field goal.

"We weren't making anything going into the line and there was plenty of time left for us to score again," declared Nolan.

'GREAT EFFORT'

Allen commented, "The 49ers have big backs and a big line so the stand had to be a great effort."

Next Sunday both draw rugged assignments with undefeated Baltimore (4-0) invading San Francisco (2-2) and the Rams

Miami Surprises Houston Oilers

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The end may be just around the corner for the Houston Oilers but it probably won't be anything like the end around that did in the Boston Patriots yesterday.

The Oilers, defending champs in the American Football League's Eastern division, were stunned by Miami 24-7 and fell into a last-place tie with Buffalo. Both have 1-4 records.

Meanwhile, Boston held a 10-7 halftime lead over the AFL champion Oakland Raiders. But a 41-yard end around by Warren Wells gave Oakland the lead in the third period and when the fireworks were over the Raiders had a 41-10 triumph, their 14th straight, equaling the league record.

In the only other Sunday game, Denver turned back Cincinnati 10-7 on a fourth-period touchdown pass from Steve Tensi to Mike Heffner. Saturday night. New York edged San Diego 23-20 and Kansas City beat Buffalo 18-7.

Houston, minus hospitalized quarterback Pete Beathard, was no match for previously winless Miami despite an early touchdown by Woodie Campbell. Willie West ran 20 yards with a lateral from John Bramlett, who recovered a Houston fumble, to tie the score and Larry Csonka gave the Dolphins the lead on a two-yard plunge. Bob Griese's 50-yard scoring pass to Karl Noonan iced it.

Griese completed seven of 12 passes for 92 yards and rookies Csonka and Jim Kiick rushed for 82 and 104, respectively. Bob Davis and Don Trull, filling in for Beathard, managed only seven completions in 23 attempts.

Quarterback Tensi, back in the Denver line-up for the first time since a pre-season injury, flipped a four-yard pass to Heffner in the closing minutes to give the Broncos their first victory. Tensi replaced Marlin "The Magician" Briscoe, who failed to move the Broncos.

Emerson Boozer plunged across on fourth down from a yard out to give the Jets their Saturday night win over San Diego before a record AFL crowd of 63,786. The Chargers had taken the lead with six minutes left when Gary Garrison caught his second touchdown pass of the game.

Jan Stenerud missed an extra point but kicked field goals of 18, 12, 16 and 15 yards in Kansas City's win over Buffalo. The conversion miss was Stenerud's first as a pro after 58 successful ones.

THAT WAS IT

That was it, for all practical purposes. Marin got inside the Sierra 30 twice after that, but couldn't score again.

"We were too inconsistent," was Reed's rueful admission after the game. "Penalties, interceptions (four) — we just made too many mistakes. But this is a good team, and we'll be all right in our league. As far as attitude goes, this team is as good as last year's, and not too far off in ability."

Roman Gabriel's pass to ex-49er Bernie Casey, on a play covering 41 yards, put Los Angeles on the scoreboard in the first period. They added another touchdown in the second when Gabriel dived over the line climaxing an 83-yard drive that took 19 plays.

TO McNEIL

San Francisco scored on a six-yard pass from Brodie to Clifton McNeil three plays after Clark Miller picked up a Gabriel fumble and rumbled 31 yards to the three.

In the third period the Davis field goal made it 14-10, but Gabriel hit Jack Snow for 26 yards and Tommy Mason for 24 during a 65-yard advance, which ended with Henry Dyer plowing over from the one.

San Francisco threatened early in the fourth stanza when Kermit Alexander intercepted a Gabriel pass on the Rams' 47 and returned to the 38. Brodie hit McNeil for 22. Then Brodie kept and ran from the 16 to the nine. He hurt his arm on the play and a penalty shoved the 49ers back to the 39 as center Bruce Bosley was guilty of holding.

TOUGH TIME

George Mira was introduced to the Ram defense with a 14-yard loss and the touchdown threat was completely erased. Minutes later, linebacker Maxie Baughan intercepted a Mira pass and set up a 19-yard field goal by Bruce Gossett completing the scoring.

Drake Wins Non-League Grid Scrap

The Drake Pirates survived a first-quarter electric shock, getting stunned by two jolting long touchdown runs, then came back to nick surprisingly tough George Washington of San Francisco, 19-12, behind quarterback Ed Harrington and a pack of junior backs at College of Marin Saturday night.

Washington quarterback Steve Radd ran off on a 91-yard jaunt off tackle 2:24 into the game and came back to whip 77 yards for another score that put Drake into a 12-0 hole.

Harrington, who wound up with 214 yards on 14 of 20 passes, drove the Pirates to a score, hitting on a key pass to Dave Alvarado for 40 yards to set up his own one yard TD plunge at the half.

The Pirates went ahead on a 55-yard drive with Mark Silverman scoring on a three-yard run. Harrington's 24-yard pass to Jim Dominquez set it up and Bob MacLean's point after kick put Drake ahead at 13-12.

The insurance score came on a 32-yard drive with a five-yard TD toss from Harrington to Alvarado.

Viking Quarterbacks Get Bumped Around, Still Win

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Minnesota quarterbacks might give an unhealthy appearance after a conk on the head and a crack in the shoulder, but the Vikings never had it so good.

Minnesota, with only one finish above .500 in its seven-year history, took sole possession of first place in the Central Division of the National Football League by beating Detroit 24-10 yesterday with two injured quarterbacks.

During intermission, Kapp was deemed least injured and cleared his head long enough to direct the Vikings to two touchdowns and a field goal in the final half for Minnesota's third victory in four starts.

The loss dropped Detroit from a share of the top spot into a 2-2 tie with Green Bay, which broke a two-game losing streak with a 38-7 rout over Atlanta.

Dallas, 4-0, had its troubles with St. Louis before Mike Clark's 50-yard field goal sparked a 27-10 victory over the Cardinals. But the New York Giants, 4-0, kept pace with the Cowboys in the Capitol Division with a 38-21 sweep over New Orleans.

Baltimore and Los Angeles, each also 4-0, were unable to shake each other in the Coastal Division as the Colts rode Earl Morrall's four touchdown passes past Chicago 28-7 and Roman Gabriel directed the Rams by San Francisco 24-10.

Washington held off Philadelphia 17-14 in the other Sunday contest.

Kapp returned in time to set up Fred Cox' 29-yard field goal before Bill Munson's 30-yard touchdown pass to Mel Farr tied it for Detroit.

But Kapp, running 20 yards and passing for 24 on one drive and throwing 53 yards to Gene Washington on a second, took the Vikings 73 and 39 yards for touchdowns.

The Packers climbed back into the race with 21 third-quarter points that spoiled Norm Van Brocklin's debut as Atlanta coach. Leading only 10-7 at the half, Donny Anderson ran for one score and then a fumble and a pass interception set up Bart Starr's second and third touchdown passes of the day.

Clark connected on the longest field goal of his career late in the third quarter and Chuck Howley stole a Jim Hart pass to set up a touchdown as Dallas broke a 10-10 tie.

A fumble recovery, an interception, and two pass interference calls set up four touchdowns for the Giants and a penalty on the apparent last play of the half made a field goal possible.

Morrall, still giving Baltimore little reason to miss injured Johnny Unitas, connected on scoring passes of 50, 45, 38 and 36 yards with 14 completions in 25 tries for 302 yards.

Sonny Jurgensen built Washington a 17-0 lead, throwing for one touchdown and running for another. But the Redskins barely survived as Norm Snead, returning after an exhibition game injury, passed for a touchdown and Al Haymond returned a punt 54 yards for another for the Eagles.

Oregon Stater Top Lineman

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Defensive guard Jon Sandstrom, who helped Oregon State come from behind in a 35-21 football victory over Washington, was named the Pacific-8 lineman of the week today.

The 6-foot-2, 235-pound veteran was credited with seven tackles and five assists.

The senior, a regular since his sophomore season, was named to the Coaches All-America team last year and made the All-Pacific Coast team.

He also was picked as the outstanding defensive lineman by the Pacific-8 Skywriters after their pre-season tour.

Barry Again Leads Way

ST. CLOUD, Minn. (AP) — Rick Barry continued to spark victories last night, scoring 37 points as the Oakland Oaks beat the Minnesota Pipers 118-115.

In a previous American Basketball Association preseason game, Barry scored 48 points as the Oaks defeated the Indiana Pacers 147-138 at Shelbyville, Ind. Saturday night.

Stewart Wins Grand Prix In Record-Breaking Time

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — Jackie Stewart drove his Matra-Ford Formula One auto to victory yesterday in the 10th Grand Prix of the United States and along the way he set two track records.

The 28-year-old Scotsman finished the 248-mile course at a record average speed of 124.89 miles per hour, finishing more than 24 seconds ahead of Englishman Graham Hill's Lotus-Ford.

John Surtees of England finished third in a Honda and Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., placed fourth in his Lotus-Ford.

TO SECOND

Stewart jumped to second place with 36 points in the race for the world driver's championship with his nine-point finish here.

Hill retained the lead at 39 points after picking up six points for second place.

Only the Mexican Grand Prix remained for these two to settle the 1968 title.

FASTER

Stewart's race average was more than five m.p.h. faster than the 1968 record set by the late Jim Clark of Scotland. Stewart's fastest lap of nearly 127 mph bettered the old 125.45 m.p.h. record, set by Hill when he won last year's race.

Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., in a Lotus-Ford, started in the pole position and grabbed the lead at the start. But Stewart moved into first two laps later and began to pull away.

Andretti went out of the race 45 minutes after the start with clutch trouble. Hill took over second, but Stewart had built up a 22-second lead and showed no signs of slowing down.

Gurney moved into third, Surtees grabbed fourth and the race took on a near train schedule predictability.

NEAR MISS

Stewart had about 10 laps to go to ensure his victory when he rounded the 180-degree turn following the backstraight and discovered two young fans trying to cross the track.

He held the car on line and went by within inches of them at about 100 m.p.h.

"It was the closet I've ever come to anyone," he said after the race.

Gurney's engine began to sputter with four laps left, and Surtees swept into third position in the Honda.

Only Hill remained on the same lap as Stewart when the Matra-Ford screamed by the checkered flag to give him $20,000 first prize money and a silver bowl.

RICHEST

This race, worth more than $103,000 in prize money, was the richest Grand Prix in history.

Josef Siffert of Switzerland placed fifth in a Lotus Ford; Bruce McLaren, New Zealand, was sixth in his McLaren Ford and Piers Courage of England was seventh in a BRM.

Eighth place went to Hulme, who completed 93 laps before he crashed, one more than a ninth-place finish by Lucien Bianchi of Italy in his Cooper-BRM.

Tough Choice Between O.J. And Keyes

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Ask a man who knows, and he'll tell you that it's a tough choice between Leroy Keyes and O. J. Simpson.

"Of course," he said, "I'd like to have both of them," but in a more realistic vein, Agase would have a hard time picking one over the other.

"O. J. is a more dangerous runner but Keyes is more versatile and can do more things," the coach said.

Keyes demonstrated his varied talents for the Northwestern coach as he ran for 96 yards in 22 carries, scored three touchdowns and gained 46 more yards on passes from Mike Phipps as Purdue romped 43-6 last Saturday.

Simpson's performance a week earlier was just as spectacular as he reeled off 189 yards and three touchdowns.

O. J. BREAKS THROUGH

Simpson led his number two ranked Southern California team to a 28-3 victory over 12th-rated Miami of Florida last Saturday night. Simpson foiled a tough Hurricane defense, led by end Ted Hendricks, as he rushed for 163 yards on 38 carries and scored two touchdowns.

Cadets Lose To Kelseyville

San Rafael Military Academy Cadets suffered their first football loss of the season Saturday, 19-0 to Kelseyville High School at San Rafael.

San Rafael (2-1) penetrated within Kelseyville's 20-yard-line five times, including once on a 55-yard runback of an intercepted pass by Tom Kewell, but couldn't crack the visitors' stiff defense.

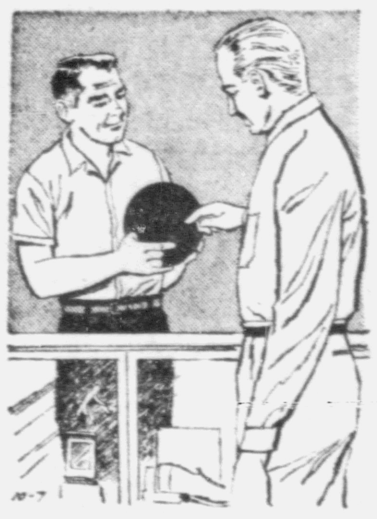
BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



Don't be reluctant to use a ball that is lighter than the maximum 16 pounds. Ordinarily, an experienced male bowler of average size and health will go to 16 pounds, but if a 14 or 15-pounder seems to work best for you, use it. Bowlers of advanced years should certainly consider a somewhat lighter ball instead of struggling with the same projectile they used as a 25-year-old.

Harnquist Wins San Geronimo Golf

Kenneth Harnquist of Ross won the San Geronimo National Men's Golf Club championship for the second straight year Saturday with a 72-hole gross score of 311.

John Roth won the handicap division with a low net of 283, followed by Paul O'Neill at 285, Ron Gable at 290 and Harnquist at 291.

The tournament was played over four weekends.

St. Vincent's Eleven Wins Over Albany

St. Vincent's High School of Petaluma scored in the first quarter and held on grimly right down to the final gun to edge Albany High 7-6 in a non-league football game at Petaluma Saturday night.

PACIFIC-8

Cal, Stanford Still Unbeaten

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Bay Area, traditional weak link in the Pacific-8 football conference, is getting excited about its two winning football teams, California and Stanford.

Stanford downed Air Force 24-13, and California swamped San Jose State, 46-0, Saturday to put the Indians and Bears at 3-0 with the University of Southern California, which beat Miami, 28-3.

Other games this weekend feature Oregon, 0-3 after a 21-6 loss to Ohio State, at Washington, 1-1-1 after getting beat 35-21 by Oregon State; UCLA, 2-1 after being upset by Syracuse, entertaining Penn State; Washington State, 1-2, at Arizona State; and Oregon State, 2-1, at Kentucky.

Jim Plunkett, Stanford's most promising quarterback since John Brodie, threw two touchdown passes and scored one himself in the victory over Air Force, giving the Indians their best season start in 14 years.

California's victory over hapless San Jose State, paced by Bob Darby's two short touchdown runs and Randy Humphries' 140 yards passing and 33 running, gives the Bears their best start since 1952.

O. J. Simpson scored his eighth and ninth touchdowns of the year and fell below 200 yards rushing for the first time with 163 as USC clipped Miami.

"O. J. Simpson is the only thing I'll be thinking about for the whole week," said Stanford linebacker Pat Preston.

UCLA couldn't hold Syracuse's running attack as the Orangemen, paced by Al Newton's 121 yards, rolled up 251 yards on the ground in stopping the Bruins, 20-7.

Oregon State, coming back after a season opening 21-20 upset by Iowa, relied on Steve Preece's passing to sink Washington after trailing 14-7 at the half.

Big fullback Bill Enart ran for two touchdowns and halfback Bill Main ran one and 14 yards for two touchdowns and scored another on Preece's two-yard pass.

Powerful Ohio State led Oregon only 7-6 at the half before 70,000 at Columbus, Ohio, but shut the Ducks out without a first down in the second half.

Utah defensive back Jim Street broke a 7-7 tie with a 97-yard run against Washington State and after the Cougars tied it again, Utah's Jim Sears booted a nine-yard field goal to give the Redskins a 17-14 victory.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Cunning Play From East Sends South To Defeat At Four Spades

I am looking forward to my bridge cruise to the Orient right after Christmas because I haven't played bridge in China since 1944. I don't expect to get many hands more interesting than one we played in Chungking that year, almost forgetting the war that had brought us together.

HEART ACTION

East won the first trick with the ace of hearts and continued the suit to South's king. Declarer got to dummy with a diamond in order to lead a trump.

East played the jack of spades, and South won with the king. Correctly distrusting East's play, South led another diamond to dummy and led another trump.

East stepped up with the ace of spades and led the deuce of clubs. As West, I won with the king of clubs and had no trouble working out what was going on. I led another diamond, and East's ruff defeated the contract.

"The cunning of the East," I murmured gratefully to my partner, a young Chinese officer. His underlead of the ace of clubs had enabled us to defeat the contract.

TACTFUL SILENCE

Then we both looked at the lieutenant from Louisiana who had played the hand at four-spades. This was not a tactful time for us to point out that the wisdom of the South should have headed off the cunning of the East.

Declarer should have made the contract. After winning the first trump trick with the king South should lead the queen of clubs. This club trick must be lost sooner or later, and South wants to give it up before the defenders can do anything with it.

Since only one diamond has been led, West cannot give his partner a ruff. No matter what is returned. South can get to dummy with a second diamond in order to lead another trump. East takes his ace of spades but cannot get to his partner for a diamond ruff.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠—K Q 9 8 4 2
♥—K 9
♣—Q J5 2
♦—Q
What do you say?

Answer: Bid one spade.

You count 13 points in high cards, two points for the singleton and one point for the doubleton, but you should not really count this as a 16-point hand. The singleton queen of clubs is simply not worth two points for being a queen and two more points for being a singleton. This is really a borderline opening bid, and many experts would prefer to pass rather than open the bidding with this aceless wonder.

ALMANAC

Today is Monday, Oct. 7, the 281st day of 1968 with 85 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1863, William Gladstone, British chancellor of the Exchequer, predicted that the American Confederacy would remain separated from the northern United States permanently.

In 1916, the most staggering defeat in football history occurred when Georgia Tech trounced Cumberland College, 222 to 0.

In 1963, Bobby Baker resigned as Senate Democratic secretary after being charged in a $300,000 civil suit with using his influence for personal monetary gain.

A thought for the day — Scottish novelist James Matthew Barrie once said: "Those who bring sunshine to the lives of others cannot keep it from themselves."

Market On Mixed Side At Closing

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed mixed today. Trading was fairly active.

The list was higher in the morning as it continued a three-week advance. By noon, however, it was apparent that the market had a struggle to maintain a gain. The pattern turned irregular in the afternoon.

Losses outnumbered gains by a fairly narrow margin, but the Dow Jones industrial average held a gain, thanks to strength in some blue chips.

Gains of a point or so were scored by such blue chips as Du Pont, American Can and General Electric while General Foods advanced about 2.

National General traded steadily at a loss of about 2 while Great American Holdings remained untraded late in the day. National General said it had acquired 75 per cent of American Holdings.

Endicott Johnson advanced more than 3, and the Villager Inc. held a fractional gain. They were reported intending to merge.

In a generally lower steel section, Jones & Laughlin climbed about 2 points. Fractional losses were the portion of U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic Steel.

Continental Telephone, up a fraction, paced the list on volume, followed by Bunker Ramo, also up a fraction.

CIT Financial and AMK Corp., each down a point or so, were among heavily traded losers.

LOS ANGELES (BW)—First Western Bank & Trust Co.'s third quarter net operating earnings increased by 26.5 per cent over the same period last year, reaching $1,517,000, compared to $1,199,000 for 1967.

The Independent-Journal was awarded first prize at the recent convention for the best newspaper promotion in the western states among papers with a circulation between 20,000 and 50,000. The award was presented for the I-J's "Thrift Ad" classified promotion.

Bank Earnings Up

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Crocker-Citizens National Bank's net operating earnings after taxes for the first nine months of 1968 amounted to $21,544,513, an increase of $3,665,832, or 20.5 per cent, over the comparable figure for 1967 of $17,878,681, or $2.08 per share for the first nine months of 1968 compared to $1.73 a year ago.

Annual New Auto Ritual Concludes

DETROIT (UPI)—The annual early fall American ritual of man's romance with the automobile is over now. New car introductions have been completed.

Chrysler Corporation led off the yearly rites on Sept. 19, followed by General Motors and Ford a week later, and American Motors Oct. 1.

Early fall introductions are standard now—they have been for nearly a quarter century. But it was not always so. Introductions have run practically around the calendar.

In the early years, when Henry Ford was about the only major manufacturer, he just kept making cars. After closing up business Dec. 31, he'd just open up after the new year and start making cars with new numbers denoting the next year's batch. Styling changes were few.

But then some manufacturers got the idea of pre-dating their cars. In 1913 for example, the automakers introduced their 1914 cars in April and May. Gradually, the industry settled on mid or late summer introductions.

Actually, the settlement on early fall as a standard introduction date was born of the Great Depression of the 1930s.

In 1931, for example, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution urging the manufacturers to introduce their new cars during November and December, hoping that winter display time would stimulate sales the following spring. Then, in 1936, the chamber passed another resolution urging the makers to move the introduction ahead two months—into September—to spur business activity during the fall.

This was done, earning the appreciation of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. He saluted the industry for "its leadership in the vanguard of recovery."

The introduction period has stayed there ever since with minor variations in dates, except for the years immediately following World War II. Automaking equipment was put in mothballs during the war, and when the conflict ended in September, 1945, manufacturers had to scramble just to get back into car production.

The best the automakers could manage in 1945 was December and January introductions for 1946 models—and they were really only warmed-over models of the 1942s which had just started in late 1941 before production was stopped to change over to war materials.

The demand for new cars then kept the manufacturers so busy for so long they hardly had time to shut down for model changeovers. Finally, by 1949, things were back to normal and introductions returned to their normal autumn slots. They've been there ever since while a whole new generation of car buyers grew up.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Older Investors Should Key To Income Emphasis

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My sister and I, as joint tenants with right of survivor, control $75,000 of capital assets, more than half of which are invested in two mutual funds. Another $15,000 is divided among three stocks: 50 shares of Lums, 200 Avnet (split twice since purchased) and 100 Computing & Software. The balance represents cash and real estate. We're in our mid-60s. Should we change anything? — T.K.

A. It's good to hear from two older women who should expect to live out their years in comfort without financial strain. Yet thus far it seems to me you have not given enough attention to producing maximum income to assure yourselves this carefree comfort.

You have been attracted by growth potential — possibly to hedge against inflation — and in this respect you have achieved above-average results from your three speculative stocks and your older fund, National Investors.

Chase Frontier, your other fund, is too recently organized to weigh its growth possibilities. It might be redeemed later should you need cash in an emergency.

If there are no heirs to consider, I suggest that you look into the guaranteed life income from a joint and survivor annuity into which you could switch the capital from your three stocks, as two of these pay no dividends and the third returns a very small one. Such an annuity offers maximum income with safety.

Q. What is the procedure for transfer of stock title to two children now come of age for whom I acted as custodian? There must be a simpler method than sale and reissue of shares with attendant commission charge. — F.G.

A. There is, indeed. The custodian sends the stock certificates to the transfer agent, at the same time submitting proof of age for the new adult owners. New certificates will then be issued on which the new owners' names will appear.

Bank Reports Gain

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — The Bank of California has reported an 18 per cent gain in third quarter earnings, compared with a year ago, to net earnings of $5,083,056, $2.67 per share, in contrast to $4,678,697 and $2.46 per share for the same period in 1967.

LITTLE OLD LADY'S HOUSE

She's 84! She loves her home, but it's too much for her to keep up. Her property consists of a 2 bedroom stucco home with dining room and living room with fireplace. It's quaint and charming. It needs attention. The extra building site has a 2 car concrete garage with workshop. It's a gentle upslope, sunny view site, 3 blocks from Miller Avenue. There are lovely old oaks and a gorgeous view of Mt. Tam. Speculators and builders have made numerous offers trying to buy the extra site alone. If you're interested in buying the house we might be able to work out a sale with the house and its lot, selling for about $21,500. The asking price of both parcels is $31,500. The seller is a close friend of the Allen Company. Should you be interested in this one-of-a-kind property she has asked that you call us for arrangement to show her home.

Hearing Problems Trouble Nearly 8 Million In U.S.

By SCIENCE SERVICE

WASHINGTON—Approximately 8 million people in the United States have a hearing problem, according to the Public Health Service. Half of these are 65 or older.

Some 4 million people have a hearing loss sufficient to require a hearing aid but do not have one. Of the 400,000 who buy hearing aids each year, more than 95 per cent purchase from a hearing aid dealer; half without any prior medical advice.

And there are 300 to 400 different hearing aid models on the market, according to the Consumers Union, Mount Vernon, N.Y. Its president, Colston Warne, says people who need a hearing aid are awed by the high cost, bewildered by the variety of models available, and confused by the exaggerated and conflicting claims made for them.

"All sorts of professionals and quasiprofessionals," he says, "ranging from physicians certified as ear specialists to high-pressure salesmen, are ready and eager to advise the hard of hearing in their choice. Thus it is difficult for the consumer to reach a sound judgment."

While the consumer is befuddled for lack of information, the Veterans Administration, thanks to research done for it at the National Bureau of Standards, has all the information on hearing aids that a layman would need to intelligently select one. But the V.A. refuses to make a public disclosure of its data. Court action to force the V.A. to release its information is pending.

Meanwhile, the hearing aids industry and health experts disagree over what ought to be done.

Government sources cite as the major problem a lack of sufficient professional personnel to advise on hearing aid selection. Present-day speech and hearing facilities cannot accommodate much more than 10 per cent of all persons buying a hearing aid each year. Some 96 major cities in the U.S. do not have a single hearing center.

Surgeon General William Stewart lists possibilities for federal action including model laws to cover the dispensing of the aids, and a program for testing hearing aids and audiometers and disclosing the information to the public.

Industry spokesmen, on the other hand, describe the present system for dispensing hearing aids as more than adequate. Samuel Lybarger, president of the Hearing Aid Conference, says, "We believe the U.S. Public Health Service figures testify to the success of the system. The service says 93 per cent of hearing aid wearers who use their aids constantly are satisfied with the performance."

Consumers Union's Warne feels that the real problem for the consumer in selecting a hearing aid is that there isn't enough information available to him to tell whether, for example, a $100 version will do rather than the $350 model. Warne says the Veterans Administration has rated all hearing aid brands based on test data supplied by the Bureau of Standards, and that the V.A. uses this data in selecting hearing aids for veterans. Warne claims the V.A. has steadfastly refused to make its data available to Consumers Union; nor will NBS release its data, having been pinched between consumers and industry before when it attempted to make public its evaluations of consumer products.

Warne asks, "By what authority should the Government be able to employ its scientific resources to aid one group of consumers—veterans—while denying these very resources to all others?"

While such conservative quarters as the Wall Street Journal are in agreement with Consumers Union in its battle with the V.A., Sen. Clifford Hansen, R-Wyo., is not. He says that if the V.A. disclosed its data, the action would set a precedent for the Government to disclose test data on any and all products.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, says that "regulation of industry is always a last resort after other measures fail. I think that basically we have a consumer education problem here."

East Africa Under Threat From A Plague Of Locusts

LONDON (SS) — A plague of locusts has arrived in East Africa, according to Dr. Philip M. Symmons of the Desert Locust Information Service in London.

Dr. Symmons reports that Northern Sudan is infested with locusts in all stages of development.

Numerous small swarms of immature insects are reported along the Red Sea coastal plains of Ethiopia. There have been many reports of swarms in various stages of maturity from the Somali Republic, including one swarm covering an estimated 194 square kilometers.

Aerial spraying of dieldrin and other insecticides is being tried as a control measure, with no reports as yet of its effectiveness.

In India, where locust plagues are feared this year but have not yet materialized, a new and cheap locust deterrent is being tried. A water suspension of ground nim seed kernels is sprayed on threatened crops. Entomologists of the Indian Agricultural Research Institute report that even hungry locusts would rather starve than eat leaves so sprayed. A suspension containing .1 per cent of nim seed is reported sufficient to ward off locusts for two to three weeks.

Storm Brews Over Uses Of Soda Pop Sweetners

By SCIENCE SERVICE

WASHINGTON — Behind the marble facades of Washington a storm is brewing about, among other things, soda pop. The pop-makers, who have been sweetening an increasing number of their bottles with artificial sweeteners, may not be too happy when the storm breaks.

Americans consume 8,000 tons of artificial sweeteners every year — in pop, coffee, dietary foods, candy and the like — confident that the chemical sweeteners are safe. Manufacturers insist that they are; the sugar industry — watching a $300 million inroad into its market — insists they are not. Each side presents scientific evidence to support its claim.

As recently at 1965, manufacturers of the nonnutritive, noncaloric sweeteners chemically known as cyclamates, had the Food and Drug Administration on their side. "There is no evidence," FDA stated then, "that cyclamates, at present use levels, are a hazard to health."

On another look, last year FDA noted the boom in diet drinks, saw that cyclamates were added to innumerable foods and quietly modified its stand. "There is no evidence, yet," it hedged.

At present there is no law or regulation about labeling cyclamates. There are cautionary warnings, in fine print on many products, that artificial sweeteners are for persons who "must restrict" their dietary intake of sugar. Although they appear to apply to cyclamates, they technically are required only for the saccharin component of common cyclamate-saccharin combinations.

Both cyclamate, which is 30 times as sweet as sugar, and saccharin, which is 300 times as sweet, leave a bitter taste if used singly. Together, in a mixture of 10 parts cyclamate and one part saccharin, they leave no bitter aftertaste.

The major issue in what both cyclamate manufacturers and sugar people see as potentially a billion dollar battle rests on the quantity consumed. There is no doubt that in large doses cyclamates cause softening of the stools, sometimes diarrhea. Some pediatricians reportedly prescribe diet colas as laxatives.

Scientists for Abbott Laboratories, Chicago, the largest cyclamate producer, claim that people simply do not consume enough of the chemical to cause any trouble. Five grams (the amount contained in eight 16-ounce bottles of pop) is considered a large dose. Their statistics show that even among teen-agers, who consume more than any other group, three and a half grams a day is unusual. Researchers supported by sugar interests dispute this.

They cite evidence of more serious cyclamate-induced effects. In studies on rats, Drs. Paul Nees and Philip Derse, of the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation, found tissue changes in the testes, kidneys, adrenals and pancreas. The Wisconsin group is supported by the Sugar Research Foundation, New York.

French researchers report structural changes in the intestines of animals ingesting cyclamates. In April, a team of Austrian scientists showed liver changes in four guinea pigs fed cyclamates and impaired coagulation of the blood in rabbits that ate the artificial sweetener.

But the argument does not end there. When cyclamates were first approved, scientists believed they were excreted unchanged from the body, but testing within the last four years indicates that some individuals do metabolize the chemical, breaking it down into its original cyclohexylamine.

Recently Dr. Derse discovered four other metabolites of cyclamate in the urine of animals. "Exactly what toxic effects (if any) these products may have remains unknown," he observes, "but it is important that we find out."

Bankok has replaced Singapore as a diplomatic center with offices of the U.N. and headquarters of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization there.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Electrocardiograph Tracings Like A Heart's Fingerprints

VAN DELLEN

The electrocardiogram (EKG) records the path of electrical currents through the auricles and ventricles. When a small portion of the heart muscle is destroyed by coronary thrombosis, the electrical activity bypasses the lesion causing an alteration in the tracing.

When the current is delayed or blocked, the timing is changed indicating a heart block. Many of these individuals have a very slow pulse that does not increase during exercise or emotional upheavals. The brain does not get enough blood and dizziness or fainting ensue.

MORE THAN 30,000 Americans with this problem are alive today thanks to electrical pacemakers. These "watch size" devices are inserted under the skin and connected to the heart with special wires in order to step up the rate.

An EKG is the most accurate aid for diagnosing pulse irregularities. Some disturbances in rhythm, such as premature beats (extrasystoles), may be normal, especially among persons who smoke heavily or drink too much coffee and tea.

Heart damage may do the same, and it is here that the physician uses the electrocardiogram as an adjunct. Other irregularities are more serious and require skillful care.

Electrocardiographic tracings are as constant as fingerprints.

A CHANGE obviously means that something is wrong. It only tells what is happening to the organ, not what will happen. Following a heart attack, several days may elapse before the EKG reading changes. Unless chest pain coexists, the condition may be missed until a second or third tracing demonstrates the changing pattern.

Failure to repeat the "gram" may explain why some persons with mild symptoms who consult a physician are given a "clean bill of health" only to die of a heart attack a few hours later.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

PARENTS RULE

J. M. writes: I am 30 years old, married, and the mother of four children. But I am still under my parents' rule. I do as they say even when decisions concern my family and home. My wonderful husband has been very patient. Is there something wrong with me or am I just immature?

REPLY

You may be immature or perhaps your parents are domineering. It is important to be considerate but the needs of your husband and children come first.

SLEEPING PILLS

I. L. writes: For two years I have not been able to sleep without taking a pill. How can I break myself of this habit?

REPLY

Stop. No one ever died from lack of sleep. Eliminate all stimulants, avoid emotional conflicts, and see that the bedroom environment is conducive to slumber. If all this fails, take a course in progressive relaxation.

HEALTH HAZARDS AT 70

A reader writes: Do people who reach the age of 70 go through some kind of stress on the nerves or the circulation?

REPLY

After 70, anything can happen. But, in general, circulatory disorders are more common than conditions involving the nerves.

TV REVIEW

'Laugh-In' Socking It To Others

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—A very early ratings survey of 30 key market indicates that NBC-TV's "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" is socking it to the other shows spectacularly this new season.

Although it is rather early in the season to be making ratings judgments, all the statistics thus far—daily and otherwise—are unquestionably clear in establishing the "Laugh-In" position.

The 30-market survey ranked "Laugh-In" second only to CBS-TV's new "Mayberry R.F.D." series. And although "Mayberry R.F.D."—the successor to the Andy Griffith show—probably earned its high rating mainly because of Griffith's fictional marriage on the opening episode, it is still an impressive start.

The more decisive national ratings, which tend to put more emphasis on the provinces and upgrade less sophisticated shows in the rankings, will nevertheless also prove the remarkable "Laugh-In" success against two CBS-TV big guns "Gunsmoke" and Lucille Ball.

Early in the season or not, the 30-market survey also tends to substantiate the beliefs of close watchers of the numbers race that NBC-TV's "Julia" is already a hit, and that CBS-TV's Doris Day situation comedy is likewise a solid success.

Both of these are new series. And "Julia," the most publicized of the freshman entries, is the first major network series to star a Negro actress, Diahann Carroll. "Julia" finished fourth in the 30-market rankings, and Miss Day's show came in eighth.

The remainder of the top 15 shows were—except for "Mayberry R.F.D."—all veteran series, such as "Family Affair," "Mission: Impossible," "Gomer Pyle," and the movies, as well as the Dean Martin, Carol Burnett and Lucille Ball programs, and a Bob Hope special.

Among the other new shows that indicated possible ratings strength were "The Mod Squad," "The Good Guys," "Land of the Giants," "Here Comes the Brides," "The Outsider," "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir" and "The Outcasts."

The new series that failed to show initial ratings power in the 30-market survey — although some may do better in the national rankings — included: "Hawaii Five-O," "That's Life," "Blondie," "Adam-12," "Lancer," "The Ugliest Girl In Town," "Journey to the Unknown," the big-budget "Name of the Game," "The New Adventure of Huckleberry Finn" and the Phyllis Diller and Don Rickles shows.

Parking Survey For Courthouse Asked Of Council

A new study of parking at the San Rafael Courthouse — with an eye on purchasing the property — may be authorized by the city council at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen has recommended that the council ask D. Jackson Faustman, Sacramento parking expert, to undertake the study at a maximum cost of $1,000.

The council made it clear in August it still covets the courthouse property, held by the county. Efforts to sell the property have failed.

In other action Monday, the council will consider three appointments to two city agencies. Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson resigned from the library board, effective Sept. 16, and the terms of Dino Ghilotti and Mrs. Norma Wall on the parks and recreation commission expire this month.

Novatan Released

William R. Sadler, 47, of Novato, was released from custody Friday when the district attorney's office told Marin Municipal Judge Hadden W. Roth no charges have been filed in an assault and battery complaint that arose from a family argument. Sadler was jailed early yesterday on a citizen's arrest signed by a friend of Mrs. Sadler, Betty Ann Gass of Novato.

Eskimos and Tlingit Indians of North America believe the aurora borealis, or northern lights, are the spirits of the dead at play.

Weird But True: A Submarine Damages Auto

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Paul Camplin, a retired Navy man now working for the state, recalls the time a submarine ran over an auto.

The bow of the craft skidded across the wall and came to rest squarely on top of a car parked near the landing area.

When the owner appeared, he demanded that all crew members sign a statement giving details. The owner explained: "What insurance company would believe me if I didn't have a lot of witnesses reporting that this car was run over by a submarine?"

Archeological Feat Finished

ABU SIMBEL, Egypt (AP) — The greatest archeological surgery in history is now complete and successful. The twin temples of Abu Simbel, standing safely on their new home, look down with majestic disdain on the waters of Lake Nasser, which had once threatened them.

In an operation lasting 53 months archeological surgeons from France, West Germany, Italy, Sweden and Egypt cut the two temples into 6,000 blocks, each weighing 20 to 30 tons.

With electronically guided saws and fine chisels, the cutting operation was undertaken with extreme care to reduce scars to a bare minimum.

Linen soaked in special glue was pasted on the stone before saws went through them. This averted distortion in stone edges.

Use of explosives was prohibited. Some 195,000 cubic yards of rock was removed using only bulldozers, rippers and pneumatic tools, while the front facades of the temples were protected by sand filling and temple chambers deep in the rock were supported by steel scaffolding.

Stone blocks were wrapped in foam rubber and transported 220 feet higher than the old site. Each stone block was given special markings to determine its relation to other blocks.

Scientists planned it so that the two temples stand on their new home facing the rising sun every morning. Sun rays penetrate the temples' chambers and corridors and engulf four prominent gods in the innermost sanctuary.

This work saved the 32-century-old temples from waters rising behind the new Aswan Dam. The project cost $38 million; the United States and Egypt bore most of this.

Chemists, archeologists, architects and egyptologists used special materials to stick together the carved stone blocks. Synthetic resin, a type of glue known as epoxy resin mortar, was the main one.

The joints between the blocks were filled with a special mortar and powdered sandstone mixed with an adhesive and having the same color of the stone surroundings. The joints and scars were completely disguised.

Two huge protecting domes were erected on the temples and over them rocks were piled. The rocks were injected with epoxy and other noncorrosive hardeners.

The next step was to remove the "bandages." Water was sprayed over reassembled chunks and the linen became loose and easy to pull away. By some error, epoxy leaked on the facade of the king's temple and caused a stain. Scientists are working to erase it.

A line of 21 stone baboons greeting the rising sun stand on top of the temple for the Pharaoh Ramses. The king's temple, dedicated to the worship of the sun god Re-harakhti, is decorated at its entrance with four seated colossi of Ramses, each bearing a inexplicable smirk.

Ramses, known in history as an egocentric Pharaoh, kept an elaborate harem of more than 70 wives. He preferred the beautiful, shapely Nefertari for whom he built the small temple and dedicated it to Hat-hor, the goddess of dance and music.

Ramses had 111 sons and 67 daughters.

Can Asphalt Patches Aid In Bringing On Rainfall?

MIAMI (SS) — Coating patches of ground with asphalt could make rainfall, says Dr. M. A. Estoque of the University of Miami.

Blackening a relatively large land surface this way creates an area of intense local heat. In principle, this can set up convection currents in the air above the asphalt, and these can produce clouds and then rain.

Dr. Estoque points out a natural example: the formation of clouds over islands in the daytime. The surface of the islands is heated more than the surrounding sea by the sunlight, and clouds and showers often are formed over them.

A computer model is being developed to determine whether such an effect could be expected from extensive asphalt pavements on a strip of land about six miles in width. Although the work is still in its initial stage, Dr. Estoque says, "Asphalt coatings could definitely increase rainfall in many regions of the earth." This would be especially likely, he feels, in places where rain is often on the verge of falling but lacks a small impulse to trigger it.

Dental Patient Has An Excuse

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — A young New Zealander kissed a beautiful woman in the elevator after going to the dentist — and ended up in court on a charge of assaulting a female.

The court suppressed his name, convicted him and discharged him without penalty after his defense counsel explained that he had been "in a state of euphoria" following a massive dose of pain killer at the dentist's.

Said the defense counsel: "She was a woman of considerable pulchritude; in fact she is extremely beautiful."

One In 50 Persons Unable To Detect Certain Odors

ALBANY (SS) — The color blind are unable to detect one or another of the three primaries, red, blue and green. Other people, perhaps one in 50, are anosmic — they cannot detect certain odors.

From this fact, Dr. John E. Amoore theorizes that there are primary smells analogous to the primary colors, from which all other smells can be made. Anosmic people are insensitive to one or more of these primary colors.

At present 20 or 30 odors are suspected of being primaries. A primary odor would have a peculiar molecular shape which would exactly fit an odor detector in the nose. A non-primary odor might bear structural resemblance to two or more primary odors, and thus might activate two or more types of detector and produce a blended odor sensation. Or the non-primary molecule might fit the detector only imperfectly, resulting in a weaker sensation.

Dr. Amoore, of the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Albany (Alameda County), is conducting a computer screening program to compare structures of odor molecules. The primary odor theory would gain strength if similar odors prove to have similar structures.

Presides Over 125,000 Employees

By ROBERT MUSEL

NEW YORK (UPI)--Robert W. Sarnoff heads a company whose annual income exceeds that of some small nations. He presides over the destinies of 125,000 employees whose activities bring in nearly $400,000 an hour.

Every hour.

One day recently, over lunch in his private dining room on the 52nd floor of the headquarters building of RCA, he was asked, among other questions, how a man goes about running a $3 billion-plus-a-year giant?

Sarnoff is just 50, tall, outgoing, with half-moon eyes that crinkle readily into good humor. He is the son of the chairman of the board and founder of the company, David Sarnoff, and well aware of the usual comment such relationships inspire. But RCA and the rugged world of big business is not Hollywood. You can be helped only so far up the ladder; at the highest rungs the ultimate test is ability.

Behind him when he was elected president and chief administrative officer in January, 1966, were 25 years of experience in communications including a decade with the National Broadcasting Co.

From his deak at the apex of the 15th biggest company in the United States Sarnoff makes the final decisions not only on the tangible present but on the less certain future now beginning to emerge in the laboratories.

Always in his mind, he said, is the fact that a majority of the products now manufactured by RCA were not in existence ten years ago, that new products have a shorter life cycle than ever before, that the creator of a new product can reap rich rewards only if he can get it to the market on time.

"I give a lot of attention to the problem of reducing the time between the conception of a product and its appearance in the market," he said. "you can't survive on a single product any more, you can't assume it will last indefinitely."

So, he went on, RCA is experimenting with liquid crystals which may someday produce clocks without moving parts, and flat color television screens. He sees the home of the next few years turning into a communications center where today the only two-way link with the outside world is the telephone; the family able to record visual information transmitted over TV circuits, perhaps even receive a daily newspaper. He sees tiny power circuits making new products possible and he is convinced business will use computers for internal operations.

Sarnoff, whose salary is $225,000 a year, said no one man could possibly keep in close touch with all the new developments in a great complex which deals in such diverse fields as aerospace, education, information, communications,

OUT AT HOME PLATE — Detroit Tiger catcher Bill Freehan tags Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals out at home plate in the fifth inning of today's game at Detroit. It all started when the Cards' Julian Javier singled to left and Willie Horton fired to the plate in time, bringing an argument over the call from St. Louis.

Detroit Rally Defeats Cardinals In Thriller

Kaline Gets Clutch Hit In 5-3 Victory

DETROIT (AP)—Al Kaline, who sweated out 16 lean years to get into a Detroit World Series, kept the Tigers alive today with a two-run single in the seventh inning for a 5-3 victory that sent the Series back to St. Louis for a sixth game Wednesday.

Mickey Lolich, the only Tiger winner in the first four games, came through again despite a heavy bombing in the first inning when Orlando Cepeda's two-run homer capped a three-run spurt.

It was Mickey who opened the winning rally in the seventh with a single when Detroit bounced back as they had done all season. Then Lolich closed out a ninth inning threat by fanning Roger Maris and throwing out Lou Brock, who had collected three hits earlier.

The sellout crowd of 53,634 gave Kaline a standing ovation when he went to his right field position at the start of the eighth after his big single off relief pitcher Joe Hoerner with the bases loaded and the Tigers trailing 3-2. Norm Cash then knocked in the third run of the inning with a single.

The clubs will take Tuesday off for travel before picking it up with the sixth game, with St. Louis leading 3-2, in Busch Stadium Wednesday afternoon.

The Tigers, fighting desperately to avoid elmination, clawed back with two runs in the fourth inning and finally burst through for three in the seventh when they knocked out Nelson Briles and racked up loser Hoerner.

NINTH INNING

Lolich came through dramatically in the ninth inning when the always-dangerous Cardinals stirred up a fuss. Tim McCarver opened the ninth with a single to center but pinch hitter Phil Gagliano flied out. Ed Spiezio, another pinch hitter, fouled off eight, including two foul tips that catcher Bill Freehan failed to hold, and then singled to left.

With the tying run on base, Manager Ed Schoendienst sent Maris up to the plate to bat for pitcher Ron Willis. Maris, a bench warmer today who will retire after the Series, struck out.

The Cards still were alive with Brock, who had 11 hits in 21 previous at bats, the batter. Brock fouled one to left, took a ball and then tapped back weakly to pitcher Lolich on a checked swing, ending the exciting game.

CHILLING BREEZE

Bright sunshine and a chilling breeze provided a contrast to Sunday's rainy, sloppy game. There were many exciting plays and dramatic moments in the best played game of the Series to date.

Brock was thrown out trying to steal by Freehan in the third and was nailed at the plate, trying to score from second on Julian Javier's single in the fifth. A perfect throw from Willie Horton to Freehan got Brock, who did not slide.

Dick McAuliffe also came through with two fine defensive plays, taking Brock's sizzler in the seventh and throwing him out and grabbing Flood's smash in the eighth in time to force Javier at second.

It started out like another chapter of a Series that has been lopsided for the Cards. Brock, hitting .500 coming into the game, opened the attack on

San Geronimo Deputy Fired By Mountanos

Resident Deputy Sheriff Weldon C. Travis of San Geronimo Valley, who has been a deputy for 4 and one-half years, was suddenly fired by Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos Friday.

The reason for the dismissal was not disclosed.

Mountanos and Undersheriff Sidney Stinson conferred with the county counsel this morning to prepare formal charges against Travis and file it with the Marin County Personnel Commission.

Travis, who lives with his wife in Nicasio, said he has not decided on an attorney and had no comment, except to say he felt the dismissal was "not justified."

Travis said he has not decided yet whether he will ask for an open or a closed hearing before the personnel commission.

Deputy Council Richard V. Godino said he will prepare papers to file with the personnel commission this afternoon.

Travis has 10 days to reply and to ask for a hearing. The hearing must be held within 20 days after that request. The decision of the personnel commission is appealable to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Godino said the deputy has the option of having the hearing open or closed.

NEW CONFIDENCE

Thieu Fears No Full Bomb Halt

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said today the enemy has lost the military part of the Vietnam War and has turned to politics to recoup.

He made the statement at a Senate reception after telling the National Assembly the enemy has failed in every attempt to bring "disastrous consequences" to South Vietnam in 1968.

"They know they cannot win militarily so they move to the political phase," Thieu commented to newsmen. "Now they would like to use what they still have to consolidate the political area."

It was the first time Thieu has stated flatly that he thinks the enemy has lost militarily. He has repeatedly stressed that the South Vietnamese people and government should gird for a political struggle that would follow the military battles.

Theiu said the enemy was preparing for the political fight by training more cadre "among the people in the countryside." He added that he had no fear President Johnson would call a full bombing halt over North Vietnam before the Nov. 5 U.S. presidential election.

"I don't have a worry with President Johnson because he has discussed it at length with me," he said.

Thieu also said he did not think any of the U.S. presidential candidates would call a full bombing halt without demanding reciprocal action from Hanoi. They know, he said, that a nonreciprocal bombing halt "would bring more disadvantages than advantages."

Theiu said there were no plans for an allied summit meeting before the U.S. elections, but said he would "like to meet with President Johnson and the elected president to discuss the relations of our two countries."

Thieu said his government was determined to have its armed forces take over a major share of the fighting "to help the allied countries to solve their problems about sending men to Vietnam." He reiterated his belief that allied forces could begin a gradual phaseout at the end of 1969.

In his speech to the National Assembly, marking the first anniversary of the creation of that body, Thieu said the only way peace can be realized is for Hanoi to acknowledge its aggression and agree to abandon its attempts to take over South Vietnam.

"The most favorable way to end this war is for both sides to scale down the level of hostilities leading gradually to a cease-fire effectively controlled and guaranteed," he said.

Allies Find Red Weapons In New Push

SAIGON (AP) — Thousands of allied toops scoured the battle-scarred mountain valleys near Khe Sanh and the jungled foothills southwest of Da Nang today in new offensives aimed at spoiling enemy attacks.

Task forces of U.S. Marines and American and South Vietnamese infantrymen met little resistance, but continued to turn up valuable enemy munitions stockpiles, probably hindering or even delaying any offensive plans.

CENTER PORTION

One stockpile found two miles below the center portion of the demilitarized zone yielded 200 rounds of 152mm artillery ammunition plus 100 fuses. This was significant because it marked the first known time in the war that 152mm ammunition had been found in South Vietnam, indicating that the enemy might be planning to try to move big Russian-made guns into the South. The 152s, the biggest in the enemy's arsenal, can fire a 90-pound missile 10.5 miles.

Military spokesmen, in delayed reports, announced the loss of four more American aircraft to enemy ground fire over the past three days.

OBSERVATION PLANE

They included an observation plane and a reconnaissance helicopter helping the allied ground troops search for the enemy, a Navy A7 Corsair fighter-bomber downed over North Vietnam, and an assault helicopter hit near the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon. One American was reported killed and five wounded and seven South Vietnamese soldiers wounded.

One of the observation planes was shot down yesterday 500 yards south of the abandoned Marine base at Khe Sanh, the pilot and artillery observer were unhurt.

Population Over 7 Million Mark

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles County has reached a total of 7,119,184 population, but the rate of growth is slowing down.

The Regional Planning Commission said today the county's population increased 16,287 in the second quarter of the year — a growth rate much less than in the early 1960s.

Officials said several factors have slowed county growth, including decreases in birth rates and in migration from other areas.

The City of Los Angeles gained 28,683 residents in the year ended last July 1 for a total of 2,841,541.

The 1968 and 1967 figures for other cities include Glendale 137,481 and 137,048, Long Beach 383,378 and 378,528, Pasadena 125,766 and 125,544, Torrance 133,847 and 131,981.

19-Year-Old Killed During Horseplay With Loaded Gun

Horseplay with a .22-caliber revolver ended tragically Saturday night when a Terra Linda youth was accidentally shot by his brother, sheriff's deputies reported.

Dead is Neal Joseph Hoskins 19 of 589 Woodbine Drive, a gasoline service station attendant, who suffered a chest wound at 10:30 p.m. in the living room of his home.

The Hoskins brothers were struggling over the .22-caliber revolver at their home when Nicholai wrested it away from Neal, deputies said.

Nicholai Hoskins told deputies he recalled pulling the trigger twice, once while it wasn't pointed and then again when it fired.

Two witnesses, William George Woodley of 326 Carillo Drive, San Rafael, and Timothy Kevin Devoy of 28 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia, told deputies that while the struggle was going on they were yelling, trying to warn Nicholai that the gun was loaded.

Woodley said while the group was watching television he put a shell in the revolver he bought that day and Neal took it and was playing with it, spinning the cylinder.

Nicholai Hoskins said he and his brother struggled over the weapon after his brother had pointed it at him and had pulled the trigger.

Supreme Court Begins Session With Justice Warren Presiding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court started its 1968-69 term today with the same membership confronting issues ranging from the presidential election to the Vietnam War.

Chief Justice Earl Warren was back in his usual place despite his announced intention to retire, since the Senate failed to confirm as his successor Justice Abe Fortas, nominated by President Johnson in late June.

As the court opened, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he had heard nothing to indicate Johnson will submit a new nomination for chief justice.

However, rumors continued to circulate that Johnson will nominate Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., for the post, but a spokesman for Hart said he knew of no basis for the speculation. Hart was a leader in the attempt to secure Fortas' confirmation.

The customary brief opening-day session was expanded to allow arguments by supporters of third party presidential candidate George Wallace, who is trying to get his name on the November ballot in Ohio. Three hours were alloted for this plus a related case involving the Socialist Labor Party.

Then the nine justices were to go into private conferences either late today or tomorrow, to vote on the Wallace case and to take up the several hundred appeals which have come in during the long summer recess. This probably will take all week.

The justices also will review early in the term the recent action of Justice William O. Douglas in temporarily stopping the shipment to Vietnam of 256 men in five Army Reserve units who are challenging the legality

House Panel Cuts Redwood Park Funds By $39 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee recommended today an appropriation of $53 million for land acquisition for the new Redwood National Park in Northern California.

The amount, included in a supplemental money bill for the current fiscal year, represented a $39 million reduction from President Johnson's budget request.

The administration had asked advance appropriation of the full $92 million authorized for the purchase of private timberland for the 58,000-acre park in authorizing legislation signed into law only last Wednesday.

In reducing the cash allowance, the committee said it was evident no consideration had been given to the extent of savings possible through exchange of some 13,000 acres of national forest redwood timber and other federal lands in California.

Of the $53 million, the committee allotted $46 million to pay for lands which became federal property automatically last Wednesday under a declaration of legislative taking. This included the land within the park boundary belonging to four large timber companies, all other tracts of more than 50 acres and tracts of 50 acres or less occupied primarily for non-residential or non-agricultural purposes.

The remaining $7 million was alloted for the acquisition of private property in the park not affected by the legislative taking.

The land acquisition allowances include $3 million for administrative expenses including timber appraisals and surveys to determine exact park boundaries.

Apollo Astronauts Pass Physicals

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The three Apollo 7 astronauts today breezed through a lengthy pre-flight physical examination in which they were pronounced in excellent shape for their 11-day space flight scheduled to start Friday.

Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham were examined by a team of three doctors for nearly five hours.

Draft Record Burners Go On Trial

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Supporters of nine war protesters charged with burning draft records marched three miles through Baltimore today—carrying signs and shouting—to protest the trial of the defendants.

Selection of a jury to hear the trial in U.S. District Court began about 9:30 a.m. (PDT) after the nine were arraigned in the federal court on state charges growing out of the same incident.

LINE STREETS

Thousands lined the streets as the marchers arrived for a rally at War Memorial Plaza, across the street from City Hall and one block from the Post Office building where the trial is being held.

Spectators jeered the 1,500 marchers but there was no violence.

At the outset of the trial, federal prosecutors dropped the conspiracy charge against the nine Catholic pacifists, two of them priests. William Kunstler, one of five defense attorneys, said the defense would take no part in jury selection but he did not say why.

THE DEFENDANTS

Others are Thomas Melville, 37, an ex-Maryknoll priest; his 38-year-old wife, Marjorie, an ex-Maryknoll nun; George Mische, 33, a Washington, D.C., peace organizer; and Mary Moylan, a Washington, D.C., nurse.

The federal court took temporary jurisdiction of the state case until a federal verdict is reached, so the state arraignment could be held in federal court. The state charges against the nine are sabotage, robbery of a draft board clerk, larceny and destruction of property.

The march by supporters of the "Catonsville Nine" began at Wyman Park near Johns Hopkins University.

There were few Negroes in the group. About 60 of them were priests.

New Teacher Halt Looms In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Most of the city's 1.1 million public school pupils were in school today as a third teacher strike loomed. But rain kept demonstrators away from a controversial Brooklyn school district.

There had been fear of trouble in the experimental Ocean Hill-Brownsville district after the central Board of Education suspended a local governing board for 30 days in a move to forestall another teacher walkout.

The local board's refusal to take back about 80 teachers it had ordered transferred to other districts set off both previous teacher strikes.

The suspension puts Supt. of Schools Bernard E. Donovan in direct charge of Ocean Hill-Brownsville's eight schools.

At the district's junior high school, where disturbances have frequently occurred as parents and other demonstrated against actions of the central board and the teacher's union, teachers and pupils entered without incident while police ringed the building.

Later a number of teachers hired by the local board to replace the transferred teachers left the school to attend a meeting in a nearby church, while their pupils were sent to an auditorium.

The purpose of the meeting was not immediately disclosed.

Arson Suspected In $100,000 Vegas Fire

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—An arsonist may have set a $100,000 fire that raced through the Flamingo Hotel's convention hall early yesterday, routing gamblers from a casino and diners from a restaurant.

Leroy Hawks, chief investigator for the Las Vegas Fire Prevention Bureau, said "certain discrepancies exist concerning the cause" of the 5 a.m. blaze,

Hawks said investigators were puzzled as to how the fire started in what was supposed to be a locked and empty convention hall periodically patrolled by watchmen.

He said a security check of the hall was made two hours before the fire was discovered and no smoke was detected. Firemen who arrived at the scene said a couch located in a hallway some 20 feet from the main fire was in flames.

Sheriff's deputies were checking a report that an unidentified man told two tourists at McCarren Airport he had started the fire. Authorities said the statement could have been a prank but they were continuing efforts to locate the man.

Hawks said faulty electrical wiring was ruled out as a possible cause of the blaze, which started behind a stage in the south end of the recently-renocated hall.

Thousands of gallons of water from the automatic sprinkler system drenched furniture in the hall and gaming tables and carpets in the casino.

Authorities herded gamblers clutching their chips and miniskirted waitresses outside and evacuated several hundred customers from the second-floor Flamingo Skyroom, a glassed in cocktail lounge and dancing area.

One fireman and an employe were treated for smoke inhalation and several other persons were given oxygen. No serious injuries were reported.

Rusk, Gromyko Call Dinner Talks Useful

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko exchanged views on a broad range of world problems last night during a three-hour dinner meeting that both sides called useful.

The meeting was the first extensive conference between the two diplomats since Soviet troops invaded Czechoslovakia Aug. 20 and put a chill in international relations. They had met informally Wednesday at the Soviet Mission to discuss the Middle East situation.

TALKS USEFUL

Gromyko, coming from Rusk's 42nd floor suite at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel last night, told reporters no agreements were reached but "these discussions were useful."

"To say that agreement was achieved would be saying too much," he said. "Each agreement has to be preceded by a great deal of work."

Gromyko said he and Rusk touched on the Vietnam War, the Middle East, disarmament, European security and U.S.-Soviet relations.

He said they discussed no specific date for starting talks on limitation of missiles and antimissiles that their governments have agreed to enter into.

MIDEAST REVIEW

As to whether they made any progress on the Middle East, the Soviet foreign minister asserted he would "prefer not to say yes and not to say no."

U.S. officials issued the same list of subjects. 'They too called the talks useful but said no agreements were reached and no arrangements were made for future meetings.

With Rusk, who hosted the dinner, were Ambassador J.R. Wiggins, new U.S. chief U.N. delegate; Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen, deputy undersecretary of state for political affairs, and an interpreter.

Gromyko was accompanied by the Soviet ambassador to the United Nations, Jacob A. Malik; Anatoly F. Dobrynin, Soviet ambassador in Washington, and an interpreter.

Earlier on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers," Rusk said such meetings were "scouting expeditions" to look for "any point on which we can make some progress."

"We sort of sniff around," he said.

Northern Ireland Clashes Injure 96

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A weekend of bloody outbursts in Londonderry by nationalists against the government of Northern Ireland injured 96 demonstrators, police and bystanders, officials reported.

Shopkeepers in Northern Ireland's second largest city worked into the night yesterday in streets littered with stones to replace windows smashed in the clashes between police and demonstrators.

Six policemen and a fireman were hurt in the skirmishes.

Demonstrators threw stones and police in steel helmets, supported by a water cannon, broke up a crowd of 800 with a baton charge.

The violence erupted with nationalists charging discrimination against Northern Ireland's Roman Catholic minority. Most Catholics under the northern Ulster government want to unite with the Irish Republic to the south.

Demonstrations began Saturday with a civil rights march protesting alleged abuses against Catholics in housing, employment and voting regulations.

Thirty demonstrators, including a member of Parliament, were hurt in clashes Saturday afternoon. The list of injured tripled yesterday and included three children.

Charges of police brutality were raised and the government in London was asked to hold an inquiry. The British government, however, handles defense and foreign relations for Northern Ireland but leaves police matters in Irish hands.

The Londonderry Trade Council messaged Prime Minister Harold Wilson in London protesting: "The citizens of this city were attacked indiscriminately by police . . . and women and children were not excluded from police excesses . . . We strongly urge the government to take action."

William Craig, Northern Ireland's minister of home affairs, countered that police "used no more force than was necessary." He said there was evidence that the Irish Republican Army, the outlawed nationalist insurgents, had infiltrated the civil-rights movement.

"There is no doubt this was a Republican front," Craig said.

Salmon Study May Aid Man's Longevity Hunt

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A study of the changes in salmon as they swim toward their spawning ground could eventually pave the way to lengthening the road man trudges through life, a scientist says.

Dr. Andrew A. Benson, associate director and biology professor at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, told of the relationship yesterday after the return of the institute's Alpha Helix research ship from a six-month study in far northern waters.

"In a period of two weeks," Benson said, "the salmon deteriorates from a beautiful, shiny, orange-red creature to an aged, rotting, almost lifeless fish, unable to combat infection, with circulation impaired and the skin peeling off.

"The brain loses control of the pituitary gland function, which is the key to running the body. The fat which it has stored during its life in the ocean is burned down to practically nothing," he said.

"It is as though all the glands were programmed to synchronize the combustion of fats simultaneously so that the whole machine runs out of fuel.

He said scientists, studying the changes and their relationship to processes vital to man's metabolism, "may be able to use the salmon as a guide to avoid accumulation of the kind of fats deposits that, for instance, cause artherosclerosis, the primary killer in coronary diseases.

"Although the salmon deteriorates rapidly, it does not suffer artherosclerosis despite a volume of serum lipo proteins (which contain Cholesterol) five to 10 times as high as a human can tolerate. We want to know how this is possible," Benson said.

Club Is Backing Bike Path Plans

The Sausalito Women's Club has thrown its support to plans for a bicycle path between Sausalito and Mill Valley.

The club has written a letter to Marin County Supervisors pointing out the path would provide a route for many young persons now hitchiking in the area and would serve Tamalpais High School students. The letter urged "earliest attention to the development of this bicycle path."

Vehicle Theft Hearing Set

James Robert McElroy, 20, of 32 Front Street, San Rafael, was arraigned Friday in Marin Municipal Court on charges of vehicle theft and concealing stolen property Thursday.

McElroy was arrested by the California Highway Patrol after being stopped on Highway 101 in Greenbrae for unsafe passing.

A registration check indicated the motorcycle he was riding was reported stolen from James McIntosh of Redwood City. McElroy reportedly told the patrolman the cycle had been given to him.

McElroy was to appear in court this afternoon with counsel.

Pravda Says Czechs Shun Russ Troops

MOSCOW (AP) —Pravda complained today that efforts of Soviet soldiers to establish friendly contacts with Czechoslovaks are still being rebuffed by some local officials.

"The number of contacts is increasing from day to day," the Communist party newspaper reported in a dispatch from Bratislava, "but often the hope of working people to meet Soviet soldiers runs into the open resistance of local authorities and party leaders."

Pravda admitted there had been a time following the Aug. 20 invasion when Soviet soldiers met with "passionate argument, insults and meances."

NOW PASSING

But this behavior is now passing, Pravda said, and "the characteristic feature of these days is calm and comprehensive talks on how to live and act together in the future."

"Ordinary people and honest workers take every opportunity to express friendship," it said.

Then it cited a number of cases in Slovakia where it charged local authorities had thwarted Soviet efforts to be friendly.

"The excuses are the same everywhere—no time, the situation does not allow it, the workers or peasants 'are not ready' for such meetings," Pravda said. "Many people have already been punished for meetings with soldiers—they have been reduced in their jobs or even dismissed. Even children are prohibited from coming up to our soldiers.

'FEELINGS OF DIGNITY'

"Let no one think that the Soviet people want to force their friendship on anyone. Our people have feelings of dignity and pride in their country."

Pravda added Soviet soldiers in Czechoslovakia seek contacts because they want the population to understand "the reasons why they came here and they are confident that in meetings with citizens of Czechoslovakia they would help bring about a real, rather than sham, normalization of the country."

Woman Pulls Gun, Forces Pilot To Fly Mexican Plane To Cuba

MERIDA, Mex. (AP) — A 35-year-old woman from Argentina, who said she found life in Mexico intolerable, hijacked a twin-engine turboprop airliner day and ordered the pilot to fly to Cuba.

Mexican authorities said the woman, identified as Judith Vazquez, entered the cockpit and pulled a gun from beneath a white shawl. The pilot, Captain Ricardo Eroza Troyo, said that after ordering him to fly to Cuba the woman said hysterically, "I'd rather be killed or jailed in Cuba than return to Mexico."

She was believed to be the first woman to seize a plane and take it to Cuba. The incident took place as the Aeromaya plane flew over Mexico's Isla Mujeres, the "Isle of Women," on its way to Merida.

After seven hours in Havana, the plane, which carried 14 passengers including three Americans and a crew of three, returned to Merida last night.

In addition to Mrs. Vazquez and her daughter, Silvia, 12, and a two-month-old son Ernesto, two unidentified women passengers remained in Havana. It could not be learned if they were connected with the hijacking, the 19th since Jan. 30.

In Havana, Mexican Ambassador Miguel Covian, who arranged for the release of the passengers and plane, said he found the hijack difficult to explain "when there are regular commercial flights between Mexico and Cuba."

Because Mexico has diplomatic relations with the Fidel Castro government Covian said "we have the right to ask for extradition." But he said no such request would be made until he had consulted with his government.

Capt. Eroza said the black-haired woman came into the cockpit about 10 minutes after he left the tourist resort island of Cozumel on a flight to Merida, some 635 miles east of Mexico City. Merida is on the Yucatan Peninsula more than 300 miles from Havana.

Airline officials said the woman had boarded the plane earlier in Mexico City with a round trip ticket and was on her way back.

Capt. Eroza said the woman told him she had lived in Mexico for six years. He said the woman gave no information about her husband or any of her activities.

When the plane flew over Cuban soil, Eroza said, the woman collapsed and threw away the pistol in the cabin "but it was already too late to turn back because the fuel was low."

He said the passengers and crew "were all nicely treated by the Cuban authorities and had a steak dinner at the airport quarantine station."

Gyroscope Installed Wrong —$50 Million Satellite Lost

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE (AP) — A gyroscope accidentally placed the wrong way caused a Nimbus B weather satellite to go this-a-way instead of that-a-way, the experts say.

The result of the May 18 launch was $50 million worth of hardware up in smoke and in the water, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said yesterday.

NASA-Air Force investigators said the gryoscope, which controlled the flight of the Thorad Agena D. launch rocket, was facing 90 degrees from design plans.

Two minutes after liftoff the rocket swerved out of its safety corridor and was destroyed by a range safety officer. The 1,260-pound satellite was recovered in the water four miles north of San Miguel Island.

Investigators said the accident was due to human error and said no evidence of sabotage could be found. The called for a revision of test procedures and redesign of the gyroscope mounting bracket.

Lolich with a double to left. With one out, Flood singled to right, scoring Brock . Cepeda then slammed a two-run homer into the left field stands.

Despite this early bombing, Lolich maintained his poise and blanked the Cards the rest of the way, striking out eight.

Detroit tore into starter Briles for two in the fourth when Stanley led off with a triple to right and scored on Cash's sacrifice fly to Brock. Willie Horton followed with a triple to deep center, sliding into third, and scored on Jim Northrup's single, a smash that hopped over Javier's glove.

The veteran Tiger right fielder, their top hitter in the Series, swung and missed and then ripped a single to center scoring both Lolich and McAuliffe. When Cash followed with a single to right knocking in Stanley, Hoerner gave way to Ron Willis.

Brock put on a big show for the Cards with his pair of doubles and single but he failed to break his stolen base record and was thrown out at the plate on the call disputed by Schoendienst.

"I will pitch Ray Washburn in the sixth game and come back with Bob Gibson if we have to go seven," said Schoendienst.

The Tigers announced they would remain home to work out tomorrow at Tiger Stadium before flying to St. Louis. Manager Mayo Smith's pitcher will be either Joe Sparma or Earl Wilson, who suffered a pulled hamstring muscle in the third game when he lost to Washburn 7-3.

The Series has run into the same pattern that the Cards followed a year ago against Boston when they also held a 3-1 lead. In 1967 they had to go down to a seventh game and call on Gibson to save the day.

Politics Run Afoul Of Center Rules

Marin politics ran afoul Saturday of a management policy at Northgate Shopping Center, leaving several persons convinced their civil liberties had been injured.

The first of two incidents came at about 11 a.m., when a security officer for the center ordered removal of a table set up by the Marin County Democratic Central Committee. The second came in the afternoon, when five junior high school students were ordered to stop passing out campaign literature for Phillip Drath, Democratic nominee in the Sixth Congressional District.

The order was issued in both cases because neither the central committee nor Drath headquarters had met the center's requirement that advance notice be given the management, said center manager Clay Harold.

"We welcome political candidates,'' he told the Independent-Journal today, "and even prefer to provide them a booth in which to do their electioneering. However, we feel that it's only right that we know ahead of time who is coming and who is in charge of them — otherwise we'll have literature strewn all over the place," he said.

The policy would apply even to Richard M. Nixon, he asserted.

Drath, noting that the officers "scared the hell out of the kids," said "this was their first effort at learning about political processes in this country."

Boy Is Bitten; Dog Search On

The Marin County sheriff's department and humane society are looking for a dog which bit a Tamalpais Valley child Friday at about 5 p.m. on a fire trail off Tennessee Valley Road.

Eugene Childress, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Childress of 32-A Villa Garden Drive, will have to undergo painful antirabies innoculations if the dog is not found.

The child said that he had seen a woman walking four dogs, described as small or young boxers, without leashes. Later one of the dogs returned and bit the boy.

Disneyland Trip May Prove Costly

Ritchie reportedly gave his address as 100 Bayo Vista, Apt. 6, and refused police permission to search his apartment, telling them "there's a lot of marijuana in there," according to Deputy Chief Joseph J. Brusatori of San Rafael.

Armed with a search warrant, Asst. Dist. Atty. Leonard B. Shaw and police entered Ritchie's apartment Saturday night and reported finding "a sizeable quantity" of marijuana in an instant breakfast carton.

Ritchie, an unemployed beautidian, is being held by Anaheim police in the counterfeiting case and a San Rafael warrent on the marijuana matter is being set.

Petaluma GI Due Silver Star

Sp/4 James F. Bauer, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bauer of 1120 Eucalyptus Road, Petaluma, was to receive the Silver Star today in televised ceremonies at Fort Benning, Ga.

Citing Bauer for heroism, the Army said that while serving in Vietnam last February, Bauer ran through intense enemy fire to recover a 90mm recoiless rifle and began firing at the enemy to provide protection for wounded comrades. Wounded twice himself, he suffered bullet wounds in his foot and leg and shrapnel injuries to his neck and chest.

In Vietnam only a month before being wounded, Bauer had been hopitalized in Japan and at Letterman Hospital, San Francisco.

Painting Of City Hall On Agenda

The Novato City Council will consider repainting city hall when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

Repainting of city buildings was discussed by the council at its meeting last Tuesday night. The painting would be done in connection with the city-sponsored cleanup-paintup campaign on Saturday and Sunday, and Oct. 19 and 20.

Thecouncil will also discuss making city plumbing, building and mechanical codes conform with state codes, the abatement of two billboards and an ordinance designating the terms and methods of removal of park and recreation advisory commission members.

Teacher Policies To Be Reviewed

A proposeed revision of teacher evaluation policies will be discussed by the San Rafael Board of Education at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the district office.

Some teachers have suggested having teachers evaluate teachers while administrators believe they should be responsible for evaluation, Supt. John F. Plank said.

A discussion on "Innovation in Education: New Direction for the American School," is also planned. Items such as a new method of budgeting, the need for research and better organization for change will be included in the discussion.

Future Of Bayside School Due Review

The future use of Bayside School and development of Bayside Park will be discussed by the Sausalito School District board at 7:30 p.m. today in the district office, 630 Nevada Street.

Also scheduled for discussion is a policy for obtaining information from the district office and action on joining an antitrust suit against a group of national book publishers.

Coats Taken

Burglars who broke in sometime between Friday morning and yesterday afternoon stole two mink coats valued at $3,000, plus a clock radio, an electric razor, woman's watch and $10 from a piggy bank at the residence of G. H. Baumgarten, 168 Peacock Drive, San Rafael police reported today.

of their callup. Five other justices refused to grant a last-minute reprieve.

If Douglas cannot convince a majority that the men should stay in this country while the court hears their case, his orders will be cancelled. The reservists will still be able to appeal, but the Army can ship them out.

The suit attacked a 1966 statute which allows the president to order any reserve units to active duty for two years. The men argue that under earlier laws their contracts with the government contemplated active duty only in the event of a declared war or a declared national emergency. They lost in lower federal court.

Word as to the court's action on both the reservists' reprieve and the Wallace argument is expected very soon—probably tomorrow.

The Wallace group is attacking Ohio election law requirements which place independent candidates at a disadvantage. Ohio law contains no provision for persons to qualify as independent candidates for president and vice president, nor do the voters have any opportunity to write in a name except when there is no regularly nominated candidate.

The law was changed to read this way after the 1948 election when the candidacy of Henry Wallace cut heavily into the vote cast for President Harry Truman.

In other first day action the tribunal refused to order California to put the names of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., and Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver on the presidential ballot next month.

A McCarthy group, called Californians for an Alternative in November, had gathered only 190,000 signatures of the 300,000 required under state law. For this reason California courts blocked their bid. The Supreme Court turned down their appeal, saying whatever may be the merits of the controversy it is too close to election day to tinker with the ballots now.

Cleaver, who sought ballot space for his Peace and Freedom Party, was turned down without comment. California courts had ruled that at the age of 33 he is not eligible to run for president. The Constitution puts the minimum wage at 35.

Parking Lot To Be Studied

The San Anselmo City Council is expected to discuss the proposed improvement of a city-owned lot used for parking at its 8 p.m. meeting tomorrow.

The lot, located behind Kaufman's department store at 540 San Anselmo Avenue, could eventually hold 75 cars, according to the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce, which requested the discussion.

The council also will hold a hearing on request of Cecil B. Norton for rezoning single-residence property at 1437 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to two-family residence.

$90,000 Program Due Bid Calling

The Marin Municipal Water District board is expected to call for bids for the 1968-69 rehabilitation program at its meeting at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the district office, 220 Nellen Avenue, Corte Madera.

The program includes nine jobs in different parts of the district and is expected to cost about $90,000, William R. Seeger, general manager, said. It is part of a general replacement and improvement program that has been in effect for five years, he said.

Open Space Funds To Be Considered

A request by the Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society that the City of Belvedere contribute $4,500 toward the purchase of one acre of open space above Old St. Hilary's Church will be considered by the Belvedere City Council at 8 p.m. today in community hall.

Also scheduled is a request by the Mill Valley Refuse Co. to increase garbage collection rates by 30 per cent over the next three years.

Students Help Run The School

By JOANNE GRANT

A principal's desire to "get more closely plugged into the thinking of students" is leading to growing student participation in running San Rafael High School.

The principal, Dr. Alan Ellsberg, who students describe as "very conscious of student representation in school,'' started toying with a plan for a principal's Student Advisory Council last year.

A group of 40 was formed and met with him twice, but the number proved unwieldy, Ellsberg said.

Ellsberg called on then student body president Bob Hermann to select a cross section of students to meet with him a few times a month.

That group advised favorably on the pass/fail grading system initiated this year and is credited with starting planned improvements in the cafeteria.

The students also had a hand in interviewing prospective faculty members last year, Ellsberg said. With the applicant's permission, they sat in on interviews, asked questions and wrote evaluations.

Ellsberg reported their reactions usually were amazingly similar to his.

The advisory council was revived shortly after school opened this year and the task of selecting a representative group fell to Jeff Godwin, student body president.

"I tried to build a group that was as representative as possible of all the factions," Godwin said. His "factions" included the three upper grades, the artistic minded students, the "bookish" ones, etc.

"They're not the type that would run for student body office," he said, explaining that is another "faction."

He omitted freshmen, he said, because freshmen on last year's council were "so out of it, so awed by upperclassmen." There is also a problem in knowing who the vocal freshmen are, he added.

Ellsberg, who insists on frank discussion, said the students "had to be secure enough and strong enough to speak out."

Named to the council were Delores White, Don Daglow, Mary Jo Morgan, Charles Gray, Steve Bacon, Derrick Clark, Parker Lee, Becky Late, Bruce Whitley and Biff Gallivan, Godwin also serves.

The group has held its first meeting, amid repreated admonitions from Ellsberg to be "very honest or else we will all be wasting out time."

Most of the students responded honestly, they said, though one girl admitted she didn't feel she could at first. "I had to get to know the people," she said.

One indication of the students' strong feelings and diverse opinions at the first meeting was the open campus issue which ended with a majority and a minority report.

Five students agreed there should be an open campus policy for privileged sophomores, all juniors and seniors. Four others thought it should be limited to privileged juniors and all seniors.

Currently, seniors with satisfactory grades and conduct records are permitted off campus during free hours.

Since the first meeting, however, Mary Jo Morgan, who voted with the minority, has changed to the majority point of view — a result of thinking about it and talking to other students.

Bruce Whitley, who was unable to attend the first meeting, said in a special conference last week that he believed in an open campus for all students except those who need to be restricted for disciplinary reasons.

Whitley said he has several ideas he plans to bring to the advisory council.

One is doing something about the "classroom situation." He deplored "row classrooms" as being for certain types of learning only. His English class, he said approvingly, has the desks arranged for a round table discussion.

He said he would also like to have a bus for field trips, set up as a traveling laboratory for science classes and other special studies.

Delores White, who is also president of a developing black student group, said she thinks there will be good results and noted efforts being made now to provide a black history course.

She said the administration has found three possible teachers, but no money, and is discussing taking San Rafael High students to Terra Linda High for the "Negro in America" course being taught there.

The students meet with Ellsberg during class time. "It's an important enough learning situation," he said.

Future meetings will be held as often as necessary, he said, with no special schedule planned now.

The students' ideas will be turned over to such groups as the administrative council, the department chairman's commission, the teachers steering committee and others for additional consideration.

In turn, ideas from the other groups will be brought to the principal's advisory council to get student reaction, Ellsberg said.

Larkspur's Move To Rid Canyon Of Shacks Tedious But Gaining

Larkspur's program to spruce up or demolish Madrone Canyon's shanties is tedious but gaining some momentum, Ronald H. Glander, city building and planning superintendent, said today.

He said repair permits have been taken out by owners of two of the delapidated structures, and owners of three others — two on Madrone Avenue and one on Millard Road — are in the planning stage for improvements.

On May 15, the city council urged elimination of the unsightly and substandard shacks and unfinished houses in the canyon, buildings inhabited by trespassers, transients and hippie-types.

One step agreed upon was that a full-time building inspector should be hired. Another was that a uniform housing code must be adopted for a better basis to bring buildings up to city safety standards.

On July 3, the council adopted the housing code. The inspector, Wade Bourgeois, was hired Aug. 5. An improved filing system to keep records of questionable structures has been developed by the building and planning department.

One of the two buildings for which permits already have been obtained is a five-room frame house at 328 Madrone Avenue. Glander said it was unmaintained for years, that indifferent renters "tore it up pretty badly."

He said a letter was written the owner Aug. 7 declaring that occupancy must end and that the structure would be condemned by the city as a public hazard unless repairs were made. The owner, given 60 days before demolition would occur, has secured new foundation, plumbing, and electrical permits to undertake $4,500 in renovations, said Glander. He said actual work is expected to start within the next few weeks.

The other house, at 16 Olive Street, lacked repairs generally, Glander said. The owner, living there, obtained permits Aug. 22 for about $2,700 worth of work, he added.

Glander admitted that progress on five structures is a small dent in the 75 substandard buildings estimated in the canyon last spring, but said it won't be a crash program forced down the throats of the property owners.

"What we're trying to do is a self-help thing; encourage people to improve their property, explain to them why the property is hazardous, and try this approach rather than writing sharp letters (telling them) to do the work," he said. "We feel we're making some reasonable progress."

Glander said he doesn't term all occupants of the buildings as hippies. Some, he said, are people who only need encouragement to improve their situation. Most of them have been cooperative so long as time is taken to explain the problem, he said. "It works out very well but it's very time-consuming and tedious."

Glander said each case will have to be handled individually but "we'll probably use this same approach throughout the whole program. It's proved successful thus far."

He admitted there probably hasn't been much reduction in the number of transients, or semi-permanent trespassers, who habitate many of the shacks. These people certainly increase the fire and police problems but "we haven't really gotten into that area yet," he said.

Much more progress is hoped for in the next two or three months, however, Glander added.

'69 Kingswood Estate 3-Seat Walk-In Wagon

Chevrolet introduces the walk-in wagon.

Here's a wagon that welcomes you in the back door without making you stoop over to keep from banging your head.

Now you simply walk up a step in the bumper and walk down a step inside. Then you simply turn around and sit right down. Don't worry. We've slanted the back-end to help avoid the roof from bumping your head.

Another thoughtful design is our dual-action tailgate. Its concealed door openers won't catch a sleeve like an outside handle.

And another: You can specify washers for the headlights.

Still another: Tri-Level loading in most wagons. Order a roof rack for carrying convenience on top, in addition to the load space you have inside and under the rear floor.

Our '69 wagons also are big on looks and performance. One quick example is the new 327-cubic-inch engine, standard in many models. It's the largest standard V8 in its field.

Look over both our wagon sizes, biggest and big. Even the names are new. All at your Chevrolet dealer's now.

Just walk in.

Combat Punishment For Failing To Salute

PLEIKU, jvietnam (UPI)—A u.S. Army general said today soldiers in his division who fail to salute superior officers are sent to combat areas for punishment.

Maj. Gen. Charles P. Stone, commander of the 18,000-man 4th Infantry Division, said in a statement, "The policy is carried out with discernment only after a flagrant violation.

"Most often the man is counseled on the spot and, if necessary, referred to his unit commander for appropriate action."

Stone's headquarters are at Camp Enari, five miles from this Central Highlands town. After being asked about the punishment order, he said in his statement, "It has been the policy to transfer soldiers who fail to salute in Camp Enari to forward areas where saluting is not a requirement."

The general said men sent to combat areas are given jobs for which they have been trained and are qualified to do. He did not indicate how many soldiers had been ordered forward.

A directive ordering the combat area transfer was contained in the division's daily bulletin Sept. 7. The bulletin is an official unit publication, signed by the assistant adjutant, Capt. Walter Stein. A copy is sent to the Pentagon,

The six-foot-five general said the order was issued prior to the Sept. 7 bulletin. He said it was put into effect after careful consideration.

The regulation has caused some grumbling among the 8,000 soldiers station at Camp Enari. A visitor entering the barbed-wire perimeter, however, is struck by the abundance of snappy salutes and "Good morning, sir!" greetings.

LBJ Signs $14.57 Billion Bill For Housing Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed into law today a $14.57 billion appropriation bill containing substantially less funds for major housing programs than he had requested from Congress.

The bill finances the Department of Housing and Urban Development and a score of independent agencies for the present fiscal year.

The measure includes a House-Senate compromise of $625 million for the model cities program designed to attack blighted areas of major cities. Johnson wanted $1 billion for the program.

Also included is $30 million in new contract authority for the rent subsidy program designed to supplement rental payments of low income families occupying private, non-profit housing. The President requested $65 million for the program.

For the fiscal year starting next July 1, the bill provides $750 million for urban renewal projects, or $550 million less than was requested.

The President also signed two other bills. One increases appropriation authority for construction or leasing by the government of one experimental or demonstration fish protein concentrate plant. The other extends for four years authority for commercial fisheries research.

FLOOD WARNING

Disastrous general flooding is inevitable unless the senseless construction in the Corte Madera Creek bed at the Stadium Way Bridge, Kentfield (off McAllister) is halted and deferred until after the winter rains.

Presently there are 2 earth dams across the creek as well as other major obstructions to the natural flow of impending rainwater in this critical flood area.

Property owners in Kentfield, Ross and San Anselmo should investigate for themselves immediately.

Ukiah Girl Is Moved To San Jose

SAN JOSE (AP) — The now semi-paralyzed girl who was raped, shot and left for dead after he boyfriend was slain has been brought to San Jose for the trial of two Washington youths.

Court sources confirmed today that Susan Bartolomei was brought yesterday from Ukiah to San Jose, apparently to be a trial witness.

Over the weekend, the trial judge, Joseph P. Kelly, had been reported pondering a decision on whether to move the murder case jury to Ukiah to take her testimony.

Thomas E. Braun and Leonard E. Maine, both 19 from Ritzville, Wash., are charged with murdering Susan's boy friend, 17-year-old Timothy Luce, and kidnaping, raping and attempting to murder the young girl a year ago.

Susan, now 19, still has a bullet in her head and physicians have removed her voice box to prevent strangulation.

Shotgun Discharges, Killing Small Boy

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Three-year-old Glenn Mills of San Jose was killed yesterday in a blast to the face from a 12-gauge shotgun.

According to police reports the boy found the gun under his father's bed and it discharged when his 5-year-old brother tried to take it away from him.

Assembly Nominee Mertle Backs Watson Initiative

Robert E. Mertle, of Santa Venetia, Democratic nominee for the Seventh Assembly District seat now held by Republican William T. Bagley of San Rafael, last night became the first local candidate to support the controversial Proposition 9 on the November ballot.

Mertle announced he was a "strong proponent" of the proposition during a "candidates night" on television station KQED, channel 9.

The proposition, (the Watson Amendment) almost universally condemned by school, city, county and state officials, would require that all education and welfare costs be financed from some other source than property taxes. Its critics argue it will greatly increase income and sales taxes, and will shift control of education and welfare programs to the state and federal governments.

Mertle, however, argued "we can't continue to raise taxes, but have to look elsewhere" to finance education and welfare. Predicting the proposition will pass, Mertle said the Legislature "has been remiss for 50 to 60 years" in not finding relief for property taxpayers.

The proposition, declared Bagley, "would simply create a hatchet job on home rule and would create chaos for local government and for local schools." Instead, Bagley urged voters to support Proposition 1-A, the Legislature's proposal to revise certain taxes to provide a one-year rebate of about $70 to property taxpayers.

Man Claiming To Be 'Son Of God' Booked Into Jail

A man who claimed he was the "son of God" was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of car theft and vagrancy.

Rex Ellis Barnett, 32, of no fixed address, told sheriff's deputies he "was the son of God, sees God and communicates with him."

Deputies found him in the Pan Toll camping area at Mount Tamalpais after Ranger Robert N. Nygren reported a man "acting strangely" there. He was living in a truck believed stolen in San Francisco.

Barnett failed to provide bail of $1,275 and was held in jail. A court appearance date has not been set.

Nixon Aides Forecast $20 Million Bill

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon's Republican presidential campaign is said by its managers to be proving the most expensive ever waged, with a price tag expected to run well over $20 million.

Nixon associates expect spending by both parties in the White House race to reach record levels. This is in part a product of inflation and in large measure the result of escalating outlays for television.

The Republican strategists are not saying exactly how much they expect to spend by Nov. 5, nor have they disclosed how much money has been raised.

But a series of interviews with Nixon assistants and advisers produced unanimity on one point: They consider their own campaign finances more substantial than those of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic nominee.

"We've caught on," said Robert Ellsworth, Nixon's political director. "Humphrey hasn't."

A Nixon aide said about half the total budget of any presidential campaign would be raised in the final month, when interest and expenses both are running high.

Another said it is not possible to report just how much money will be spent and may never be because of the proliferating campaign commitees involved in national and state operations for the GOP ticket.

"Twenty million is the round figures we've all been shooting at," he said. "Actually it probably will be higher."

About half the Nixon budget originally was earmarked for television. The Nixon TV expense is expected to cost about $10 million.

Nixon's personal television campaigning actually has been comparatively inexpensive, leaving more money free for a multimillion—dollar network advertizing drive.

The basic Nixon approach is a one-hour program on a state or regional television hookup. Those shows cost between $30,000 and $40,000 each. Campaign officials say at least nine are planned.

Nixon also is using network radio, which gets his voice on the air nationally for about $10,000 a program.

He used that medium last night for a speech pledging more emphasis on voluntary citizen efforts to deal with big-city problems. Nixon said vast new government spending programs would only "drain the federal treasury to soothe the public conscience."

(UPI Telephoto)

HUMPHREY

ERIE, Pa. (UP) — Hubert H. Humphrey said today that as the presidential campaign moves along "more and more people are getting fed up" with the tactics of his two rivals.

Opening a three-city swing through Pennsylvania's industrial heartland, the Democratic presidential nominee said "The American people are coming to understand that the type of campaign waged by a candidate for the presidency reveals the kind of president he would make if elected.

"And in the last week," the Vice President went on, "I've noticed that more and more people are getting fed up with Mr. Nixon and Mr. Wallace and their tactics to win the presidency."

He said he thinks he knows as much as the pollsters about what is on people's minds and "the people—and not the pollsters nor anybody else" will pick a president.

Humphrey's remarks were prepared for delivery at a downtown rally before he was to head east to Scranton and Wilkes-Barre in his third visit to one of the big states crucial to his presidential hopes.

One of the questions Americans are asking themselves, Humphrey contended, is "Which candidate and which party can you trust?"

"I say you can't trust a candidate like George Wallace whose only appeal is to people's fears," the Vice President said, and "you can't trust a candidate like Richard Nixon who refuses to speak out on vital issues and who says one thing in the North and another thing in the South."

Humphrey said that the GOP nominee "follows the advice of his highly paid Madison Avenue advertising executives who are in charge of the Nixon image."

He attacked Nixon's position on federal enforcement of Supreme Court desegregation decisions, the nomination of Abe Fortas as chief justice and the nuclear nonproliferation treaty, adding that on Vietnam the Republican candidate has stood absolutely silent.

"But while Mr. Nixon has been silent," he said, "his campaign managers have been mailing secret messages to special interests, such as the stock market traders on Wall Street, assuring them that a Nixon administration will look after their special interests—forget the public interest."

His reference was to a report that Nixon had assured securities traders he favors less federal government regulation of their activities.

Humphrey admitted that "the Democrats are running behind" but said "we are moving up fast."

Yesterday, while watching the St. Louis Cardinals rout the Detroit Tigers in the fourth World Series game in Detroit, Humphrey gave a similar message to one of his key labor supporters, President Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers union.

McCARTHY

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) —Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy will endorse Hubert H. Humphrey for president only if Humphrey pledges unconditionally to halt the bombing of North Vietnam, McCarthy supporters say.

The report that McCarthy had not changed his post-Democratic National Convention position on supporting the vice president came yesterday at a meeting of the New Democratic Coalition, a group of dissident Democrats formed after the convention.

McCarthy has drawn up four demands that Humphrey must meet before he will endorse his fellow Minnesotan, attorney Gerald Hill of San Francisco said:

A halt to the bombing of North Vietnam.

A reform of the U.S. draft, allowing noncombatant status to one who opposed military service on moral as well as religious grounds.

Electoral reform of the Democratic Party.

Meanwhile McCarthy will return to California Oct. 14 for the first time since he stumped the state campaigning for the presidential nomination.

McCarthy is scheduled to address a rally in the Civic Auditorium in behalf of the candidacy of Alan Cranston, Democratic nominee for U.S. Senator.

AGNEW

BALTIMORE (AP) — Republican vice presidential nominee Spiro T. Agnew watched the Baltimore Colts win their fourth straight national football league game yesterday as they defeated the Chicago Bears 28-7.

The Maryland governor saw the Colts second home game but missed the first one. "Before this season, I missed only two home games. I don't know when I'll get to see another one" he said at the game.

He was to leave today for a campaign tour that will take him through four Southern states and one Northern state in hree days.

He will visit North Carolina, Florida, Tennessee, Virginia and New York.

Agnew will return to Maryland briefly Wednesday and then fly to New York to tape a television show.

MUSKIE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic vice presidential candidate Edmund S. Muskie apparently plans to keep his campaign as close as he can to the college campus in the next few days, a tactic that has worked well recently.

The Maine senator, who was warmly received on campuses during a western swing last week, had appearances scheduled at Syracuse, N.Y. University today following a brief speech in Washington.

Muskie then is to head on nine-day tour of eastern states and aides indicate he will appear at as many colleges as possible.

He said that neither he nor his running mate, Hubert H. Humphrey, have been told that the price of a Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy endorsement is a pledge of a total bombing halt in Vietnam.

REAGAN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says he won't accept a cabinet post or ambassador's job if his fellow Republican, Richard M. Nixon, is elected president.

In a television interview yesterday, he said he will refuse any post in a Nixon administration before his own term ends in 1970.

Reagan said he was approached about serving with Nixon. Asked if he would categorically deny that he might leave the governor's job before the term is up, Reagan replied, "yes."

Poll Shows A Reverse In California Voting

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Political observers wondered today whether 1968 will be a rerun of California's 1964 election —in reverse.

It was four years ago that Democrat Lyndon B. Johnson swept to victory over Republican Barry Goldwater in the presidential race here—at the same time Republican George Murphy was downing Democrat Pierre Salinger in the U.S. Senate race.

This time, however, it's the Republican out front in the presidential derby and the Democrat far ahead in the Senate contest.

Here's how the election would go in California if it were held today, according to the State Poll conducted by Don Muchmore for the Los Angeles Times, and taken from 1,007 persons the last weekend in September:

President: Richard Nixon, Republican, 44 per cent; Hubert Humphrey, Democrat, 33 per cent; George Wallace, American Independent, 7 per cent; Eldridge Cleaver, Peace and Freedom, 2 per cent. Rest undecided.

Senate: Alan Cranston, Democrat, 53 per cent; Max Rafferty, Republican, 32 per cent; Paul Jacobs, Peace and Freedom, 2 per cent. Rest undecided.

In both cases, the leaders have increased their strength since the last survey. It should be remembered, however, that observers are noting an upsurge in Humphrey's campaign in the last week, and Rafferty trailed all the way in the polls in the primary—then upset incumbent Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel on voting day.

With the election in its final four weeks, Nixon slated another trip to California, whose 40 electoral votes will play a key role in the outcome. He will spend Wednesday touring Los Angeles County—which has about 38 per cent of California's voters.

In a strictly state - oriented development on the campaign trail, Democratic Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh packed his bags for a tour throughout the state.

He has two aims:

Retain the current Democratic majority in the Assembly and thus his position of leadership. If Republicans capture the lower house, Unruh is regarded as certain to lose the speakership.

Convince voters to support Proposition 1-A, the Legislature's big package of income and tax reductions. That also means getting them to oppose Proposition 9. The one drawing the larger number of "yes" votes is enacted; the other fails.

WORK SITE — While earthen dams keep the area relatively dry workmen press on with the relocation of sewer lines across Corte Madera Creek in the vicinity of the foot bridge from Stadium Way to Kent School.

Gunfire Breaks Two Windows

Two windows at the Ark restaurant, Gate Six, Waldo Point, were broken by gunfire early Saturday, one by what appeared to be a shotgun blast and the other by what appeared to be a .30-caliber bullet, sheriff's deputies reported.

Brad Beckett of San Francisco reported that three armed men fired from the restaurant parking lot while he was standing on the top floor of the Ark at 3:58 a.m.

The men drove off after the shooting, deputies said. Beckett told deputies he and one of the suspects had argued earlier that night.

Lane For Buses To Get Review

The complicated legal hurdles in the proposal to reserve a freeway lane for buses will be reviewed by the Tri-Partite Transportation Committee 10 a.m. Wednesday in the administration building of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

State officials have said that special legislation and perhaps even amendment of the state constitution would be necessary before the proposal could be tried.

CORTE MADERA CREEK

Earthen Dams Held Disaster Invitation

Earth dams that block Corte Madera Creek near Stadium Way in Kentfield are a "senseless invitation to a flooding disaster," Allan Larkins Jr. of San Rafael has complained in a letter to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

But the engineer for Ross Valley Sanitary District explained that the dams were put up temporarily to relocate sewer lines, and the dams will be removed by Nov. 1.

Larkins, who owns two duplexes adjacent to the Stadium Way footbridge, warned in his letter that one heavy rain will cause general flooding and ruin whatever construction is now in progress.

"We contend that the work in the creek bottom should not have been started so late in the year," said Larkins. "In the name of sanity, we request an immediate study of the entire project and a restoration of the creek bottom to allow for the oncoming winter rains."

J. Warren Nute, engineer for the Ross Valley Sanitary District, said the earth dams were put up by a contractor hired by the sanitary district to relocate and lower sewer lines as part of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project. The temporary dams keep the tides back so that the area will dry, and heavy equipment can work in the creek bed, said Nute.

"The contractor also has a drag line under the dams so that in an emergency, the dams can come down in a few minutes," said Nute.

"The drag line system won't work," contended Larkins. "It's an unbelievable hazard. The whole thing should be deferred to next spring."

Accident Free Driver Honored

Twenty years of accident free driving for the U.S. Post Office Department has earned a Mill Valley man a special commendation.

He first drove a truck, delivering special mail and parcel post. In 1954 he began driving the route he has today, making the 14-mile daily trip without accidents.

Transportation Committee To Meet

The Tri-Partite Transportation Committee will meet at the Golden Gate Bridge Administration Building at 10 a.m. Wednesday to discuss water and bus transportation between Marin and San Francisco.

The committee is composed of representatives from Marin, San Francisco, and the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

Kremlin Sees Trouble Arranging A Summit

MOSCOW (UPI)—For the first time the Kremlin spoke today about its fresh trouble in arranging a world Communist summit conference. It vowed the meeting will be held. But the pledge, in an editorial in the Communist Party newspaper Pravda, mentioned no date for the summit.

Until today the Soviets had been silent about their defeat in last week's Budapest meeting of officials of 58 Communist parties. The Budapest session rejected the Kremlin's call for the summit to open in Moscow Nov. 25. Pravda did not tell it that way.

It said "an overwhelming majority" of Communist parties represented at Budapest decided to hold the summit "after preparing it in the best possible way."

In Budapest, contrary to Soviet wishes, the parties agreed only to hold another meeting, Nov. 17 in the Hungarian capital, to discuss a summit. The Budapest session showed the cracks in the Communist world caused by the Soviet bloc invasion of Czechoslovakia in August. Pravda had its own view. It hailed the Budapest meeting last week as "fresh confirmation of the desire of fraternal parties to further develop cooperation on the basis of Marxism, Leninism and proletarian internationalism."

It said nothing of the opposition to the summit, because of the Czechoslovak invasion, voiced by the large French and Italian Communist parties.

Pravda found its own villains. It said "imperialist reaction" tried to "cause division in the ranks of the fraternal parties," It said, "Their hopes were shattered once more."

Three Marinites Honor Students

The are Linda Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Watson of 37 Plaza Drive, Mill Valley; Keith Stetson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Stetson of 209 Marin Street, San Rafael, and Margaret Warner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Warner, formerly of Novato, now of Bakersfield, Kern County.

Minor Injuries

Santa Rosa Air Service Rescheduled

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Airline service between Santa Rosa and northern points will be resumed soon, Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, said today.

Clausen, in a press release, based his prediction on a report he received from a Civil Aeronautics Board official, John W. Dregge, who said the newly formed airline serving the north coast area, Air West, should have "an improved operation within the next two months."

Clausen said he had asked the CAB to investigate after service north from Santa Rosa was discontinued last month.

Dregge reported that the merger earlier this year of three airlines into Air West had "caused great confusion," which in turn caused the disruption of some service to Sonoma County, Clausen reported.

$500,000 Damage Suit To Retrial

The California Supreme Court has remanded for retrial a half-million-dollar damage suit against Ross General Hospital and Dr. J. M. Stubblebine arising from a suicidal death in July 1962, at the hospital's psychiatric ward.

The new trial was ordered on a supreme court finding that Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court erred in rejecting an instruction to the jury requested by John G. Buresh, attorney for the plaintiff. The District Court of Appeal had previously upheld the Marin County judge.

The suit arose from the plunge of Kurt Meier, owner of K. Myers Imported Fabrics in Mill Valley, from a window of the Ross Hospital psychiatric wing on July 13, 1962. Meier, a patient in the hospital, was killed in the fall.

His widow, Erika Meier, sued for $300,000 damages for herself and $200,000 for two minor children, Robert and Patricia. Dr. Stubblebine, as head of the hospital's psychiatric department, was named co-defendant.

In the suit, she alleged the hospital failed to take proper precautions against Meiers' taking his own life, although he was known to have suicidal tendencies.

RIOTS, WAR COSTLY

Von Braun Doubts U.S. Will Get To Moon First

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the nation's Saturn rocket program says he has spent the last two years following orders to tear down the industrial structure in Alabama built up to support the space program.

Wernher von Braun, director of the space agency's Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala., said in an interview with the magazine U.S. News & World Report that the sole purpose of his orders "seems to make certain that in 1972 nothing of our capability is left."

He predicted the United States and the Soviet Union will be in essentially an even position in the race to the moon by the end of this year, but said he is beginning to doubt this country will get there first.

He attributed the lag to trouble areas such as riots and Vietnam and the two-year period since American astronauts last flew.

"To put it bluntly," he said, "The Soviets are spending more money than we are. They are spending approximately 30 to 50 per cent more in terms of man-hours per year than we spend."

Dr. Braun said a program costing $5 to $6 billion a year, sustained over a number of years, would "at least enable us to pull even with the Russians. Programs on the order of $3.5 to $4 billion—which we have this year—simply guarantee our falling back. I stress not only remaining in second place, but falling further behind."

He said, "I'm convinced that, unless something dramatic happens, the Russians are going to fly rings around us in space in a period of five years. . .

"It would mean, to all intents and purposes, our abdication as a first-class power. I don't mean this solely in military terms. We would be abdicating our role as leader in world technology by not responding to the greatest technological challenge of our times. It would be comparable to not participating in aviation 50 years ago."

The president of Tiburon Volunteer Firemen's Association is Lawrence J. Bogel.

Transit Board To Discuss Bus

Improved bus transportation within Marin County, particularly to public buildings like the Civic Center and the new mental health center at Marin General Hospital, will be discussed by Marin County Transit District directors at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the supervisors' chambers at the Civic Center.

Gen Mgr. Seymour Kashin will also report on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad's proposed abandonment of its Sausalito branch line from Greenbrae to Sausalito.

Representatives from the county, cities, and shipping interests met Sept. 23 and indicated that the county should oppose the abandonment.

Low Bidder

Slinsen Construction Co. of Napa was low bidder last week with a $195,261 bid to widen and resurface Highway 121 between Napa Road in Sonoma County and one half mile south of Imola near Napa, the state Department of Public Works said today. Six bids were received on the project to widen the 3.7 miles.

"I read 250 words per minute and I got through college. If that was good enough for me, it's good enough for my kid."

Sure, you can still get through college if you're a "normal" student reading at the average rate of 250 to 400 words per minute. It just means that throughout your college career you'll spend over 5,000 hours doing just your required reading! And that's a shame, because you could save at least 3,700 of those hours. How? By learning to read at least three times faster.

For five years now the Reading Dynamics Institute has guaranteed to at least triple your reading speed or refund your entire tuition. Thousands of people throughout the Bay Area have taken up this offer and are now reading 3 to 10 times faster. Results? Hundreds, even thousands, of irreplaceable hours saved for them to invest as they choose. Businessmen and professional people now spend more time in productive work. High school and college students have time for campus activities and taking "want to" courses, raising their grade point average, or holding down a part-time job. Imagine, if a student could cut 3,700 hours of his required reading time and invested only 2,500 of those hours in a job that paid $1.75 an hour, he could earn $4,375.00.

Reading Dynamics is an incredible education breakthrough. It is the definitive rapid reading method in the world today because their graduates consistently surpass the 450 to 600 words per minute rates aspired to by conventional reading courses. Most Reading Dynamics graduates can read between 1,000 and 3,000 words per minute. Many go higher, and all understand and appreciate what they read at these staggering speeds.

FREE READING DYNAMICS MINI-LESSON

Stronger Air System Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senate subcommittee, charging Pentagon officials with consistently underestimating Soviet progress in new tactical aircraft development, has recommended U.S. "development of a new air superiority weapons system."

The Senate preparedness investigating subcommittee praised the F4 in a report released over the weekend as being at least equal to the Soviet MIG21.

But it said the Soviet Union has produced at least one new type of operational fighter every two years while the United States "has not produced a single new air superiority fighter since 1965."

In this age of gimcracks and chrome, is there a place for a car so "over-engineered" that 90 percent of its value is invisible?

Mercedes-Benz thinks so.

Yesterday's dreamboats had enormous tail fins.

Obviously, there are millions every year who are willing to buy a car that's "in vogue"—even though they know newer gimcracks and styling quirks will soon erode their investment.

At Mercedes-Benz, iron-willed engineers, not stylists, rule the roost. And they insist on putting value where they think it belongs: at the heart of their machines.

That's why Mercedes-Benz motor cars can cost anywhere from about $4,500 to $26,000 without, to some tastes, "looking" it.

Form follows function

Make no mistake. The perfectionists at Mercedes-Benz do not apologize for those classic lines—free of faddish touches—that will still be handsome years from now. They simply think form should follow function instead of fashion.

The contours of that 250 sedan at right were dictated by the need to provide proper headroom, hiproom, legroom and protective packaging for five adults. Dictated by the proportions required for nimble maneuverability.

The car is both shorter and leaner than its overweight rivals. Yet it bristles with sophisticated, ultra-performance features available only as extra-cost options, if at all, on domestic sedans.

A superb machine

"Over-engineered," some critics say. Nonsense, retort Mercedes-Benz engineers. If a man can afford to invest thousands in a superb driving machine, he is entitled to get something superb.

An expert from Car and Driver tested the "new" 250 when it was released early in 1968 after an incubation period of five years. His verdict: "Offhand, I can't think of any other 4-door sedan in the world—with the possible exception of the Maserati Quattroporte—that handles, steers and stops like the Mercedes."

Scrapping the solid rear axle system of most domestic cars, the 250 uses an all-independent suspension — plus anti-sway bars front and rear. This endows it with the agility of a scrambling quarterback.

You can blast it over rutted and potholed gravel lanes. It behaves with almost eerie calm. You can thread it through the corkscrew turns of a mountain road, and enjoy yourself.

There's no sloppy play in the steering. No mushiness. When you hold the wheel, you "feel" the road. When you turn the wheel, the car darts instantly where you aim. Suddenly, you are a more confident driver.

Heroic stopping power

Stopping? Unless you have driven a 180-mph Grand Prix racing car or a Mercedes-Benz, chances are you have never experienced the security that comes from having really good brakes.

Disc brakes.

A few domestic cars have front-wheel disc brakes, and others offer front-wheel discs as an option. But every Mercedes-Benz comes with massive disc brakes on all four wheels. Standard.

Result: You get more stopping power than you may ever need. But you sleep better at night.

The pinnacle of safety

As for safety, Mercedes-Benz engineers applaud the intent of the new U.S. Government regulations, and carry their protective measures beyond the letter of these laws.

The 250's best defense against blundering drivers is, of course, its uncanny evasive ability. But, if the worst happens, your Mercedes-Benz is designed to shield you.

The entire passenger compartment is built as a sturdy "safety zone." Doors are designed to stay closed on impact. The front and rear sections of the car are engineered to crumple in a violent crash at a controlled rate, absorbing shock and reducing the threat of serious injury.

Car and Driver's sober conclusion: Of all the world's motor cars, the current Mercedes-Benz line "represents the present pinnacle in safe car engineering."

Value. All of it concealed from the casual eye. But there.

And there's more. Construction of every Mercedes-Benz begins in a shower of sparks. Where conventional cars use bolts to tie body and chassis together, Mercedes-Benz uses thousands of welds to create a single unit of immense strength. After 50,000 miles or so, you may begin to wonder if your 250 will ever rattle.

When welding stops, the raw body is dunked whole, like a taffy apple, into a gigantic vat of primer. It emerges with 24 pounds of rust protection.

More hidden value

Every car gets 20 more pounds of primer and paint. Even the insides of the hub caps are coated. As a final flourish in its armament against corrosion, each car gets a 24-pound factory slathering of undercoating.

The six-cylinder, overhead cam engine of every 250 is bench tested before installation, for more than 60 minutes. A hint of trouble in this gruelling test and the engine is torn down and rebuilt. Mercedes-Benz finds the lemons—not you.

Revealing showroom tests

Run a finger along the body of the 250. No "orange peel" texture. Slide in and open the glove compartment. Fully trimmed. Close the car door. Ka-chunk.

Now flex your back. This is no marshmallow seat. It supports you, mile after mile. It should: it was designed with the guidance of orthopedic physicians.

Crank the window and fiddle with some knobs. "Everything worked with delightful precision, eliciting the same sort of satisfaction that comes when the shutter mechanism crackles shut on a good reflex camera," reported Car and Driver's expert.

That's the beauty of the 250. It's built as if it were a 3,000-pound Hasselblad camera!

Over-engineered? By conventional standards, emphatically so. But Mercedes-Benz does not make conventional cars—and never will.

24-page brochure

Of course, the quickest way to verify the 250's virtues, both visible and invisible, is simply to test-drive it. Just ask for the keys.

Other Mercedes-Benz models to ponder:

You Never Miss The News Until The Paper Suspends

The City of Orange, Calif., population about 80,000, recently lost its local newspaper.

For many years Orange had a daily paper, the Orange Daily News. But despite the fact the city grew rapidly in recent decades, the newspaper did not prosper. Orange sits cheek-by-jowl with the larger city of Santa Ana (population about 145,000), which is the county seat and principal commercial center of Orange County. Santa Ana's newspaper grew, while the Orange Daily News struggled against odds.

A few years ago, Freedom Newspapers, Inc., which publishes the Santa Ana Register, bought the Orange News. It promptly reduced the paper in Orange to once-a-week publication. And on July 31 of this year, it ended publication of the Orange News.

THE CITY FATHERS of Orange took a rather unusual step. They decided to publish a city newsletter to "make up the lack" in reporting of city affairs to the people.

City Mgr. George Weimer said the decision came because "we have no local contact with our residents."

The Orange city newsletter made its first appearance last month.

They can also find reports from various city department heads, the city council, the manager, all of which might be loosely classified as "good news." According to these reports, everything in the City of Orange is going along just swimmingly. There is no controversy, no problem, no "hangup." Orangemen, one would conclude from reading the city's official newsletter, are privileged indeed to live in such a lovely city with such a spotless administration.

THERE IS NO hint in this official newsletter that anything might be amiss. Crime and racial stress do not exist in Orange, according to its "news" columns. And of course, there could be no such thing as the city council huddling behind closed doors in defiance of the law to decide how to dispose of the city's business.

The people of Orange, however, may not get exactly the same picture of what goes on in their city from reading the Santa Ana Register, which still covers Orange from its next-door location. They are thus in somewhat better position to know what's going on than the people of Moscow, Russia, where all the newspapers are controlled by the government.

WE RELATE what has happened in Orange because today opens National Newspaper Week, one week of each year in which the press traditionally calls attention to the role it plays.

There is little resemblance between what passes for news in the City of Orange newsletter (or in Pravda or Isvestia) and what appears in a real newspaper that goes behind the official handouts, that investigates for itself to find out what's really happening.

The people of Orange right now are well aware of the truth of the old song, "You never miss the water till the well runs dry."

Bird Bosses

Of the many feeders of wild birds in Marin County, many have probably observed that a "pecking order" not too different from that found among domestic fowl is well established. Certain birds, determined to assert their physical and mental prowess, constantly demonstrate their authority by pecking all birds which they have determined belong beneath them.

Friends of ours in southern Marin, who have counted as many as 19 house finches on their feeding grounds at one time, claim that, in this case, it is the female bird who demonstrates her authority by pecking the beautiful, scarlet-headed male. So, when our friends see a handsome man being scolded by his wife, they say, "Poor man, he is married to a finch."

Interim Hearing Supports Idea Of $50 Million Parks Fund

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — A move to relieve California taxpayers of another $50 million next year got under way at the state capitol last week when Assemblyman Edwin I. Z'Berg, D-Sacramento, held hearings on his proposal to establish the "California Local Recreation Fund."

This is a project which Z'Berg has been working on for some time. It was proposed during the 1968 legislative session, and referred to his committee on natural resources, planning and public works for interim study.

Z'BERG'S PLAN envisions the $50 million fund as 100 per cent available to cities, counties and recreation districts, as matching money for acquisition and development of local and regional recreational facilities.

He says this is the first important legislation to emerge from the committee's two-year study of recreation needs in California.

While the goad admittedly is laudable and highly desirable if the state plans to continue its policy of being all things to all people, there appear to be some flaws in the reasoning which would take another $50 million out of the pockets of taxpayers for services which could well be passed over in a time of constantly rising tax demands.

THE PROGRAM, naturally sponsored by the California League of Cities, the County Supervisors Association, the California Association of Recreation and Park Districts, and various other organizations which look on the state as an unlimited source of funds is a contribution to the growing demands of local government on state government, with consequent demands on all taxpayers to fund projects which are not their concern.

In other words, if the citizens of Podunk Hollow want to develop a public playground, there seems to be no sound reason why the citizens of other communities should be for it.

There undoubtedly are arguments in favor of the program, the most compelling of which might be the fact that communities may think a recreation area is a fine thing, provided someone else shares the cost, which in this instance would be the taxpayers of the entire state of California.

Praise For Officers In Corte Madera

Last Saturday afternoon, our son was involved in an accident in Corte Madera. We wish to express publicly our appreciation for the courtesy and aid rendered by Corte Madera Police Officers Fred Talmadge and Clifford Niederer.

We have a high regard for Chief (Frank L.) Nelson and his officers. We believe that Corte Madera has been, and is, fortunate in the extreme to have men on their police force of such high caliber.

Study Of Time In Schools Suggested

Considering the amount of money being spent for our public schools, and the many subjects being taught, some subjects I don't think are as important as the study of time.

Railroads, aviation, navigation and the later study of rocketry are dependant on accurate time, and I believe a basic study of time should be taught in some branch of our public schools.

This subject can be "food for thought" for our state school board.

Taking Chances Seems Irresponsible

This letter is prompted by another appearing in the Oct. 1 Independent-Journal protesting that the writer is "Prepared to take my chances on the dire results promised by the politicians should Proposition 9 pass!"

Is it not irresponsible "to take my chances" on throwing local services and government into total chaos for an indeterminate period of time? Is it not irrational "to take my chances" and approve Proposition 9 in the face of warnings of "dire results promised by the politicians — and the business community and labor organizations and educators and local government and taxpayers associations?

There is a valid parallel between slashing local governments' revenues by, say, one-third or one-half and cutting a household's income by the same amount. No family, no individual and no government can so drastically alter its standard of living or services without extreme consequences. My point is that limiting property taxes is rational and responsible, but the vague, short-sighted and seductive characteristics of Proposition 9 demand that it be voted down and that Proposition 1-A be approved until comprehensive property tax legislation can be formulated.

The "It serves THEM Right Attitude" and "Damn the Consequences Syndrome" implicit in Proposition 9 are intolerable even to property taxpayers.

Marin's Daily Hunt —What It's Like

I would like to congratulate your paper on the wonderful article Oct. 1, titled "Marin's Daily Hunt."

My husband and I were among those "hunters." We were looking for something inexpensive, two bedroom size, with a small yard in an apartment or duplex. Sounded simple didn't it? Well we have a small daughter and a dog, and if you think that isn't bad enough, we were both under 21!

We looked for four months straight. Not only did we call every possible ad, but at night we drove up and down streets. If friends thought they knew of a place we went and checked it out.

You are probably wondering where we stayed all this time. With relatives. The rent is cheap and they allowed children and pets.

We did find a place, though — through a misprint in a realtor's ad. It is a nice big two-bedroom duplex. No yard but he would except children and pets. No the rent isn't cheap either. Matter of fact it takes two weeks' pay check to swing it.

We aren't complaining because like the article said "with no sign of relief in sight"!

Cleaver Affair Disgrace To U.C.

You are to be commended on your stand on the Cleaver affair, and I know that most citizens wish they could do something about this disgrace that has happened in the name of academic freedom.

I fail to understand why anyone in authority at U.C., who is American and belives in the kind of freedom that we in this country have inherited, could be a party to letting him contribute to the confusion of the already far too confused students, or give encouragement to those who have been duped by similar philosophies from Peking and Hanoi.

Academic freedom is probably attained in few countries. In its true sense it is good and desirable, but it may never be construed to put the student in the place of the instructor or administrator. This will lead only to chaos. Academic freedom is not fostered by reviling needed institutions such as law enforcement, the military, and efforts to oppose our arch enemy — communism.

Jan Stephens' accusation of Governor Reagan and Mr. Rafferty ("Readers Say," Oct. 2) as racists reflects the confused notions that Cleaver's hate and violence can engender. After all, who is naive?

Pancake Day Gives Glimpse Of Farm Belt Political Spirit

CENTERVILLE, Iowa — By American standards and particularly Midwestern standards, Pancake Day here in Centerville is a venerable institution. With floats, high-school bands, high-stepping drum majorettes and, of course, free pancakes, the 20th Pancake Day drew a crowd of 20,000 or more who enjoyed themselves immensely under a gentle, warming sun.

While Pancake Day is nonpolitical, Gov. Harold E. Hughes flew down from Des Moines to be marshal of the parade. Tall, handsome in a rugged Lincolnesque way, Hughes at 46 has become a legend — a Democrat serving his third term as governor in a normally Republican state with a remarkable personal hold on a large number of his fellow Iowans.

But today Hughes faces the toughest challenge since he started out as a one-time truck driver, largely self-educated, at the bottom of the political ladder. He is running for the Senate seat being vacated by the retirement of Republican Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper with the Democratic party fractured and the national ticket far behind in the polls in the farm states. Feeling deeply the wrongness of escalating the Vietnam war, Hughes supported Sen. Eugene McCarthy. He put McCarthy's name in nomination for President in one of the few speeches at the Democratic convention in Chicago that seemed to come from both the head and the heart.

AT A LUNCH for Democratic workers before the start of the Pancake Day parade Hughes gave them not the customary campaign banalities but in his earnest, down-to-earth way he talked about the great issues confronting the nation. Delay in ratifying the nuclear nonproliferation treaty was absolutely ridiculous, the governor said. The Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia was a travesty on justice but it had no relation to the spread of nuclear weapons. And if the treaty is ratified it could mean eventual inspection behind the lines and a check on the headlong plunge into a new nuclear arms race costing billions and billions of dollars.

This is the kind of serious talk he is giving as he moves about the state in a campaign caravan. The people want to hear it, he says, they follow the news, they read the newspapers.

He gets down, of course, to the nitty-gritty which in the farm belt is farm prices. Corn is 82 cents a bushel. The governor says there must be two farm programs, one commercial and one aimed at the rural poor who are being forced off the land and into the cities.

DAVID M. Stanley, Hughes' Republican opponent, is an attractive candidate. Six years younger than Hughes, he served three terms in the state house of representatives and is now in his second term as a state senator. With the resources of his wealthy family back of him, he has been campaigning throughout the state for more than a year.

On Pancake Day Stanley was reported moving through the crowds massed on the town square shaking hands and passing out his leaflets. In this political year everything is political.

TWO DOORS down from the reviewing stand the local leaders for George C. Wallace's Independent Party had taken over the town barber shop for Pancake Day with posters and bunting splashed across the front. Two husky young men in turtlenecks were doing a fairly brisk business selling straw boaters with Wallace bands for $1.50, bumper stickers for 50 cents, campaign buttons for 25 cents.

George Mills, political editor of the Des Moines Register, found in a sample of 100 voters in Guthrie County, which has almost invariably reflected the national trend, that 18 were Wallaceites. Everett Thurman, the Wallace chairman in nearby Monroe County, owns the local motel. He says that out of six welathy farmers who recently came for the cattle sales five were for Wallace, one for Nixon.

One-Justice Court Stays Come Under Heavy Fire

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Supreme Court reconvened today confronted with a new congressional challenge involving a caustic demand for a major procedural reform.

Under fire is the practice whereby litigants can shop among the nine justices for a stay on a ruling or order by a government agency.

Chief Justice Earl Warren is on notice that unless the tribunal itself takes steps to curb this power, legislation to impose corrective measures will be pressed in Congress.

Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of two House armed services subcommittees in charge of National Guard and reserve affairs and the draft, served this notice on Warren in an outspoken letter. He was prompted by the series of stays granted by Justice William O. Douglas delaying the shipment of reservists to Vietnam.

In each instance he did this after they had been denied by Chief Justice Warren and Justices Black, Brennan, Harlan and White.

Chief Justice Warren has sent a carefully noncommial reply to Hebert. It merely stated the full court would consider Douglas' stays.

However, it is deemed virtually certain that all of Douglas' stays will be quickly overturned and the way cleared for the Army to transport the reservists to Vietnam. That is indicated by the fact that five justices — a majority of the court — had previously denied such stays.

Warren's reply is wholly unsatisfactory to Hebert.

"The question is not whether the court will act promptly on Douglas' stays," said Hebert. "The question is what the court is going to do about the procedure under which draft dodgers can shop around among the justices for a stay after being turned down by other justices."

IF DEFENSE Secretary Clark Clifford follows a Senate Appropriations Committee suggestion, he will personally appear before the Supreme Court and urge the immediate cancellation of Douglas' dilatory "peacenik" stays.

Clifford was advised to take this extraordinary step at a closed-door meeting of the subcommittee.

"I hope you vigorously defend this matter, and get it set as a preference case," Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., ranking member of the committee, told Clifford. "You could do that yourself as the head of the Defense Department. I don't know of anything more devastating than such a direct appeal to the court. I urgently counsel you to seriously consider doing that."

Secretary Clifford disclosed that weighty consideration been given to seeking an emergency session of the court to overrule Douglas.

Secretary Clifford disclosed thatthat weighty consideration had been given to seeking an emergency session of the court to overrule Douglas.

"But after much thought," he told the committee, "we finally decided it would be better to wait until the court convenes on Oct. 7. I can assure you we intend to be there and to ask the justices to take up this matter as a question of first instance."

Proposition 1-A on the November ballot makes a lot of sense in contrast to the other "tax relief" measure — Proposition 9 (Watson Amendment).

Proposition 9 is more spectacular in that it seems to offer drastic tax cuts for property owners. What it fails to show is where the state will make up the loss in revenue from property tax. Will it be doubled income tax or tripled sales tax? No one knows.

Proposition 1-A is not nearly so drastic, and it is clear-cut. It will give the homeowner a tax relief of $70 this year. This will be financed out of existing state revenues, not from new sources like higher income taxes and higher sales taxes on which Proposition 9 must depend.

For awhile, Proposition 9 looked like a shoo-in. But with the less drastic Proposition 1-A as an alternate choice for voters, there's a good chance that the Watson Amendment will be defeated.

MARIN'S ASSESSMENT appeals board operates almost like a courtroom, with the chairman cutting off extraneous testimony such as repetitions and irrelevant facts to keep the cases moving.

But a couple of Fridays ago, the appeals board met its equal. A young lady from Belvedere appeared to protest the $59,000 market value placed on her home and property. She did most of the talking, and board members did most of the listening. After her dissertation, she got her property reduced to $58,000.

The young lady knew a thing or two about court procedure. She was Judge Janet Aitken of San Francisco Municipal Court.

YOU CAN EXPERIENCE the sensation of water skiing without getting anywhere near a bay or river, according to a safety official of the State Compensation Insurance Fund.

Just pick a rainy day and start up Highway 101 with the tire pressure about 16 pounds. At 35 or 40 miles per hour, you'll be off the ground, and riding on a film of water with no traction, just like water-skiing. Only difference is, a person on water skis follows the boat ahead. But you in your "hydroplaning car" can slide in any direction, and you have no choice in the matter.

More pressure in the tires means a little less chance of hydroplaning, but even with new treads and 32 pounds pressure, the tires will be off the pavement and "floating" on the water at 60 miles per hour.

A CIGARETTE -candy-newsstand will be located at the entrance to the new Hall of Justice, which will open in January or February. Other features in the new building: There will be faster elevators, more and wider stairways, more mail drops, and (officials hope) fewer roof leaks because of the new type of concrete used in the roofing.

Shh! Don't Breathe A Word About Secret Humphrey Vote

WASHINGTON—Despite all the polls that indicate Hubert Humphrey is doing very badly in the campaign, there is a belief in some circles he'll do much better in the election.

The explanation for this by some Democratic Party experts is that there is a secret Humphrey vote which hasn't been showing up in the polls.

One Humphrey campaign manager told me: "No one wants to admit he is going to vote for Humphrey. It isn't socially acceptable and when a pollster comes to the door, he automatically says he's going to vote for either Nixon or Wallace. But on Election Day when he's in the booth and no one is looking, he'll probably pull the lever for Humphrey."

"HOW LARGE do you think this secret Humphrey vote could be?"

"It will probably run into the millions. There are a lot of Americans who are unhappy with the choice of Wallace and Nixon, but they aren't speaking up in fear of losing their jobs or alienating their neighbors. No one wants to admit he's a Democrat, even if he's going to vote that way."

"But how do you know there's a secret Humphrey vote out there if the polls don't show it?"

"It's obvious. You never see a Humphrey bumper sticker, or anyone wearing a Humphrey button. People just don't want to declare themselves.

"THAT WOULD BE a switch," I said.

"It isn't that much of a switch. There are a lot of people in this country who are discontented and they feel a vote for Humphrey is their way of protesting against the system."

"But won't they be wasting their vote, if they go for the Democratic Party?"

"No, they won't. It will be their way of saying that they're sick and tired of Wallace and Nixon and somebody better listen to them. Besides, if this vote is as big as we think it is, Humphrey could force this thing into the House of Representatives and then they'd have to listen to him."

"THEN YOU SEE Humphrey's role as that of a spoiler?"

"No, I don't. Humphrey is sincere about wanting to be President of the United States. When he started out in Chicago, he might have thought of himself then as a spoiler. But the more he campaigns, the more he realizes that this country is ripe for someone like him to take over the White House. So he's in the race now to win. They laughed when Humphrey first announced he was getting into the race, but they aren't laughing any more."

"But if Humphrey got enough votes, wouldn't this be the end of the two-party system in this country?"

"It might be, but that isn't his concern. He feels it's about time the American people had a choice, and he doesn't see any difference between the policies of Wallace and Nixon."

"THEN YOU FEEL that on Nov. 5 a secret Humphrey vote could change the results radically, and that we're going to discover that there are far more Democrats in this country than we've been led to believe."

"I'm certain of it. Even in my own family, I haven't told my wife I'm going to vote for Humphrey, and she hasn't told me. We refuse to admit to each other that neither one of us is not a bigot."

Plans On Agenda In Rohnert Park

Planning matters and discussion with developers will come before the Rohnert Park City Council today at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Possible changes in the city's land use map will be considered with a representative of Sonoma State College outlining the school's long range building plans.

Developer Paul Golis will present plans for a mobile home park and development west of Country Club Drive, a town center on Commerce Boulevard, an equestrian park in the northeast section of the city and a movie theatre on College View Avenue.

Golis also will present plans for a convenience market and pharmacy on Southwest Boulevard which have been turned down twice before. Council members said they felt another market was not necessary.

Also discussed will be an ennexation agreement with lands south of East Cotati Avenue and an agreement with Sonoma State College for special golf course rates for students, faculty and staff.

Petaluma Agenda Includes Library

Petaluma City Council will consider annexation of 160 acres east of the city and possible merger of the city library with the Sonoma County Library at 7:30 p.m. in city hall.

The Sonoma County Local Agency Formation Commission has presented a resolution calling for the annexation of the acreage, which is between Ely Boulevard and McDowell Street on the eastern edge of the city.

Edna Bovett, head librarian and secretary to the library board of trustees, will request a meeting with the council to study merger with the county library. The union has been considered several times before without agreement.

Animal Control On Council List

An amendment to strengthen the Fairfax animal control ordinance will be considered by the city council at a meeting at 8 p.m. today in the Fairfax Women's Club.

The council asked for stricter controls after it heard reports of young children being attacked by dogs.

The council will also hear a report on proposed traffic control on Scenic Road. A preliminary report, presented last month, called for one-way traffic on Tamalpais Road from Scenic to Mountain View Road and drew criticism from people living in the area.

Property Rezoning On Planner List

The application of David Lavelle to rezone property at 29 Magnolia Avenue from central business to neighborhood apartment is scheduled to be considered by the San Anselmo Planning Commission at 8 p.m. at city hall.

An application to conduct a drama and dance school for young children on Saturdays at 176 Tunstead Avenue also is scheduled for consideration.

Chancellor Assigns Classroom For Cleaver

BERKELEY (AP) — University of California Chancellor Roger Heyns assigned a campus classroom last night for a noncredit, student - sponsored course, with Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver as the main lecturer.

The chancellor made it clear in his announcement that the use of a university room had been authorized "only for a student-sponsored noncredit program."

The Student Center for Participant Education, which initiated the course, announced shortly afterwards that Cleaver would deliver the first of 10 lectures in the course from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Tuesday in 155 Dwinelle Hall.

The center said, however, that "the struggle" for the course, Social Analysis 139X, is not yet over.

"We must continue to press for credit for the course," the center said, adding that its position "continues to be that Social Analysis 139X must be given on campus for credit as planned."

Student body president Charles Palmer echoed the need to press for credit for the course.

"We have gotten the bottom two-thirds of our goal, that is, on campus as planned. Now we must dedicate ourselves to achieving the last and most important third, that is for credit."

Palmer added, "We must also dedicate ourselves to the much larger question of racism in our university and in our society."

The faculty instructors in the course said the issue of credit could be "properly resolved only by the actions of the Academic Senate."

Thursday night, the Academic Senate passed a resolution directing "the committee on courses to take all steps to encourage course and credit status" for the lectures.

The center said that "without credit, they (the students) face overburdened schedules, the loss of work-study jobs, the loss of GI benefits and the draft."

Kentfield Wins Hookup Contest

The second annual Marin County Fire-O-Rama yesterday saw the Kentfield Fire Department defeat two other departments in a firetruck pumper hookup contest.

Kentfield Fire Chief Kenneth Kamp said his team laid and connected the required 150 feet of hose, then got water pumping from a ground pit in 1:26 minutes. Citrus Heights Fire Department in Sacramento County was second with a time of 1:29 minutes. Tamalpais Valley Fire Department was third at 1:53 minutes.

The contest was part of a variety of demonstrations at Redwood High School, Larkspur. More activities by Marin fire departments are scheduled throughout this week, Fire Prevention Week.

Opposition Is Voiced To 101-Bed Hospital

A proposed new 101-bed hospital in Santa Venetia ran up against opposition today from E. W. Bulllard Jr., representing the Marin County Health Facilities Planning Committee.

"Our contention is that we should proceed with the expansion of existing hospitals," declared Bullard at a hearing before the county zoning administrator, Thomas E. Cordill, at the Civic Center. Bullard said hospitals like Marin, Ross and Novato General have expansion plans, and these expansions would be less costly than building new, smaller facilities.

LBM Investment Management Co., headed by A. Bernard Muth of Orinda, wants to build a 101-bed hospital and 99-bed extended care facility on 17 acres of land on north San Pedro Road, just east of Rafael Convalescent Hospital.

David Rosenberg of San Rafael, who owns the property, agrued that the number of hospital beds per 1,000 population is lower than in surrounding counties.

Dr. Stephen A. Duff, San Rafael chiropractor, supported the proposed new hospital. He said he is "taken aback" to find restrictions being placed on private enterprise.

Cordill announced he would postpone a decision until he meets with the developers and representatives of the health facilities committee sometime this week to see what effect a new hospital will have on existing facilities.

Adams will make his director's monthly report and also report on the actions of the city council relating to the park.

Students Aim For Understanding

By GRACE HENDERSON

"Peace Through Understanding" is the theme of the American Field Service, and young people the world over endeavor to achieve this end. All who participate as exchange students between high schools in the United States and other lands are in their senior years and will be graduated next spring from high schools in a country other than their own.

Two such students are now attending Redwood High School and learning the customs of their adoptive families. Borghild Storaas from Norway is staying with the S. J. Weil family in Greenbrae, and Luiz de Oliveriera came from Brazil to live with the Nicholas Suntzeff family in Corte Madera.

Borghild, 18, says her Norwegian language has no word for dating but that teens in the two countries are very much alike. The average age for marriage is 22 for girls and 25 for boys, with an equal number of each enrolled in college in Norway. "I have a great time here and enjoy every single day," she said of her new life.

WEARING A COSTUME of her country, Borghild reflected the image of her land as we conversed in the women's department of the Independent-Journal. Her ankle length skirt was of light wool, all black with black trim at the hemline and finished with knife pleats at the waistband. Her silver brooch and bright red vest were designed to designate her home region, the fjords.

Borghild's traditional long white apron, hand embroidered by her grandmother, was combined with her white, long-sleeved blouse which also had hand embroidery on the cuffs. The borders on her vest were hand woven, as was the gusset, a tri-cornered piece worn in the front.

Her stockings were the traditional black and the costume was set off by black "clunky" shoes, very similar to the fall 1968 styles. However, her shoes were not purchased at a local bootery but are a part of the national cosume of Norway.

THE PERSONABLE BLONDE could not estimate the number of hours represented in making her costume. All hand work was done by her grandmother, aunts, friends and others who worked together to complete her outfit for her confirmation, a time when most Norwegian girls acquire the ensemble. It will be worn at celebrations and all national holidays and will serve as an identification of her home town.

What will Borghild do on her return to Norway? She will enroll in one of the two universities there and hopes to develop an interest in home economics or some other field. She plans to attend Bergen University in Bergen, Norway.

For entertainment Borghild finds football games exciting and enjoys going to the movies, the latter being influenced by "whether I want to talk or not." In speaking of sports and interests she observed "I like everything."

AS FOR SCENERY in the United States and more particularly in Marin County, she expressed fascination for the Golden Gate Bridge saying her country has nothing to equal its grace and beauty.

Borghild could be an outstanding teen-ager in any country and Marin is fortunate to have her and her counterparts for the 1968-69 school year. Her parents were enthusiastic about the AFS program thinking it to be the "best way of allowing me to go," explained Borghild. She has two younger brothers and one sister. Her father owns a general store.

She doesn't plan to be homesick saying, "There is too much to do and too much to learn to waste time being homesick. After all, a year isn't very long." And the outgoing Norwegian flashed her friendly smile as someone explained, "Borghild was one of 15 students chosen from the 3500 applicants in Norway this year."

LUIZ de OLIVERIERA, 17, a tall, lean blue-eyed lad, says the schools here in America are much better than in his native country of Brazil. Parents are more strict in all of his country and people do not grow up as fast. Teens in the United States are more concerned about important things, said the high school senior from Araraquara, Brazil.

Asked what his parents thought of his leaving home for a year, he said they favored the program and were happy for him to have the opportunity. His father is a lawyer and he has one sister and two brothers at their home about 2,000 miles inland.

Commenting on his two days in New York, and the east coast, Luiz stated the Pacific Ocean is much prettier than the Atlantic.

DO TEEN-AGERS WORK during the summer months in Brazil? "No" was the reply because to work is to admit being poor and that brings social stigma. As a result young people just live to enjoy themselves.

Boys begin dating at the age of 17 or 18 and then only ask girls out whom they have known at least six months. Everybody goes to the movies on Saturday evening because that is the traditional place to be, he said.

Luiz hopes to become a mathematician and will attend the University of San Pablo and may return to the United States some day.

Discussing the cost of living, Luiz said good jeans are much less expensive here but that shoes cost more than at home because of the abundance of good leather there. He also commented that boys do not wear their hair long in Brazil.

INTERESTED IN the operation being performed by L. H. Anderson, stereotyper in the press room of the Independent-Journal, are Mollie Squires of Greenbrae, left, Luiz de Oliveriera of Brazil and Borghild Storaas from Norway. All are connected with the American Field Service program. Mollie spent her summer in Thailand promoting "Peace Through Understanding" and Luiz and Borghild are attending Redwood High School where they will be graduated in June before returning to their homes. THE TEEN-AGERS' QUEST

Minority Spearheading Drive

Last of a series on the symposium "Uses of Freedom: The Teen-agers' Quest," just held by the University of California Medical Center.

By BARBARA HOSMER

The activist student minority is spearheading the drive for changes in a higher education system that is inadequate for the needs of young people today, asserted Dr. Joseph Katz of Stanford University.

Dr. Katz, who is associate director of the Institute for the Study of Human Problems at Stanford, told his audience that the college situation calls for radical changes. The vocal minority of activists are expressing the frustration of the majority of students who do not feel strongly challenged in their passive role in today's classrooms, he said.

He termed the creative activists as the students who are "the sparkplugs of the universities, the ones who keep them alive."

Dr. Katz, who made his studies from the situations at Stanford and University of California at Berkeley, characterized the activists as creative realizers who have come from homes that had an openness and respect for the child.

"They had a better model in their own homes and parents, and want their educational institutions to be as advanced. The generation gap doesn't hold here," he said.

The activists, who are humanitarian-minded and largely plan to go into the service professions, won't be a minority much longer, Dr. Katz predicted, as they are expressing the aspirations of a great many of their classmates.

IT IS THE students, not the faculty, who have taken the initiative toward reforms, he pointed out.

"The students are better experts about education than the faculty. Their expertise on a subject is not questioned, but about the educational process the faculty are not as knowledgeable as the students," he stated.

"The faculty haven't taken a look at what their students have actually learned and what they've retained, say, a year after."

Dr. Katz said that the educational system today is not too different than it was in 1830, despite the fact that more kinds of people are seeking different things in the university than ever before.

HE LISTED CHANGES he believes are needed:

1. Extension of the range of adult contact with the students — access to a much larger group of adults should be given. "Bring people in as auxiliary faculty and have the youth go out and have contact with them, such as a businessman interested in

DEAR HELEN:

At the age of 52, and having been married for 23 years, I fell for the flirting of a female half my age. This affair was an innocent one, with no promises. She made me feel young and renewed, and I thought our relationship a good one.

After 14 months of kindness, both give and take, she showed her true colors. She called my wife and exposed our affair; then, when I confronted her with this, she denied the call, though she implied I owed her my name. I broke off, telling her I had no intention of divorce, nor had I ever — and she knew it!

Then the phone calls started. My wife was harassed with untrue stories about how I was still seeing this woman and how I wanted my freedom but was afraid to ask. I went to her apartment for a showdown, but she finally convinced me she was not the caller. I guess I trusted her. She talked me into thinking my wife was just making up a good story, and she'd calm down after while, when she got over "menopause nerves." Meanwhile, "Why not drop by when things get too rough at home?"

I was a fool! The young lady soon took up with another "senior citizen" with more money, and I am sick at heart because my wife divorced me five months ago. After I had admitted that I'd been duped, why did she do that? — OLD AND ALONE

DEAR O. AND A.:

Because she has a wife's attitude toward an "innocent affair" and she may finally have faced the truth: You'll try it again. A dope who enjoys being duped shouldn't be surprised when he's dumped.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband feels a marriage not based on honesty will falter. But how can I be honest when guilt was stamped so clearly on my mind?

You see, my husband and I put our wedding date up three months because I was pregnant. My mother, whom I love dearly, thought I had disgraced the whole family and she made me lie about my due-date. I had to say the baby was born prematurely. I hid my condition when I wanted to be proud of it. This irked my husband, but he went along with it.

Three children later, we are still a very happy couple. I'd almost forgotten my early shame when our oldest son asked me how long we'd been married. I said nine years at the same time my husband said eight. (The boy is seven and one-half.) He didn't catch it, but that began a long argument after the children were in bed.

I am accused of being under a puritanical mother's thumb and afraid to level with the children, who may find out on their own anyway. I feel society still condemns the pregnant bride and why stir up old guilts? Besides, how can I teach our daughters right from wrong when they know their mother did wrong? Which of us is right? —CONFUSED

DEAR CON:

Your husband is right. Society doesn't condemn "premature parents" nowadays, though it recognizes the hardships they bring on themselves. Your daughters may learn more from your mistake than they would ever gain from Puritanical lectures. Be honest now, wouldn't forthright sex discussions have help you?—H.

Personal to "They're All Alike to Old Don Juan" — Down, Juan! Your "broad" outlook will get your ears pinned back. Not all gals are that eager.—H.

Experts Will Talk

Twelve University of California experts in nutrition, medicine, agricultural economics, sociology and allied fields will take part in a series of six evening lecture programs presented by U.C. Extension to assess current research and social concerns related to America's diet and food production.

The series, titled "We Are What We Eat," will be offered Wednesdays from 7:30 to 10 p.m., starting Wednesday and ending Nov. 13, in room 101 Morgan Hall at the Berkeley campus. Enrollees who wish to earn two units of credit may take an optional credit course in addition to the lectures.

Sheldon Margen, professor of human nutrition, and Doris Calloway, professor of nutrition, will open the program Oct. 9 with a discussion of dietary requirements and nutritional needs. Later topics will include food processing, synthetic foods and new sources of protein, diet and pregnancy, diet and physical and mental development, diet and cardiovascular disease, the well-fed baby, cultural aspects of food intake and the problems of hunger and obtained by calling U.C. Extension.

Plaid Fabrics

Buy plaid fabrics from the bolt, rather than from small samples, so that size, dominant colors and horizontal or vertical dominance can be spotted.

Fred Walker of the Langley Porter Children's Department; the Rev. John J. O'Connor, director of Catholic Social Service; one high school student; and one college student. The bride-elect is the sister of Mrs. James A. Whitson and Roy and Theodore Phillips, all of Billings. She is a graduate of Billings High School and of Montana State University.

The future bridegroom's sisters are Mrs. Douglas Green of Spokane, Wash. and Eleanor Watkins of Belvedere. He is the grandson of Mrs. John Merle Davis of San Francisco.

Bob was graduated from Tamalpais High School and Stanford University and received his M.D. degree from Baylor University College of Medicine at Houston, Tex. He is beginning his residency in orthopedics at the University of Washington College of Medicine this fall.

The couple will be married Dec. 27 in Seattle.

New Hair Dryer

A new hair dryer is aimed for the teen-set with its humorous "bug" with wide eyelashes cover design and enough room beneath for the teen-ager to dry her hair and carry on that everlasting telephone conversation also. The dryer works like a professional one with hot, warm and cool settings; salon sized, it will take in even jumbo roller sets. No drying net is necessary.

Changes In Higher Education Instigated By Minority

youth having a group to his home," he suggested. Use adults as "models and mentors." Relate the whole society to the work in the classroom.

2. A fundamental restructuring of the subject matter, with less emphasis on book learning. "The assumption that people learn by reading is a preposterous notion. For example, child psychology can't be learned from a book — rather expose the students to children in schools and on the playground." Students should participate in curriculum planning.

"The four year college concept is absurd today — it may take two, four or eight years for different people to learn." Also learning four or five subjects at once may be unreasonable, Dr. Katz said. Some learn one at a time best or five at a time. "This ought to be determined by a student's needs and varies with the years. What's best in his freshman year may not be best for him as a junior."

3. A whole change in the meaning of college work. A grade point average or degree is often looked at as a passport to prestige, Dr. Katz stated. "Actually students want to do work that is useful to other people, to create a product that makes them and other people happy."

He pointed out that student years are a high energy time and yet students are expected to sit still most of the time. He suggested that they might be pumped into secondary and primary schools to help overburdened teachers, for example.

Also, he said that students today want to be in charge of what they are doing, yet they have little say even in their dormitory arrangements. "They want to exercise their own creativity and independence in their own lives."

4. Less neglect of the education of young women in college. "Generally we act as if we are educating only one sex. It's discouraging to college women to see that purveyors of education — the faculty — are all men. Sophomore slump and senior panic may be traced to this phenomenon."

Dr. Katz concluded from his studies that the student years are a time of life when "we could use the potential energies of the student to create and renew society."

BOTH LUIZ AND Borgchild have been away from home two months. At the conclusion of there schooling they will meet each other AFS students for a three-week bus trip across the United States, going east. Students who spend the year on the eastern seaboard will come west for their trip.

THE THIRD MEMBER of the panel interviewed was Mollie Squires, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Robert Squires of Greenbrae, who spent the summer months in Samrong, Thailand. She flew to her destination and was one of 15 students there. She attended classes and became acquainted with both the people and the country.

"No one will ever starve to death in Thailand," she said, telling about how each piece of ground was pointed to with pride and the statement made, "There is more land on which to grow rice for our people."

Schooling has taken great steps in advancement the past few years and is readily available in all part of Thailand now, she said. Boys and girls are separated for classes and, if together in a room, are seated with the boys in the back rows and the girls at the front of the room. Dating begins at about 20 or 21 years of age, she said.

MOLLIE'S TRIP was a part of the summer program of AFS which involves young people between their junior and senior years in high school. It is a personal experience based on "Peace Through Understanding" with people walking together, talking together, to bring about a better world, she reported.

Mrs. Squires, also interested in the AFS program, is president of the Redwood High School Exchange Club.

Exchange Committee Elects Mr. And Mrs. Leland Bright

A husband and wife team, the parents of three sons age 12 to 20, are leading the adult International Student Exchange Committee at Terra Linda High School this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland S. Bright of San Rafael state, "The purpose of the organization is to promote a better understanding between the United States and other nations through student exchange programs. American Field Service students from other nations come to live in local homes for a year and have the opportunity of learning first-hand our customs, ideals, interests and problems. They share a knowledge of their own backgrounds with American families and friends.

"Our Terra Linda High ambassadors, through the Experiment in International Living summer program, experience much the same thing in the countries they visit. When they return they, too, share their impressions and experiences with the community which has financially supported their trips."

Under the Brights' leadership, the committee has held a community "Welcome Picnic" honoring three foreign students who have arrived for a year's study at Terra Linda High. A fund-raising appeal was made Sept. 30, when over 200 Trojans and 50 adult volunteers participated in a door-to-door drive in the Gallinas Valley. The committee also works year-round in reviewing applications of prospective "exchangers," seeking and selecting homes for foreign students and aiding the campus International Friendship Club.

Betty and Lee Bright, four-year residents of Marin County, are natives of San Francisco and Omaha, Neb. Lee, a graduate of American Institute of Banking in the city, is now assistant vice president of Insurance and Securities, Inc. there. Betty attended University of Nebraska and is a part-time elementary school secretary.

Camping and hiking are the activities they most like to share with their sons, Lee III, a junior at the University of California at Santa Barbara; Bill, a sophomore at Terra Linda High; and Barton, a seventh grader at Miller Creek School.

With three sons, the scouting program has been an integral part of their lives. Mr. Bright currently serves as scoutmaster of Marinwood Troop 74.

Assisting them in their work for international understanding are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Horvath, vice chairmen; Mrs. Lynn Parker, secretary; Mrs. Clifford Campbell, treasurer; Messrs. and Mesdames Richard DeKay and David Pfeiffer, student and home selection chairman; Henry Aubel, fund drive chairmen: Howard Council and John King, hospitality; Mesdames Gibson Crawford and Terence Grew, publicity; and Messrs. Scott Hayes and Ken Oldham, faculty representatives.

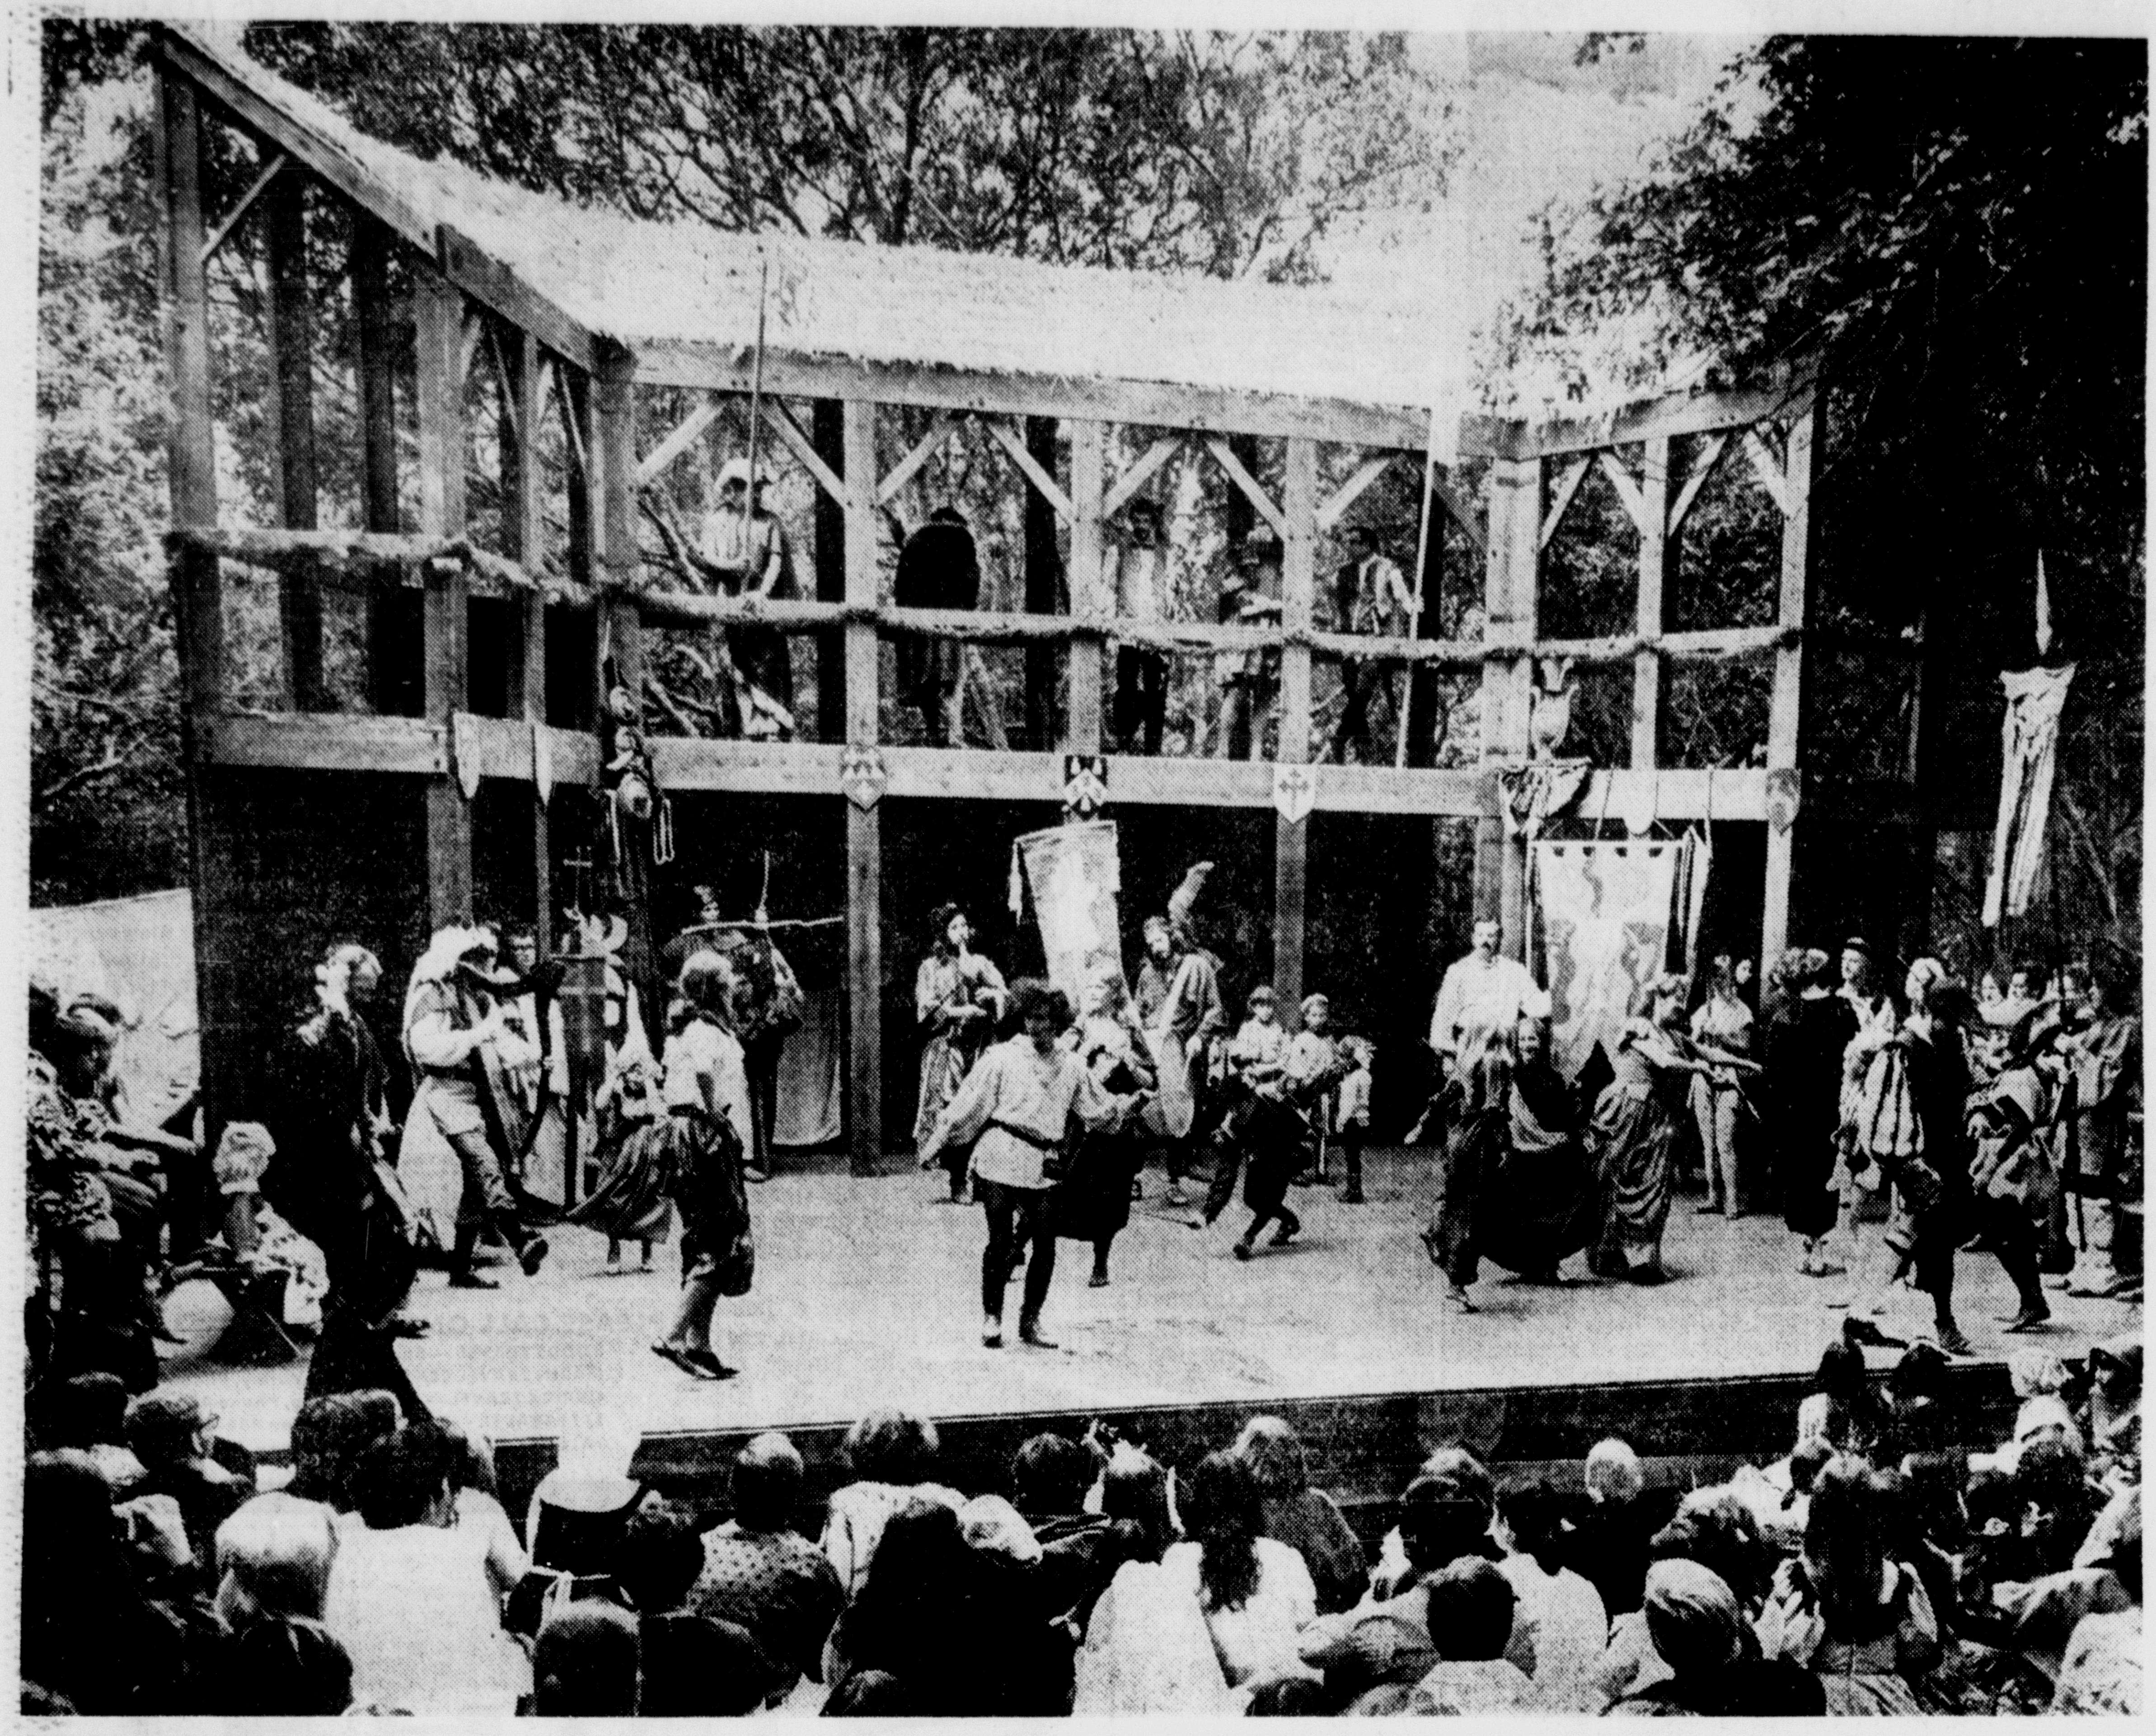
Pleasures Of The Past Revived At Renaissance Faire



A SWINGING OPENING — After a parade to Greenwood Saturday the Renaissance Pleasure Faire opened at the Greenwood Theater in a wooded area off North San Pedro Road east of Santa Venetia. Tradesmen of the realm danced during the Guildmaster's Day festivities. The Pleasure Faire will continue next Saturday and Sunday and Oct. 19 and 20. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

Authenticity Is Stressed By Faire's Co-Creator

By DAVID DIETZ

The host of the television show was asking the role of each costumed participant and encountered a young woman with a protruding stomach.

"Is that genuine or is that part of the costume?" the host inquired.

"Oh, it's genuine," the woman said brightly.

"At the faire, we insist on authenticity," Patterson said.

And so it is. The Renaissance Pleasure Faire, which opened this weekend at a woodsy retreat off North San Pedro Road, meticulously recreates the atmosphere of Old Engish entertainment.

"In the pleasure faires of Medieval and Renaissance England," the faire program says, "traveling merchants, minstrels and mummers met buyers and revelers in annual festive mood at crossroads or in green fields.

"In these brief but rich remembered days," the program continued, "mirth as well as merchandise was traded."

This is the spirit which Patterson; his wife, Phyllis, co-creator, and their troupe have tried to revive on several acres of land a mile west of the Civic Center.

The festival has returned to Marin County for the second year and joins a Renaissance Pleasure Faire conducted by the Pattersons in the Los Angeles area each spring. The Marin event benefits Berkeley educational radio KPFA and a future Renaissance Art Center and faire site in the Bay Area.

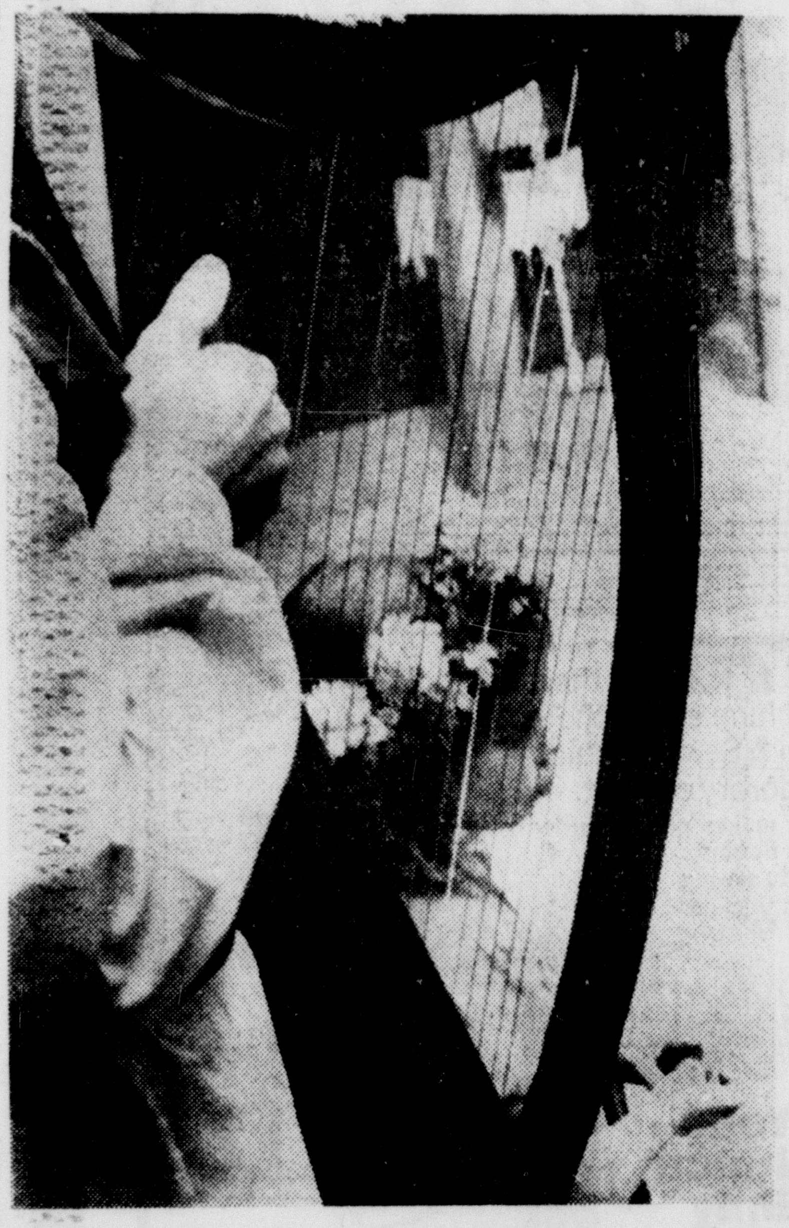
A network of trails takes visitors past bucolic stalls from which food, and grog and items such as jewelry, tapestries, candles, art and leather goods are sold.

Many of the thousands of visitors who attended the opening weekend of the faire (it will continue Saturday and Sunday and Oct. 19 and 20 from 11 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.) joined the performers in costume. The faire producers will even provide instructions on how to make clothing worn in 16th Century England.

Modern dress is not scorned, although certainly misplaced. Some visitors were seen in suit and tie, while one youth was wearing a jacket which read on the back: "McCoy Bite Rite Racing Tires, Modesto."

There are other discordant features, but they are somehow accepted as part of the action. A man was dispensing Phil Drath for Congress bumper stickers at the faire entrance and, inside, a woman wearing a sandwich board was soliciting for the Biafra Relief Fund.

And among the faire's costumed minstrels, jugglers, mummers and jesters and the continuous dance and song at the Greenwood Theater and the jousts and parades, uniformed Marin County firemen and Burns detectives walk, their faces grim and disinterested.



IN THE WINGS — Behind the strings of a harp stands a flower girl waiting her cue to join the dancing.

MEDIEVAL BEAUTY — The costumes of old England lent an air of authenticity to the faire and enhanced the physical attributes of the fair maidens.

ART REVIEW

College Faculty Scores A Smash In New Show

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Not that there was anything wrong with the first one. There wasn't. It's just that walking into this one you're immediately hit by its sense of impact and importance.

It's a much leaner show with faculty members represented by fewer, stronger pieces, the biggest and most powerful of which are placed sparsely around the gallery perimeter. These are the first things you see and it's this arrangment which gives the show its impact.

While most insistent of all are the stark shapes of Gwen Stone's green and blue scalloped wall relief and the pure white expanses of Marc Pessin's paintings banded with directional lines of graduated color.

Turning inward from this striking area is a central maze of panels where the smaller, quieter or representational works have more intimate space assigned to them.

Here, they aren't forced to compete with the larger, more strident pieces. And here, in niches, glass cases or in quiet groupings, are many absorbing examples of ceramics, weaving, jewelry, photography, small paintings and sculpture.

In all, this year's faculty show is put together for the maximum benefit of both viewer and artist. As much as any group show can, this one provides equal opportunity for each exhibitor, regardless of subtlty or style, to display his competence and to express his individuality. The arrangment makes for a very enlightening and enjoyable one.

OPERA REVIEW

Triple Bill Offers Adventure Into The 20th Century Music

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO — Music lovers who think of opera as stuffy and decadent and of San Francisco Opera productions as lacking adventurous spirit must have been delighted with Saturday night's triple bill of one-act modern works in debut performances at the San Francisco Opera House.

But opera buffs who favor traditional fare must have wondered if they knew what opera is. All three works were 20th Century attempts to take a new approach to the operatic form.

The first, the American premiere of "Royal Palace" with Kurt Weill's distrinctive jazzy and atonal music and German text, was performed in dance-drama version by Gunther Schuller, who conducted all three operas with tremendous dynamic impact. But opera? To us "Royal Palace" was ballet with vocal accompaniment.

The second work, the San Francisco Opera debut of Schoenberg's expressionistic, atonal "Ewartung" was indeed opera, if one can so define a virtuoso performance by just one singer—Marie Collier — but the third work, the American stage premiere of Milhaud's polytonal "Christopher Columbus" seemed to be more of a spectacular pageant and morality epic.

Of the three operas, which were a major effort of the 1968 season, Adolf Rott's production of "Christopher Columbus" was not appealing on many levels with many characters, 100-voice double choir used like a Greek chorus and 15 scenes in which designers Skalicki and West achieved amazing phantasmagorical effects with many slide or moving film projections on backdrop and scrim.

In this work nine men made American debuts, but all except Herbert Beattie were in roles too brief to permit judgment of their capacity. William Wildermann as the explicator and Beattie as the prosecuter were heard only in speaking roles but added greatly to understanding through their powerful and precise English diction.

Only Thomas Tipton as Christopher Columbus I had a major singing role, in which he was magnificent. Alan Monk as Christopher Columbus II could not be heard much of the time — partly because of too loud orchestral playing and choral singing. The chorus was electrifying in climaxes.

As Queen Isabella, soprano Carol Todd had the only important female role and sang it beautifully.

The vocal triumph of the evening was that of dramatic soprano Marie Collier, whose vocal power and dramatic resources in negotiating the jagged vocal line in the atonal shocker "Ewartung" were incredible. The nightmarish mood was greatly enhanced by Paul Hager's production and Aeberli's and West's huge convoluted metalic mazes reminscent of contemporary abstract sculpture.

They were perfect objectifications of a women's crazed mental state as she returned to the scene of the murder of her lover, the interpretation which seemed most logical to us.

Projections of abstract art-like forms and symbolic line drawings of human faces were effectively used by Skalicki in "Royal Palace," which as noted above, was just ballet and pantomime since the singers never even appeared on stage.

With her graceful but tautly disciplined body Charlene Mehl was just about the whole show in the choreography for some 18 dancers created by Alan Johnson, though there was a memorable routine with one male dancer. For us Weill's music was the main attraction.

Film Industry Adopts New Rating System

NEW YORK (AP)—The movie industry, for the first time in its history, has adopted a film rating system which will restrict admission to some movies it considers unsuitable for young people.

The ratings are to be enforced voluntarily by individual theater managers.

The classification program goes into effect Nov. 1, when films will be rated in four categories:

G—for general audiences;

M—for mature audiences (adults);

R—young people will not be admitted unless accompanied by a parent or an adult guardian;

X—young people will not be admitted.

The minimum age is generally accepted as 17 under the plan, but may vary between 16 and 18 according to individual states and cities.

Details of the plan, which has been in the works for several months, were announced today by Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, along with Julian Rifkin, president of the National Association of Theater Owners, and Munio Podhorzer, a member of the governing committee of the International Film Importers and Distributors of America.

Two years ago, the industry rewrote its production guidelines, the Production Code, which had been in effect with minor changes since 1930. The new code recognized the growing liberal trend in film subjects and gave filmmakers more leeway in treating sex, sin and violence. It also gave production code officials the power to label certain films "suggested for mature audiences." But it did not otherwise classify films.

The new rating system was born a good deal out of fear that the government at some level would step in to legislate films because of the growing conern for the increase in sex and violence in movies of recent years.

A number of cities throughout the country have prepared local classification laws and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, often has suggested a Senate study of the possibility of federal film classification.

Annual Blessing Of Fishing Fleet

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco's fishing fleet was blessed by a Roman Catholic priest at Fisherman's Wharf yesterday in a ceremony brought from Sicily 33 years ago.

Father Joseph Costanzo sprinkled holy water on the fishing boats and prayed to the Blessed Mother for abundance and protection.

The observance perpetuated a ceremony originated in the middle ages in Porticiello, Sicily. It was there that the Madonna del Lume is said to have performed the first of many miracles which saved the lives of imperiled fishermen.

Board Wants State In On Oil Discussion

The State Land Commission has been asked to send a representative to discuss the commission's proposal to allow oil and gas drilling in San Pablo Bay to a hearing at 1:45 p.m. tomorrow before the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Officials from Sonoma, Contra Costa and Solano counties have also been invited to the meeting. Last week the Marin supervisors were warned by the Marin Conservation League and the Bay Conservation and Development Commission that the drilling could result in dotting the bay with 234 platforms for wells.

Also on the supervisors' afternoon agenda are discussions of pedestrian safety on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Greenbrae and a request by George Kappas to add fill to raise his levees in Richardson Bay.

The supervisors will hold a workshop session on law enforcement and public safety at 9 a.m. in room 400-B of the Civic Center. They will meet with Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, fire officials, court clerks, District Attorney Bruce B. Bales, and probation and communications officials.

At 10:30 a.m. the supervisors will reconvene in their chambers for the regular agenda.

Jesuits Backing Punished Priests In Birth Feuding

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fifteen Jesuit priests at Georgetown University have sided with Washington-area Catholic priests punished by Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle for dissenting from Pope Paul's encyclical on birth control

The Jesuits said in a statement issued yesterday they agree with the dissenting priests that under certain circumstances Catholic couples may be guided by their consciences on using artificial birth control methods.

Bishops throughout the world have take a different view on the Pope's encyclical, the Jesuits' statement said, and Cardinal O'Boyle's refusal to accept any other "creates a serious problem" in the Archdiocese of Washington.

Historic Cruise Of Bay Slated

A cruise of San Francisco Bay, with emphasis on historic points, will be held from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Oct. 13, sponsored by the California Historical Society.

The cruise will leave from Pier 43½, Fisherman's Wharf, and lunch will be at the Corinthian Yacht Club.

Reservations may be made with the society, 2090 Jackson Street, San Francisco.

Achievers Seek Place To Meet

Sponsors and a meeting place for return of the Junior Achievement program to Marin are being sought, according to Denman K. McNear of Mill Valley, Bay Area president of the program. The program seeks to give young people an insight into business methods.

About 100 students in the county have signed up for this year's program, according to McNear. The teen-agers will set up their own companies, elect officers, handle production, pay wages, sell merchandise and pay dividends on stock they have sold.

Since the San Rafael Recreation Center is no longer available as a meeting place, another building is being sought.

Pacafic Gas and Electric Co., Fairchild Semiconductor, Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. and Northwestern Pacific Railroad are current sponsors, but more are being sought, McNear said.

Sponsors contribute money and four advisers each to teach management, production, accounting and sales.

Companies willing to sponsor the program and persons knowing of a meeting place are asked to contact McNear or C. E. Neal of San Rafael.

Not Humiliation To Lose Two, Says McLain

By MILTON RICHMAN

DETROIT (UPI)—If he knew how to cry, Denny McLain said he would. He looked like he meant it, too.

"I can't ever remember crying in my life," said Detroit's slightly tarnished golden boy. "I don't know how. I think if I could, I would."

When newsmen first were permitted into Detroit's depressed dressing quarters after yesterday's 10-1 embarrassment by the high-riding St. Louis Cardinals, Denny McLain, who had been cuffed for four runs and six hits in 2 2-3 innings, was in a position that seemed to personify all the Tigers.

He tried to make light talk but it didn't quite come off.

"It's the worst World Series I've ever played in," said the puckish, 24-year-old pitching ace of the Tigers' staff.

There was an awkward silence for maybe a moment or two and then came the questions. McLain made a masterful attempt to answer every last one.

"No," he said reflectively, "I wouldn't call what happened to me a humiliation. There are a few guys who lost two games before. Didn't Koufax? And how about Whitey Ford?"

Sandy Koufax did lose two games but not in the same World Series. McLain was right about Ford, though. The former Yankee lefty dropped two series games to Koufax in 1963.

"Is your shoulder hurting?" They asked McLain.

"Yes," he said, simply.

"How much?"

"Enough," he answered.

"Did it hurt you going in today?"

"Yes."

"Have you been getting treatment for it the past three days?"

"Yes. I hurt it again in Baltimore before the end of the season."

"Are you going to the doctor again for it tomorrow morning?"

"Yes," said McLain. "I've been taking X-ray treatments for it. I've had my limit of that. They may shoot it now."

"You mean with cortisone?"

"Yes."

"You know some people may consider this an alibi, don't you?"

"I know," said McLain. "I hope they don't think it's an alibi. I pitched 340 damn innings so I don't see how they can consider it an alibi."

Then there were some more questions about the game itself.

"What was your reaction to Brock opening with a homer on the second pitch of the ball game?"

"How about the rain? Did that bother you?"

"Uh, uh. The conditions were the same for both clubs. I guess that was evident. I wish we never played though."

"Do you think this will hurt you, after the great season you had?"

"You mean financially?" McLain wanted to know.

"All it hurts is my pride," he said, without even waiting for the answer. "It can't cost me one dime financially. I'm booked solid all winter."

JIM GILMARTIN

A Moral Vistory At The Goal Line

MONDAY MUSINGS:

I really didn't expect the 49ers to beat the Rams yesterday but, sheesh, it was one of those frustrating "what-might-have-been" games. They COULD have.

The Niners committed rules infractions at the damnedest times, but they really blew the duke, I thought, by going for a field goal from 18 inches out rather than gutting it out for a game-tying touchdown in the third quarter.

That moral victory at the goal line was all the vaunted Ram defense needed to sew it up. Had the 49ers tied it up the momentum may have inspired them to greater things and forced the Rams to panic a bit.

I thought the Niner offensive line did a fair to middlin' job of toughing it out against the Rams' "Fearsome Foursome." Quarterback John Brodie was dumped for losses only three times while attemtpting to pass, a low mark for the L.A. pass rushers. After Brodie was hurt, George Mira was dumped twice, but it was late in the game and Georgie Porgie was colder than yesterday's mashed potatoes.

A Dandy Outlook In The Line

Rookie tackle Cas Banaszek and sophomore guard Elmer Collett give the S.F. offensive line a "youth movement" look that could develop into a dandy.

The television director did an outstanding job showing the interior linemen at their brutal tasks. The stop-action camera work proved Mill Valleyan Collett and Banaszek handled themselves well. I hope the TV people give us more of that coverage.

End Clifton McNeil continues to look like the Niners' best deal since the wheel. Picked up from Cleveland earlier this season, McNeil grabbed seven more passes yesterday and at present has the hottest pair of hands in the NFL. It looks like he's for real and not just a shot in the dark as some critics suggested earlier.

m

Things Won't Get Any Easier

Well, anyway, it was a tough loss but things won't get easier, at least for the next four Sundays when the Niners must face Baltimore (4-0), New York (4-0), Detroit (2-2) and Cleveland (2-2).

Not what you could call a breather in sight until Nov 24 against Pittsburgh and Dec. 15 against Atlanta. It may be a cold winter.

Meanwhile, over on the other channel yesterday was the greatest mismatch since Little Big Horn, a soap box (world) series titled "A Man For All Seasons" starring Bob Gibson of St. Louis. After he mesmerized the Detroit Tigers in 80 degree heat at St. Looie last Wednesday, ol' Hoot Gibson proved nearly as effective in the cold and wet at Detroit yesterday. The rain was mainly on McLain. (I've got it, by George, I think I've got it! Maybe the Tigers should throw in the towel.

And, if you want to ruin your whole winter, just think: The Giants have to play those dynamic Cards all next season. Pleasant dreams.

Brundage Reelection Issue To Come Up At IOC Meet

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Avery Brundage, sharply opposed by Russia, will stand for re-election or yield the presidency of the International Olympic Committee within the next few days.

Brundage, 81-year-old Chicago millionaire who has held the world's key post of amateur athletics since 1952, hadn't declared his intentions as the full, 72-member IOC began a session today.

But, then neither had any potential rival for the prestige-laden job which is pretty expensive for the average amateur sport addict. Brundage has been whizzing around the world and presiding in plush hotels for 16 years on his own tab.

Two possible candidates mentioned are count Jean de Beaumont of France and Giulio Onesti of Italy. Beaumont, 63, is a wealthy banker and presi of the French Olympic Committee. Onesti already has made a power play on the Olympic scene as president of the Italian Olympic Committee.

Onesti last week was unanimously elected president of the newly-formed permanent asembly of National Olympic Committees, a mildly dissident group to the IOC. At that time, Onesti, a Rome lawyer, said he lacked the wealth to shoot for the IOC presidency.

Pertinent to the presidential election—one of 56 items listed on the IOC's agenda continuing until Saturday's start of the 19th Olympiad—a Russian official took a verbal poke at Brundage in a pre-IOC convention interview.

Sergue Povlov, Russia's secretary of sports, suggested that Brundage retire, but like all critics of the Olympic partiarch, he dodged naming a specific candidate.

Asked who would be an ideal successor to Brundage, Povlov said the name didn't matter, that the main thing is "to correct mistakes and strive for a fraternal relationship within the IOC."

Povlov blamed Brundage for absence of many important countries from IOC membership; for IOC acts of discrimination in such cases as North Korea and East Germany, and for not including such sports as basketball and rowing for women on the Olympic program.

Although the presidential election is listed 10th on the agenda, the written nominations with election the following day could come at once or later in the week.

Novato Gridders Top Tam

Hornets' Running Does It

By GARY TISCHLER

The senior Tamalpais signal caller, after a slow start, rolled up 170 yards and hit on 12 of 21 passes for two touchdowns to easily outduel Novato quarterback Russ Dillon, but the Hornet runners buzzed all over a leaky Tamalpais defense to roll to a 26-18 Marin County Athletic League victory that wasn't decided until the final period.

The Hornets probably could have used the waterboy at quarterback the way the backs were running off tackle in great big spurts. Greg Davenport, big fullback Tom Zechlin and halfback Pat Greene did all the damage, with Davenport scoring twice on runs of 11 and 33 yards and Green adding eight points to his league-leading total.

Davenport chewed up 146 yards in nine carries to outshine Tam halfback Luther Brown, but not by much.

Mackin got the Indians off to a quick start when he hit Ron Small with a 30-yard touchdown pass on a third-and-one play for a 6-0 lead in the first quarter.

The Hornets came back in easy fashion with only referee's flags getting in the way. Davenport lugged in the tying TD on an 11-yard run, then Dillon hit Zechlin with a 10-yard TD flat pass for the go-ahead TD at the half, 12-6.

The Hornets couldn't quite get rid of the Indians, as Mackin connected again with Small in the third period on a 20-yard TD toss to tie it at 12-12.

But the Hornets, threatening to blow the game up all day, finally did it in the final period as Davenport climaxed one drive with a brilliant 33-yard shot and Greene scored on a 20-yard fake and burst, adding conversion kicks on both scores to put it out of reach.

It was a clash of high-powered unbeatens but the title-hungry Hornets had a little too much defense in a the long afternoon of crisp hitting.

SECOND HALF FIREWORKS

Raiders' Big Rally Does It

Nance, the Patriots' fullback who led the American Football League in rushing the last two seasons, missed the game with an ankle injury while the Patriots fell to the Oakland Raiders, 41-10 before 44,253 fans.

JUST 48 YARDS

Without Nance, the Patriots, now 2-2, gained only 48 yards on the ground. He may be ready for Boston's game at home against Houston next Sunday, says Patriot Coach Mike Holovak.

Oakland, 4-0 for the year and on a 14-game AFL winning streak, not counting the Super Bowl loss to Green Bay, will be tested at home against San Diego.

The Patriots scared Oakland by taking a 10-7 halftime lead on Gene Thomas' four-yard field goal. Oakland's second quarter score came on Daryle Lamonica's nine-yard pass to Warren Wells.

'ROOF FELL IN'

Wells went 41 yards on an end-around play for a score. Hewritt Dixon took a 17-yard scoring pass from Lamonica, and Fred Biletnikoff recovered Charlie Smith's fumble after a short pass from Lamonica and scampered seven yards for a score — all in the third quarter.

"Wells' run broke the ice," said Rauch. "This is the first time we used the play this year and I think we only used it twice last year."

PENALTIES

Both teams were penalized heavily and the penalties were balanced, except for Dixon's touchdown, set up by consecutive roughing the passer and pass interference penalties.

Oakland was penalized seven times for 138 yards and Boston, 11 times for 104 yards. Neither coach would comment about the officiating but Holovak said the play of his defensive secondary "had nothing to do with pass interference calls."

"Penalties held us back more than anything" in the first half, said Raunch. "And we dropped some third-down passes."

Lamonica said he was bothered by poor footing in the first half as he overshot his receivers. It was the first football game on the Coliseum turf after the baseball season ended.

GAME BALLS

Game balls went to defensive end Ben Davidson, who kept pressure on Patriot quarterback Mike Taliaferro, and to Biletnikoff, who drew two pass interference penalties by Boston defenders and caught six passes for 107 yards.

Dixon twisted his knee going for a pass and Billy Cannon was hit in the ankle, but neither is expected to miss the San Diego game.

Tars Lose To Sierra

By KIMO CAMPBELL

There is an old coaching cliche about teams that "look good on paper" — they don't always look as good on the field. The College of Marin Tars aften looked good on the field last Saturday afternoon against Sierra College in Rocklin, but hardly looked good on the scoreboard: Sierra 21, Marin 8.

The Tars saw their 11-game unbeaten string, longest in school history, go down the drain in a shower of mistakes. Missed blocks, interceptions, crucial penalties, they all entered in. Sierra looked like a good team playing at about 90 per cent of its ability, and Marin like a better one playing at perhaps 50 per cent of its own.

AN EDGE

Marin had a 23-13 edge in first downs and a 403-246 bulge in total offense, but coach Dick Read would rather have points on the board. The statistics indicate that Marin was able to move the ball, and that the Tar defense did a creditable job on the Wolverines' potent offense, masterminded by rifle-armed Ivan Lippi. They do not show how Marin ended up with just a single touchdown. The answer lies in the fact that Marin moved best outside the Sierra 25. Whenever a score seemed likely, the Tars bogged down.

In the first period, neither team could score, although Sierra caused some excitement with a 39-yard pass to Bill Gieck. As the second quarter began, Lippi hit tight end Tom Banducci twice in a row and then threw to flanker Bob Polly for the score from 25 yards out. Another Lippi toss, to Rocky Williams, made the count 8-0 Sierra after three minutes of the second quarter.

ROAR BACK

The Tars took the ensuing kickoff and roared back, Kevin Wilson passing to Keith Stirling for 47 yards and to Bob Bahlman for 25, the second setting up a first-and-goal situation at the Sierra eight. But the Mariners could not gain from there, and Bill Hickerson's fourth-down field-goal try was wide, after a Wilson-Tim Garvin TD pass was called back for holding.

Unable to gain on its next series, Sierra punted, and Garvin took the kick back 29 yards, setting up Stirling's 12-yard touchdown sweep two plays later. Wilson hit Bahlman for the tying two-point conversion.

INTERCEPTION

On its next series, Marin was moving when Wilson's pass was tipped by a Wolverine lineman and tackle Steve Rogers picked it off. On the first play, Lippi threw to Gieck for the touchdown. The pass-attempt PAT was no good. Marin then marched to a first down at the Sierra 29, from which point four passes fell incomplete to end the half on a frustrating note.

Marin had a first down at the Wolverine 27 in the third quarter, but a Wilson pass was picked off to halt the threat. Sierra then made its best drive of the afternoon, 49 yards in 10 plays, with fullback Bon Harper scoring on a tackle-dragging 12-yarder. The PAT was good.

Rams Hold Back 49er Offense

LOS ANGELES (AP) — San Francisco's ball, first down and goal to go from the two. Third quarter, Los Angeles leads 14-7.

Ken Willard hits the line. Maxie Baughan, Ed Meador and Irv Cross pile him up. No gain. Willard is shaken up and leaves the game.

FIELD GOAL

Rams still lead 14-10 and go on to beat their National League rivals 24-10. Coach George Allen of the winners rates that goal line stand the turning point of the game.

Coach Dick Nolan of San Francisco says there was never any doubt in his mind that the 49ers had to go for the field goal.

"We weren't making anything going into the line and there was plenty of time left for us to score again," declared Nolan.

'GREAT EFFORT'

Allen commented, "The 49ers have big backs and a big line so the stand had to be a great effort."

Next Sunday both draw rugged assignments with undefeated Baltimore (4-0) invading San Francisco (2-2) and the Rams

Miami Surprises Houston Oilers

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The end may be just around the corner for the Houston Oilers but it probably won't be anything like the end around that did in the Boston Patriots yesterday.

The Oilers, defending champs in the American Football League's Eastern division, were stunned by Miami 24-7 and fell into a last-place tie with Buffalo. Both have 1-4 records.

Meanwhile, Boston held a 10-7 halftime lead over the AFL champion Oakland Raiders. But a 41-yard end around by Warren Wells gave Oakland the lead in the third period and when the fireworks were over the Raiders had a 41-10 triumph, their 14th straight, equaling the league record.

In the only other Sunday game, Denver turned back Cincinnati 10-7 on a fourth-period touchdown pass from Steve Tensi to Mike Heffner. Saturday night. New York edged San Diego 23-20 and Kansas City beat Buffalo 18-7.

Houston, minus hospitalized quarterback Pete Beathard, was no match for previously winless Miami despite an early touchdown by Woodie Campbell. Willie West ran 20 yards with a lateral from John Bramlett, who recovered a Houston fumble, to tie the score and Larry Csonka gave the Dolphins the lead on a two-yard plunge. Bob Griese's 50-yard scoring pass to Karl Noonan iced it.

Griese completed seven of 12 passes for 92 yards and rookies Csonka and Jim Kiick rushed for 82 and 104, respectively. Bob Davis and Don Trull, filling in for Beathard, managed only seven completions in 23 attempts.

Quarterback Tensi, back in the Denver line-up for the first time since a pre-season injury, flipped a four-yard pass to Heffner in the closing minutes to give the Broncos their first victory. Tensi replaced Marlin "The Magician" Briscoe, who failed to move the Broncos.

Emerson Boozer plunged across on fourth down from a yard out to give the Jets their Saturday night win over San Diego before a record AFL crowd of 63,786. The Chargers had taken the lead with six minutes left when Gary Garrison caught his second touchdown pass of the game.

Jan Stenerud missed an extra point but kicked field goals of 18, 12, 16 and 15 yards in Kansas City's win over Buffalo. The conversion miss was Stenerud's first as a pro after 58 successful ones.

THAT WAS IT

That was it, for all practical purposes. Marin got inside the Sierra 30 twice after that, but couldn't score again.

"We were too inconsistent," was Reed's rueful admission after the game. "Penalties, interceptions (four) — we just made too many mistakes. But this is a good team, and we'll be all right in our league. As far as attitude goes, this team is as good as last year's, and not too far off in ability."

The Tars are at home to Yuba, ranked third in the small-school rankings, Friday night at 8 o'clock.

Los Angeles Topples 49ers' Hopes, 24-10

traveling to Milwaukee to battle the Green Bay Packers (2-2) who rebounded with a 38-7 triumph over Atlanta.

Roman Gabriel's pass to ex-49er Bernie Casey, on a play covering 41 yards, put Los Angeles on the scoreboard in the first period. They added another touchdown in the second when Gabriel dived over the line climaxing an 83-yard drive that took 19 plays.

TO McNEIL

San Francisco scored on a six-yard pass from Brodie to Clifton McNeil three plays after Clark Miller picked up a Gabriel fumble and rumbled 31 yards to the three.

In the third period the Davis field goal made it 14-10, but Gabriel hit Jack Snow for 26 yards and Tommy Mason for 24 during a 65-yard advance, which ended with Henry Dyer plowing over from the one.

San Francisco threatened early in the fourth stanza when Kermit Alexander intercepted a Gabriel pass on the Rams' 47 and returned to the 38. Brodie hit McNeil for 22. Then Brodie kept and ran from the 16 to the nine. He hurt his arm on the play and a penalty shoved the 49ers back to the 39 as center Bruce Bosley was guilty of holding.

TOUGH TIME

George Mira was introduced to the Ram defense with a 14-yard loss and the touchdown threat was completely erased. Minutes later, linebacker Maxie Baughan intercepted a Mira pass and set up a 19-yard field goal by Bruce Gossett completing the scoring.

Drake Wins Non-League Grid Scrap

The Drake Pirates survived a first-quarter electric shock, getting stunned by two jolting long touchdown runs, then came back to nick surprisingly tough George Washington of San Francisco, 19-12, behind quarterback Ed Harrington and a pack of junior backs at College of Marin Saturday night.

Washington quarterback Steve Radd ran off on a 91-yard jaunt off tackle 2:24 into the game and came back to whip 77 yards for another score that put Drake into a 12-0 hole.

Harrington, who wound up with 214 yards on 14 of 20 passes, drove the Pirates to a score, hitting on a key pass to Dave Alvarado for 40 yards to set up his own one yard TD plunge at the half.

The Pirates went ahead on a 55-yard drive with Mark Silverman scoring on a three-yard run. Harrington's 24-yard pass to Jim Dominquez set it up and Bob MacLean's point after kick put Drake ahead at 13-12.

The insurance score came on a 32-yard drive with a five-yard TD toss from Harrington to Alvarado.

Viking Quarterbacks Get Bumped Around, Still Win

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Minnesota quarterbacks might give an unhealthy appearance after a conk on the head and a crack in the shoulder, but the Vikings never had it so good.

Minnesota, with only one finish above .500 in its seven-year history, took sole possession of first place in the Central Division of the National Football League by beating Detroit 24-10 yesterday with two injured quarterbacks.

During intermission, Kapp was deemed least injured and cleared his head long enough to direct the Vikings to two touchdowns and a field goal in the final half for Minnesota's third victory in four starts.

The loss dropped Detroit from a share of the top spot into a 2-2 tie with Green Bay, which broke a two-game losing streak with a 38-7 rout over Atlanta.

Dallas, 4-0, had its troubles with St. Louis before Mike Clark's 50-yard field goal sparked a 27-10 victory over the Cardinals. But the New York Giants, 4-0, kept pace with the Cowboys in the Capitol Division with a 38-21 sweep over New Orleans.

Baltimore and Los Angeles, each also 4-0, were unable to shake each other in the Coastal Division as the Colts rode Earl Morrall's four touchdown passes past Chicago 28-7 and Roman Gabriel directed the Rams by San Francisco 24-10.

Washington held off Philadelphia 17-14 in the other Sunday contest.

Kapp returned in time to set up Fred Cox' 29-yard field goal before Bill Munson's 30-yard touchdown pass to Mel Farr tied it for Detroit.

But Kapp, running 20 yards and passing for 24 on one drive and throwing 53 yards to Gene Washington on a second, took the Vikings 73 and 39 yards for touchdowns.

The Packers climbed back into the race with 21 third-quarter points that spoiled Norm Van Brocklin's debut as Atlanta coach. Leading only 10-7 at the half, Donny Anderson ran for one score and then a fumble and a pass interception set up Bart Starr's second and third touchdown passes of the day.

Clark connected on the longest field goal of his career late in the third quarter and Chuck Howley stole a Jim Hart pass to set up a touchdown as Dallas broke a 10-10 tie.

A fumble recovery, an interception, and two pass interference calls set up four touchdowns for the Giants and a penalty on the apparent last play of the half made a field goal possible.

Morrall, still giving Baltimore little reason to miss injured Johnny Unitas, connected on scoring passes of 50, 45, 38 and 36 yards with 14 completions in 25 tries for 302 yards.

Sonny Jurgensen built Washington a 17-0 lead, throwing for one touchdown and running for another. But the Redskins barely survived as Norm Snead, returning after an exhibition game injury, passed for a touchdown and Al Haymond returned a punt 54 yards for another for the Eagles.

Oregon Stater Top Lineman

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Defensive guard Jon Sandstrom, who helped Oregon State come from behind in a 35-21 football victory over Washington, was named the Pacific-8 lineman of the week today.

The 6-foot-2, 235-pound veteran was credited with seven tackles and five assists.

The senior, a regular since his sophomore season, was named to the Coaches All-America team last year and made the All-Pacific Coast team.

He also was picked as the outstanding defensive lineman by the Pacific-8 Skywriters after their pre-season tour.

SEANCE ON A WET AFTERNOON

Umpires and players are out in the rain during the fourth game of the 1968 World Series at Tiger Stadium in Detroit as chief umpire Bill Kinnamon (left) raises his arm to signify the game is halted due to heavy rains. Tiger pitcher Denny McLain watches from the mound while umpire Jim Honochic (right) signals to the groundcrew to cover the field in the third inning. Barry Again Leads Way

ST. CLOUD, Minn. (AP) — Rick Barry continued to spark victories last night, scoring 37 points as the Oakland Oaks beat the Minnesota Pipers 118-115.

In a previous American Basketball Association preseason game, Barry scored 48 points as the Oaks defeated the Indiana Pacers 147-138 at Shelbyville, Ind. Saturday night.

Stewart Wins Grand Prix In Record-Breaking Time

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — Jackie Stewart drove his Matra-Ford Formula One auto to victory yesterday in the 10th Grand Prix of the United States and along the way he set two track records.

The 28-year-old Scotsman finished the 248-mile course at a record average speed of 124.89 miles per hour, finishing more than 24 seconds ahead of Englishman Graham Hill's Lotus-Ford.

John Surtees of England finished third in a Honda and Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., placed fourth in his Lotus-Ford.

TO SECOND

Stewart jumped to second place with 36 points in the race for the world driver's championship with his nine-point finish here.

Hill retained the lead at 39 points after picking up six points for second place.

Only the Mexican Grand Prix remained for these two to settle the 1968 title.

FASTER

Stewart's race average was more than five m.p.h. faster than the 1968 record set by the late Jim Clark of Scotland. Stewart's fastest lap of nearly 127 mph bettered the old 125.45 m.p.h. record, set by Hill when he won last year's race.

Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., in a Lotus-Ford, started in the pole position and grabbed the lead at the start. But Stewart moved into first two laps later and began to pull away.

Andretti went out of the race 45 minutes after the start with clutch trouble. Hill took over second, but Stewart had built up a 22-second lead and showed no signs of slowing down.

Gurney moved into third, Surtees grabbed fourth and the race took on a near train schedule predictability.

NEAR MISS

Stewart had about 10 laps to go to ensure his victory when he rounded the 180-degree turn following the backstraight and discovered two young fans trying to cross the track.

He held the car on line and went by within inches of them at about 100 m.p.h.

"It was the closet I've ever come to anyone," he said after the race.

Only Hill remained on the same lap as Stewart when the Matra-Ford screamed by the checkered flag to give him $20,000 first prize money and a silver bowl.

RICHEST

This race, worth more than $103,000 in prize money, was the richest Grand Prix in history.

Josef Siffert of Switzerland placed fifth in a Lotus Ford; Bruce McLaren, New Zealand, was sixth in his McLaren Ford and Piers Courage of England was seventh in a BRM.

Eighth place went to Hulme, who completed 93 laps before he crashed, one more than a ninth-place finish by Lucien Bianchi of Italy in his Cooper-BRM.

Tough Choice Between O.J. And Keyes

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Ask a man who knows, and he'll tell you that it's a tough choice between Leroy Keyes and O. J. Simpson.

"Of course," he said, "I'd like to have both of them," but in a more realistic vein, Agase would have a hard time picking one over the other.

"O. J. is a more dangerous runner but Keyes is more versatile and can do more things," the coach said.

Keyes demonstrated his varied talents for the Northwestern coach as he ran for 96 yards in 22 carries, scored three touchdowns and gained 46 more yards on passes from Mike Phipps as Purdue romped 43-6 last Saturday.

Simpson's performance a week earlier was just as spectacular as he reeled off 189 yards and three touchdowns.

O. J. BREAKS THROUGH

Simpson led his number two ranked Southern California team to a 28-3 victory over 12th-rated Miami of Florida last Saturday night. Simpson foiled a tough Hurricane defense, led by end Ted Hendricks, as he rushed for 163 yards on 38 carries and scored two touchdowns.

Cadets Lose To Kelseyville

San Rafael Military Academy Cadets suffered their first football loss of the season Saturday, 19-0 to Kelseyville High School at San Rafael.

San Rafael (2-1) penetrated within Kelseyville's 20-yard-line five times, including once on a 55-yard runback of an intercepted pass by Tom Kewell, but couldn't crack the visitors' stiff defense.

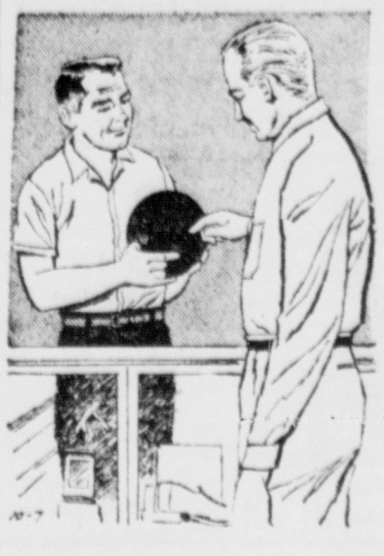
BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



Don't be reluctant to use a ball that is lighter than the maximum 16 pounds. Ordinarily, an experienced male bowler of average size and health will go to 16 pounds, but if a 14 or 15-pounder seems to work best for you, use it. Bowlers of advanced years should certainly consider a somewhat lighter ball instead of struggling with the same projectile they used as a 25-year-old.

Harnquist Wins San Geronimo Golf

Kenneth Harnquist of Ross won the San Geronimo National Men's Golf Club championship for the second straight year Saturday with a 72-hole gross score of 311.

John Roth won the handicap division with a low net of 283, followed by Paul O'Neill at 285, Ron Gable at 290 and Harnquist at 291.

The tournament was played over four weekends.

St. Vincent's Eleven Wins Over Albany

St. Vincent's High School of Petaluma scored in the first quarter and held on grimly right down to the final gun to edge Albany High 7-6 in a non-league football game at Petaluma Saturday night.

PACIFIC-8

Cal, Stanford Still Unbeaten

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Bay Area, traditional weak link in the Pacific-8 football conference, is getting excited about its two winning football teams, California and Stanford.

Stanford downed Air Force 24-13, and California swamped San Jose State, 46-0, Saturday to put the Indians and Bears at 3-0 with the University of Southern California, which beat Miami, 28-3.

Other games this weekend feature Oregon, 0-3 after a 21-6 loss to Ohio State, at Washington, 1-1-1 after getting beat 35-21 by Oregon State; UCLA, 2-1 after being upset by Syracuse, entertaining Penn State; Washington State, 1-2, at Arizona State; and Oregon State, 2-1, at Kentucky.

Jim Plunkett, Stanford's most promising quarterback since John Brodie, threw two touchdown passes and scored one himself in the victory over Air Force, giving the Indians their best season start in 14 years.

California's victory over hapless San Jose State, paced by Bob Darby's two short touchdown runs and Randy Humphries' 140 yards passing and 33 running, gives the Bears their best start since 1952.

O. J. Simpson scored his eighth and ninth touchdowns of the year and fell below 200 yards rushing for the first time with 163 as USC clipped Miami.

"O. J. Simpson is the only thing I'll be thinking about for the whole week," said Stanford linebacker Pat Preston.

UCLA couldn't hold Syracuse's running attack as the Orangemen, paced by Al Newton's 121 yards, rolled up 251 yards on the ground in stopping the Bruins, 20-7.

Oregon State, coming back after a season opening 21-20 upset by Iowa, relied on Steve Preece's passing to sink Washington after trailing 14-7 at the half.

Big fullback Bill Enart ran for two touchdowns and halfback Bill Main ran one and 14 yards for two touchdowns and scored another on Preece's two-yard pass.

Powerful Ohio State led Oregon only 7-6 at the half before 70,000 at Columbus, Ohio, but shut the Ducks out without a first down in the second half.

Utah defensive back Jim Street broke a 7-7 tie with a 97-yard run against Washington State and after the Cougars tied it again, Utah's Jim Sears booted a nine-yard field goal to give the Redskins a 17-14 victory.

ALMANAC

Today is Monday, Oct. 7, the 281st day of 1968 with 85 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1863, William Gladstone, British chancellor of the Exchequer, predicted that the American Confederacy would remain separated from the northern United States permanently.

In 1916, the most staggering defeat in football history occurred when Georgia Tech trounced Cumberland College 222 to 0.

In 1963, Bobby Baker resigned as Senate Democratic secretary after being charged in a $300,000 civil suit with using his influence for personal monetary gain.

A thought for the day—Scottish novelist James Matthew Barrie once said: "Those who bring sunshine to the lives of others cannot keep it from themselves."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Cunning Play From East Sends South To Defeat At Four Spades

I am looking forward to my bridge cruise to the Orient right after Christmas because I haven't played bridge in China since 1944. I don't expect to get many hands more interesting than one we played in Chungking that year, almost forgetting the war that had brought us together.

HEART ACTION

East won the first trick with the ace of hearts and continued the suit to South's king. Declarer got to dummy with a diamond in order to lead a trump.

East played the jack of spades, and South won with the king. Correctly distrusting East's play, South led another diamond to dummy and led another trump.

East stepped up with the ace of spades and led the deuce of clubs. As West, I won with the king of clubs and had no trouble working out what was going on. I led another diamond, and East's ruff defeated the contract.

"The cunning of the East," I murmured gratefully to my partner, a young Chinese officer. His underlead of the ace of clubs had enabled us to defeat the contract.

TACTFUL SILENCE

Then we both looked at the lieutenant from Louisiana who had played the hand at four-spades. This was not a tactful time for us to point out that the wisdom of the South should have headed off the cunning of the East.

Declarer should have made the contract. After winning the first trump trick with the king South should lead the queen of clubs. This club trick must be lost sooner or later, and South wants to give it up before the defenders can do anything with it.

Since only one diamond has been led, West cannot give his partner a ruff. No matter what is returned, South can get to dummy with a second diamond in order to lead another trump. East takes his ace of spades but cannot get to his partner for a diamond ruff.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠—K Q 9 8 4 2
♥—K 9
♣—Q J5 2
♦—Q
What do you say?

Answer: Bid one spade.

You count 13 points in high cards, two points for the singleton and one point for the doubleton, but you should not really count this as a 16-point hand. The singleton queen of clubs is simply not worth two points for being a queen and two more points for being a singleton. This is really a borderline opening bid, and many experts would prefer to pass rather than open the bidding with this aceless wonder.

Market On Mixed Side At Closing

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed mixed today. Trading was fairly active.

The list was higher in the morning as it continued a three-week advance. By noon, however, it was apparent that the market had a struggle to maintain a gain. The pattern turned irregular in the afternoon.

Losses outnumbered gains by a fairly narrow margin, but the Dow Jones industrial average held a gain, thanks to strength in some blue chips.

Gains of a point or so were scored by such blue chips as Du Pont, American Can and General Electric while General Foods advanced about 2.

National General traded steadily at a loss of about 2 while Great American Holdings remained untraded late in the day. National General said it had acquired 75 per cent of American Holdings.

Endicott Johnson advanced more than 3, and the Villager Inc. held a fractional gain. They were reported intending to merge.

In a generally lower steel section, Jones & Laughlin climbed about 2 points. Fractional losses were the portion of U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic Steel.

Continental Telephone, up a fraction, paced the list on volume, followed by Bunker Ramo, also up a fraction.

CIT Financial and AMK Corp., each down a point or so, were among heavily traded losers.

Bank Earnings Up

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Crocker-Citizens National Bank's net operating earnings after taxes for the first nine months of 1968 amounted to $21,544,513, an increase of $3,665,832, or 20.5 per cent, over the comparable figure for 1967 of $17,878,681, or $2.08 per share for the first nine months of 1968 compared to $1.73 a year ago.

Annual New Auto Ritual Concludes

DETROIT (UPI)—The annual early fall American ritual of man's romance with the automobile is over now. New car introductions have been completed.

Chrysler Corporation led off the yearly rites on Sept. 19, followed by General Motors and Ford a week later, and American Motors Oct. 1.

Early fall introductions are standard now—they have been for nearly a quarter century. But it was not always so. Introductions have run practically around the calendar.

In the early years, when Henry Ford was about the only major manufacturer, he just kept making cars. After closing up business Dec. 31, he'd just open up after the new year and start making cars with new numbers denoting the next year's batch. Styling changes were few.

But then some manufacturers got the idea of pre-dating their cars. In 1913 for example, the automakers introduced their 1914 cars in April and May. Gradually, the industry settled on mid or late summer introductions.

Actually, the settlement on early fall as a standard introduction date was born of the Great Depression of the 1930s.

In 1931, for example, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution urging the manufacturers to introduce their new cars during November and December, hoping that winter display time would stimulate sales the following spring. Then, in 1936, the chamber passed another resolution urging the makers to move the introduction ahead two months—into September—to spur business activity during the fall.

This was done, earning the appreciation of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. He saluted the industry for "its leadership in the vanguard of recovery."

The introduction period has stayed there ever since with minor variations in dates, except for the years immediately following World War II. Automaking equipment was put in mothballs during the war, and when the conflict ended in September, 1945, manufacturers had to scramble just to get back into car production.

The best the automakers could manage in 1945 was December and January introductions for 1946 models—and they were really only warmed-over models of the 1942s which had just started in late 1941 before production was stopped to change over to war materials.

The demand for new cars then kept the manufacturers so busy for so long they hardly had time to shut down for model changeovers. Finally, by 1949, things were back to normal and introductions returned to their normal autumn slots. They've been there ever since while a whole new generation of car buyers grew up.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My sister and I, as joint tenants with right of survivor, control $75,000 of capital assets, more than half of which are invested in two mutual funds. Another $15,000 is divided among three stocks: 50 shares of Lums, 200 Avnet (split twice since purchased) and 100 Computing & Software. The balance represents cash and real estate. We're in our mid-60s. Should we change anything? — T.K.

A. It's good to hear from two older women who should expect to live out their years in comfort without financial strain. Yet thus far it seems to me you have not given enough attention to producing maximum income to assure yourselves this carefree comfort.

You have been attracted by growth potential — possibly to hedge against inflation — and in this respect you have achieved above-average results from your three speculative stocks and your older fund, National Investors.

Chase Frontier, your other fund, is too recently organized to weigh its growth possibilities. It might be redeemed later should you need cash in an emergency.

If there are no heirs to consider, I suggest that you look into the guaranteed life income from a joint and survivor annuity into which you could switch the capital from your three stocks, as two of these pay no dividends and the third returns a very small one. Such an annuity offers maximum income with safety.

Q. What is the procedure for transfer of stock title to two children now come of age for whom I acted as custodian? There must be a simpler method than sale and reissue of shares with attendant commission charge. — F.G.

A. There is, indeed. The custodian sends the stock certificates to the transfer agent, at the same time submitting proof of age for the new adult owners. New certificates will then be issued on which the new owners' names will appear.

Bank Reports Gain

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — The Bank of California has reported an 18 per cent gain in third quarter earnings, compared with a year ago, to net earnings of $5,083,056, $2.67 per share, in contrast to $4,678,697 and $2.46 per share for the same period in 1967.

LITTLE OLD LADY'S HOUSE

(with extra bldg. site)

She's 84! She loves her home, but it's too much for her to keep up. Her property consists of a 2 bedroom stucco home with dining room and living room with fireplace. It's quaint and charming. It needs attention. The extra building site has a 2 car concrete garage with workshop. It's a gentle upslope, sunny view site, 3 blocks from Miller Avenue. There are lovely old oaks and a gorgeous view of Mt. Tam. Speculators and builders have made numerous offers trying to buy the extra site alone. If you're interested in buying the house we might be able to work out a sale with the house and its lot, selling for about $21,500. The asking price of both parcels is $31,500. The seller is a close friend of the Allen Company. Should you be interested in this one-of-a-kind property she has asked that you call us for arrangement to show her home.

HALF OVER 65

Hearing Problems Trouble Nearly 8 Million In U.S.

By SCIENCE SERVICE

WASHINGTON—Approximately 8 million people in the United States have a hearing problem, according to the Public Health Service. Half of these are 65 or older.

Some 4 million people have a hearing loss sufficient to require a hearing aid but do not have one. Of the 400,000 who buy hearing aids each year, more than 95 per cent purchase from a hearing aid dealer; half without any prior medical advice.

And there are 300 to 400 different hearing aid models on the market, according to the Consumers Union, Mount Vernon, N.Y. Its president, Colston Warne, says people who need a hearing aid are awed by the high cost, bewildered by the variety of models available, and confused by the exaggerated and conflicting claims made for them.

"All sorts of professionals and quasiprofessionals," he says, "ranging from physicians certified as ear specialists to high-pressure salesmen, are ready and eager to advise the hard of hearing in their choice. Thus it is difficult for the consumer to reach a sound judgment."

While the consumer is befuddled for lack of information, the Veterans Administration, thanks to research done for it at the National Bureau of Standards, has all the information on hearing aids that a layman would need to intelligently select one. But the V.A. refuses to make a public disclosure of its data. Court action to force the V.A. to release its information is pending.

Meanwhile, the hearing aids industry and health experts disagree over what ought to be done.

Government sources cite as the major problem a lack of sufficient professional personnel to advise on hearing aid selection. Present-day speech and hearing facilities cannot accommodate much more than 10 per cent of all persons buying a hearing aid each year. Some 96 major cities in the U.S. do not have a single hearing center.

Surgeon General William Stewart lists possibilities for federal action including model laws to cover the dispensing of the aids, and a program for testing hearing aids and audiometers and disclosing the information to the public.

Industry spokesmen, on the other hand, describe the present system for dispensing hearing aids as more than adequate. Samuel Lybarger, president of the Hearing Aid Conference, says, "We believe the U.S. Public Health Service figures testify to the success of the system. The service says 93 per cent of hearing aid wearers who use their aids constantly are satisfied with the performance."

Consumers Union's Warne feels that the real problem for the consumer in selecting a hearing aid is that there isn't enough information available to him to tell whether, for example, a $100 version will do rather than the $350 model. Warne says the Veterans Administration has rated all hearing aid brands based on test data supplied by the Bureau of Standards, and that the V.A. uses this data in selecting hearing aids for veterans. Warne claims the V.A. has steadfastly refused to make its data available to Consumers Union; nor will NBS release its data, having been pinched between consumers and industry before when it attempted to make public its evaluations of consumer products.

Warne asks, "By what authority should the Government be able to employ its scientific resources to aid one group of consumers—veterans—while denying these very resources to all others?"

While such conservative quarters as the Wall Street Journal are in agreement with Consumers Union in its battle with the V.A., Sen. Clifford Hansen, R-Wyo., is not. He says that if the V.A. disclosed its data, the action would set a precedent for the Government to disclose test data on any and all products.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, says that "regulation of industry is always a last resort after other measures fail. I think that basically we have a consumer education problem here."

East Africa Under Threat From A Plague Of Locusts

LONDON (SS) — A plague of locusts has arrived in East Africa, according to Dr. Philip M. Symmons of the Desert Locust Information Service in London.

Dr. Symmons reports that Northern Sudan is infested with locusts in all stages of development.

Numerous small swarms of immature insects are reported along the Red Sea coastal plains of Ethiopia. There have been many reports of swarms in various stages of maturity from the Somali Republic, including one swarm covering an estimated 194 square kilometers.

Aerial spraying of dieldrin and other insecticides is being tried as a control measure, with no reports as yet of its effectiveness.

In India, where locust plagues are feared this year but have not yet materialized, a new and cheap locust deterrent is being tried. A water suspension of ground nim seed kernels is sprayed on threatened crops. Entomologists of the Indian Agricultural Research Institute report that even hungry locusts would rather starve than eat leaves so sprayed. A suspension containing .1 per cent of nim seed is reported sufficient to ward off locusts for two to three weeks.

Storm Brews Over Uses Of Soda Pop Sweetners

By SCIENCE SERVICE

WASHINGTON — Behind the marble facades of Washington a storm is brewing about, among other things, soda pop. The pop-makers, who have been sweetening an increasing number of their bottles with artificial sweeteners, may not be too happy when the storm breaks.

Americans consume 8,000 tons of artificial sweeteners every year — in pop, coffee, dietary foods, candy and the like — confident that the chemical sweeteners are safe. Manufacturers insist that they are; the sugar industry — watching a $300 million inroad into its market — insists they are not. Each side presents scientific evidence to support its claim.

As recently at 1965, manufacturers of the nonnutritive, noncaloric sweeteners chemically known as cyclamates, had the Food and Drug Administration on their side. "There is no evidence," FDA stated then, "that cyclamates, at present use levels, are a hazard to health."

On another look, last year FDA noted the boom in diet drinks, saw that cyclamates were added to innumerable foods and quietly modified its stand. "There is no evidence, yet," it hedged.

At present there is no law or regulation about labeling cyclamates. There are cautionary warnings, in fine print on many products, that artificial sweeteners are for persons who "must restrict" their dietary intake of sugar. Although they appear to apply to cyclamates, they technically are required only for the saccharin component of common cyclamate-saccharin combinations.

Both cyclamate, which is 30 times as sweet as sugar, and saccharin, which is 300 times as sweet, leave a bitter taste if used singly. Together, in a mixture of 10 parts cyclamate and one part saccharin, they leave no bitter aftertaste.

The major issue in what both cyclamate manufacturers and sugar people see as potentially a billion dollar battle rests on the quantity consumed. There is no doubt that in large doses cyclamates cause softening of the stools, sometimes diarrhea. Some pediatricians reportedly prescribe diet colas as laxatives.

Scientists for Abbott Laboratories, Chicago, the largest cyclamate producer, claim that people simply do not consume enough of the chemical to cause any trouble. Five grams (the amount contained in eight 16-ounce bottles of pop) is considered a large dose. Their statistics show that even among teen-agers, who consume more than any other group, three and a half grams a day is unusual. Researchers supported by sugar interests dispute this.

They cite evidence of more serious cyclamate-induced effects. In studies on rats, Drs. Paul Nees and Philip Derse, of the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation, found tissue changes in the testes, kidneys, adrenals and pancreas. The Wisconsin group is supported by the Sugar Research Foundation, New York.

French researchers report structural changes in the intestines of animals ingesting cyclamates. In April, a team of Austrian scientists showed liver changes in four guinea pigs fed cyclamates and impaired coagulation of the blood in rabbits that ate the artificial sweetener.

But the argument does not end there. When cyclamates were first approved, scientists believed they were excreted unchanged from the body, but testing within the last four years indicates that some individuals do metabolize the chemical, breaking it down into its original cyclohexylamine.

Recently Dr. Derse discovered four other metabolites of cyclamate in the urine of animals. "Exactly what toxic effects (if any) these products may have remains unknown," he observes, "but it is important that we find out."

Bankok has replaced Singapore as a diplomatic center with offices of the U.N. and headquarters of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization there.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Electrocardiograph Tracings Like A Heart's Fingerprints

VAN DELLEN

The electrocardiogram (EKG) records the path of electrical currents through the auricles and ventricles. When a small portion of the heart muscle is destroyed by coronary thrombosis, the electrical activity bypasses the lesion causing an alteration in the tracing.

When the current is delayed or blocked, the timing is changed indicating a heart block. Many of these individuals have a very slow pulse that does not increase during exercise or emotional upheavals. The brain does not get enough blood and dizziness or fainting ensue.

MORE THAN 30,000 Americans with this problem are alive today thanks to electrical pacemakers. These "watch size" devices are inserted under the skin and connected to the heart with special wires in order to step up the rate.

An EKG is the most accurate aid for diagnosing pulse irregularities. Some disturbances in rhythm, such as premature beats (extrasystoles), may be normal, especially among persons who smoke heavily or drink too much coffee and tea.

Heart damage may do the same, and it is here that the physician uses the electrocardiogram as an adjunct. Other irregularities are more serious and require skillful care.

Electrocardiographic tracings are as constant as fingerprints.

A CHANGE obviously means that something is wrong. It only tells what is happening to the organ, not what will happen. Following a heart attack, several days may elapse before the EKG reading changes. Unless chest pain coexists, the condition may be missed until a second or third tracing demonstrates the changing pattern.

Failure to repeat the "gram" may explain why some persons with mild symptoms who consult a physician are given a "clean bill of health" only to die of a heart attack a few hours later.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

PARENTS RULE

J. M. writes: I am 30 years old, married, and the mother of four children. But I am still under my parents' rule. I do as they say even when decisions concern my family and home. My wonderful husband has been very patient. Is there something wrong with me or am I just immature?

REPLY

You may be immature or perhaps your parents are domineering. It is important to be considerate but the needs of your husband and children come first.

SLEEPING PILLS

I. L. writes: For two years I have not been able to sleep without taking a pill. How can I break myself of this habit?

REPLY

Stop. No one ever died from lack of sleep. Eliminate all stimulants, avoid emotional conflicts, and see that the bedroom environment is conducive to slumber. If all this fails, take a course in progressive relaxation.

HEALTH HAZARDS AT 70

A reader writes: Do people who reach the age of 70 go through some kind of stress on the nerves or the circulation?

REPLY

After 70, anything can happen. But, in general, circulatory disorders are more common than conditions involving the nerves.

TV REVIEW

'Laugh-In' Socking It To Others

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—A very early ratings survey of 30 key market indicates that NBC-TV's "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" is socking it to the other shows spectacularly this new season.

Although it is rather early in the season to be making ratings judgments, all the statistics thus far—daily and otherwise—are unquestionably clear in establishing the "Laugh-In" position.

The 30-market survey ranked "Laugh-In" second only to CBS-TV's new "Mayberry R.F.D." series. And although "Mayberry R.F.D."—the successor to the Andy Griffith show—probably earned its high rating mainly because of Griffith's fictional marriage on the opening episode, it is still an impressive start.

The more decisive national ratings, which tend to put more emphasis on the provinces and upgrade less sophisticated shows in the rankings, will nevertheless also prove the remarkable "Laugh-In" success against two CBS-TV big guns "Gunsmoke" and Lucille Ball.

Early in the season or not, the 30-market survey also tends to substantiate the beliefs of close watchers of the numbers race that NBC-TV's "Julia" is already a hit, and that CBS-TV's Doris Day situation comedy is likewise a solid success.

Both of these are new series. And "Julia," the most publicized of the freshman entries, is the first major network series to star a Negro actress, Diahann Carroll. "Julia" finished fourth in the 30-market rankings, and Miss Day's show came in eighth.

The remainder of the top 15 shows were—except for "Mayberry R.F.D."—all veteran series, such as "Family Affair," "Mission: Impossible," "Gomer Pyle," and the movies, as well as the Dean Martin, Carol Burnett and Lucille Ball programs, and a Bob Hope special.

Among the other new shows that indicated possible ratings strength were "The Mod Squad," "The Good Guys," "Land of the Giants," "Here Comes the Brides," "The Outsider," "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir" and "The Outcasts."

The new series that failed to show initial ratings power in the 30-market survey — although some may do better in the national rankings — included: "Hawaii Five-O," "That's Life," "Blondie," "Adam-12," "Lancer," "The Ugliest Girl In Town," "Journey to the Unknown," the big-budget "Name of the Game," "The New Adventure of Huckleberry Finn" and the Phyllis Diller and Don Rickles shows.

Parking Survey For Courthouse Asked Of Council

A new study of parking at the San Rafael Courthouse — with an eye on purchasing the property — may be authorized by the city council at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen has recommended that the council ask D. Jackson Faustman, Sacramento parking expert, to undertake the study at a maximum cost of $1,000.

The council made it clear in August it still covets the courthouse property, held by the county. Efforts to sell the property have failed.

In other action Monday, the council will consider three appointments to two city agencies. Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson resigned from the library board, effective Sept. 16, and the terms of Dino Ghilotti and Mrs. Norma Wall on the parks and recreation commission expire this month.

MOONLIGHT SALE PREVIEW

Eskimos and Tlingit Indians of North America believe the aurora borealis, or northern lights, are the spirits of the dead at play.

Weird But True: A Submarine Damages Auto

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Paul Camplin, a retired Navy man now working for the state, recalls the time a submarine ran over an auto.

The bow of the craft skidded across the wall and came to rest squarely on top of a car parked near the landing area.

When the owner appeared, he demanded that all crew members sign a statement giving details. The owner explained: "What insurance company would believe me if I didn't have a lot of witnesses reporting that this car was run over by a submarine?"

Archeological Feat Finished

ABU SIMBEL, Egypt (AP) — The greatest archeological surgery in history is now complete and successful. The twin temples of Abu Simbel, standing safely on their new home, look down with majestic disdain on the waters of Lake Nasser, which had once threatened them.

In an operation lasting 53 months archeological surgeons from France, West Germany, Italy, Sweden and Egypt cut the two temples into 6,000 blocks, each weighing 20 to 30 tons.

With electronically guided saws and fine chisels, the cutting operation was undertaken with extreme care to reduce scars to a bare minimum.

Linen soaked in special glue was pasted on the stone before saws went through them. This averted distortion in stone edges.

Use of explosives was prohibited. Some 195,000 cubic yards of rock was removed using only bulldozers, rippers and pneumatic tools, while the front facades of the temples were protected by sand filling and temple chambers deep in the rock were supported by steel scaffolding.

Stone blocks were wrapped in foam rubber and transported 220 feet higher than the old site. Each stone block was given special markings to determine its relation to other blocks.

Scientists planned it so that the two temples stand on their new home facing the rising sun every morning. Sun rays penetrate the temples' chambers and corridors and engulf four prominent gods in the innermost sanctuary.

This work saved the 32-century-old temples from waters rising behind the new Aswan Dam. The project cost $38 million; the United States and Egypt bore most of this.

Chemists, archeologists, architects and egyptologists used special materials to stick together the carved stone blocks. Synthetic resin, a type of glue known as epoxy resin mortar, was the main one.

The joints between the blocks were filled with a special mortar and powdered sandstone mixed with an adhesive and having the same color of the stone surroundings. The joints and scars were completely disguised.

Two huge protecting domes were erected on the temples and over them rocks were piled. The rocks were injected with epoxy and other noncorrosive hardeners.

The next step was to remove the "bandages." Water was sprayed over reassembled chunks and the linen became loose and easy to pull away. By some error, epoxy leaked on the facade of the king's temple and caused a stain. Scientists are working to erase it.

A line of 21 stone baboons greeting the rising sun stand on top of the temple for the Pharaoh Ramses. The king's temple, dedicated to the worship of the sun god Re-harakhti, is decorated at its entrance with four seated colossi of Ramses, each bearing a inexplicable smirk.

Ramses, known in history as an egocentric Pharaoh, kept an elaborate harem of more than 70 wives. He preferred the beautiful, shapely Nefertari for whom he built the small temple and dedicated it to Hat-hor, the goddess of dance and music.

Ramses had 111 sons and 67 daughters.

Can Asphalt Patches Aid In Bringing On Rainfall?

MIAMI (SS) — Coating patches of ground with asphalt could make rainfall, says Dr. M. A. Estoque of the University of Miami.

Blackening a relatively large land surface this way creates an area of intense local heat. In principle, this can set up convection currents in the air above the asphalt, and these can produce clouds and then rain.

Dr. Estoque points out a natural example: the formation of clouds over islands in the daytime. The surface of the islands is heated more than the surrounding sea by the sunlight, and clouds and showers often are formed over them.

A computer model is being developed to determine whether such an effect could be expected from extensive asphalt pavements on a strip of land about six miles in width. Although the work is still in its initial stage, Dr. Estoque says, "Asphalt coatings could definitely increase rainfall in many regions of the earth." This would be especially likely, he feels, in places where rain is often on the verge of falling but lacks a small impulse to trigger it.

Dental Patient Has An Excuse

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — A young New Zealander kissed a beautiful woman in the elevator after going to the dentist — and ended up in court on a charge of assaulting a female.

The court suppressed his name, convicted him and discharged him without penalty after his defense counsel explained that he had been "in a state of euphoria" following a massive dose of pain killer at the dentist's.

Said the defense counsel: "She was a woman of considerable pulchritude; in fact she is extremely beautiful."

These two girls achieve skill quickly on the Ride-A-Roo ball, which offers year around fun and exercise. It is available at Toy World in the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

One In 50 Persons Unable To Detect Certain Odors

ALBANY (SS) — The color blind are unable to detect one or another of the three primaries, red, blue and green. Other people, perhaps one in 50, are anosmic — they cannot detect certain odors.

From this fact, Dr. John E. Amoore theorizes that there are primary smells analogous to the primary colors, from which all other smells can be made. Anosmic people are insensitive to one or more of these primary colors.

At present 20 or 30 odors are suspected of being primaries. A primary odor would have a peculiar molecular shape which would exactly fit an odor detector in the nose. A non-primary odor might bear structural resemblance to two or more primary odors, and thus might activate two or more types of detector and produce a blended odor sensation. Or the non-primary molecule might fit the detector only imperfectly, resulting in a weaker sensation.

Dr. Amoore, of the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Albany (Alameda County), is conducting a computer screening program to compare structures of odor molecules. The primary odor theory would gain strength if similar odors prove to have similar structures.

Presides Over 125,000 Employees

By ROBERT MUSEL

NEW YORK (UPI)--Robert W. Sarnoff heads a company whose annual income exceeds that of some small nations. He presides over the destinies of 125,000 employees whose activities bring in nearly $400,000 an hour.

Every hour.

One day recently, over lunch in his private dining room on the 52nd floor of the headquarters building of RCA, he was asked, among other questions, how a man goes about running a $3 billion-plus-a-year giant?

Sarnoff is just 50, tall, outgoing, with half-moon eyes that crinkle readily into good humor. He is the son of the chairman of the board and founder of the company, David Sarnoff, and well aware of the usual comment such relationships inspire. But RCA and the rugged world of big business is not Hollywood. You can be helped only so far up the ladder; at the highest rungs the ultimate test is ability.

Behind him when he was elected president and chief administrative officer in January, 1966, were 25 years of experience in communications including a decade with the National Broadcasting Co.

From his deak at the apex of the 15th biggest company in the United States Sarnoff makes the final decisions not only on the tangible present but on the less certain future now beginning to emerge in the laboratories.

Always in his mind, he said, is the fact that a majority of the products now manufactured by RCA were not in existence ten years ago, that new products have a shorter life cycle than ever before, that the creator of a new product can reap rich rewards only if he can get it to the market on time.

"I give a lot of attention to the problem of reducing the time between the conception of a product and its appearance in the market," he said. "you can't survive on a single product any more, you can't assume it will last indefinitely."

So, he went on, RCA is experimenting with liquid crystals which may someday produce clocks without moving parts, and flat color television screens. He sees the home of the next few years turning into a communications center where today the only two-way link with the outside world is the telephone; the family able to record visual information transmitted over TV circuits, perhaps even receive a daily newspaper. He sees tiny power circuits making new products possible and he is convinced business will use computers for internal operations.

Sarnoff, whose salary is $225,000 a year, said no one man could possibly keep in close touch with all the new developments in a great complex which deals in such diverse fields as aerospace, education, information, communications, entertainment and even automobile rentals.

"You apply your time according to your priorities," he said. "There is no use spending time on small things. No matter how big a company is it's never big enough to do all the things it wants to do and so there is a constant battle between divisions, and occasionally friction. We have a group which can operate across the whole corporation on new products development. You can't, for example, have two divisions working on the same idea unless there is coordination."

"You must put the right men in the right jobs," he said. "There was a bit of moving about of manpower when I took office but no one quit." he is proud of this. "The staff must be an extension of the president. They come to you only with big problems, when they need help or when you're not happy with what's going on.

"The only trick to good management is to manage people.

"We have a small top echelon which is responsible for policy. This includes planning. Then another group sees to it that the policy is carried out. And beyond them there are those who are actually doing it.

"My job requires vigilance and reading of reports. I'm a good reader of final reports. I watch sales, progress of our home instruments sales, for instance. I watch the leasing of computers. I see if we are reasonably on target towards reaching our goals. I worry about large bids and about public relations.

"A corporation is a living organism. It keeps changing all the time. So a good deal of time is spent not only on new developments but no manpower."
